FARMER'S

GRAND FLORAL EXHIBIT

REFLECTS

THE LATEST MILLINERY ADORNMENTS,

FAVOURED BY FASHION FOR THE COMING SEASON.

EXQUISITE FLOWERS AND POSIES. CHARMING MOUNTS AND FEATHERS.

can truly realise. The skilful shaping of each bloom and leaf, and the exquisite blending of all colours might be easily mistaken for Nature's handiwork. Moreover, the delicate perfume with which many of the flowers are endowed emphasises the excellence of the imitation.

The variety of shade and kind is magnificent; added to this every spray or posy is marked at prices portraying FARMER'S STERLING VALUES, thereby doubling the attraction. Roses are to be seen in every describable shade, while Chrysanthemums and Violets and rare exotic blooms are represented as never before. Posies and Feather Mounts, too, play a part that will prove interesting to every lover of the novel and beautiful.

The completeness, freshness, and novelty of this display are to be seen once again this morning, and will prove a decided attraction to Saturday visitors. You are cordially invited to inspect, and will not be importuned to purchase.

THE REASON WHY
"UNION" MARINE ENGINES
Still occupy the first place in the Marine Engine World.
"UNION" ENGINES have been manufactured for over twenty-eight consecutive years.
THE FIRST commercially successful Marine Benzine Engine was a "UNION."
THE FIRST reversible Marine Engine was a "UNION."
THE FIRST make and break ignition system was a "UNION" invention.
THE FIRST open crosshead cylinder and piston were brought out by a "UNION."
THE FIRST to adopt the column construction, now used by practically every firm building heavy duty engines was the "UNION."
"UNION" ENGINES have always been up-to-date, but at the same time conservative.
In view of the foregoing facts, it is not surprising that the name "UNION" stands for everything that is good in a Marine Engine.
You cannot afford to buy cheaper makes of engines, when so much solid cash value is wrapped up in the "UNION."
Our catalogue gives full particulars of these famous engines, and we shall be pleased to mail a copy in response to a genuine inquiry.

"COME OVER HERE."
"COME OVER HERE."
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 20th
(By the generosity of J. C. Williamson, Ltd.), Including Star Acts by Permission of all the leading Metropolitan Managements.
The Committee of the Hospital Matinee Fund desire to invoke the assistance of every citizen of this State in checking the existing wastage of child and mother life so extravagantly rife in our midst. Every summer witnesses a holocaust of our youngest and tiniest citizens, the vast majority of whom could be snatched from sickness and possible death, and restored to health and to future useful life. Remember, every child saved is a citizen gained. It is a native-born immigrant—incalculably the best kind of immigrant—a national trust and a national asset. The preciousness of the new-born infant to the State is recognised in every civilised land.
NOTE.—Under the direction of Mr. Jack Cannot, the popular comedian, an Auction Sale will be held at Her Majesty's Theatre on FRIDAY, Feb. 13, at 1 p.m., when the four stage boxes, five rows of the Reserved Stalls, and two rows of the Dress Circle will be offered to the Public.
All the rest of the seats will be available at usual prices. Dress Circle, 6/; Gallery, 2/.

Mr. Mervyn had no time to thank his sister-in-law for her consideration for his wishes. Delia appeared.

"Say, Delia," said Mrs. Dann, "is there a ruined cross or an ancient round tower anywhere alongside that amphitheatre of yours?"

"No," said Delia. "You see it's only a gravel pit really."

"They'd have been attractions," said Mrs. Dann, "especially if genuine. I reckon the side shows pay pretty near as well as the principal chef d'oeuvre. But if they're not there we'll just have to do the best we can to make them. Anyway we have that sacred spring of Father Roche's to fall back on. We can have the water pumped up by a wind vane, and the public will drink it out of antique crystal goblets at a fixed tariff. I don't see any reason why we shouldn't run a bottling industry; souvenir flasks, filled and corked on the spot, with a portrait of Father Roche on the labels, same style as the Polish count with the long moustache on the Hunyadi Janos bottles."

"I don't think," said Mr. Mervyn, "that Father Roche will ever —"

"He'll get his percentage," said Mrs. Dann.

"I can't agree—" said Mr. Mervyn.

"We couldn't put you on the bottles, said Mrs. Dann. "You'd be no kind of advertisement of the value of the sacred spring. You're too thin, Phil, and that's a fact. Father Roche's picture would sell two bottles to every one you'd get rid of. The priest is just the figure we want, kind of comfortable looking, as if the water had agreed with him."

Mr. Mervyn felt that there were "rocks and shelves very hideous" showing themselves everywhere in Mrs. Dann's proposals. The bottling of water from the Holy Well seemed to him the very worst kind of birthless tympany. He knew the well. A little row of white stones, laid with loving care, encircled it. A thorn tree bent over it. Upon the branches, held fast by the thorns, were bleached, discoloured scraps of cotton and flannel, fragments torn from the garments of women who came to the well, who asked that children might be given them, or the lives of children spared, or perhaps the souls of children saved, pathetic memorials of the prayers made now to some Christian spirit, the same prayers which had been made centuries before to the deities who held the land before the cross came to it.

Mr. Mervyn shuddered.

"I'll cable off to Dublin to-day," said Mrs. Dann, "and engage a sculptor to run us up an ancient cross. Celtic design, with shamrocks clustering round the base."

Mr. Mervyn could stand no more. Delia's gravel pit was not one of his favourite haunts. It bore too plainly the impress of human activity to attract him much; but it possessed beauties which appealed to him. The thought of its desecration moved him. Something of the strength of old John Owen came to him. He made his protest almost fiercely.

"You mustn't do such things," he said, "you'll ruin the place with your vulgar monstrosities."

"Father!" said Delia in astonishment.

Never in her life had she heard her father speak in such a way.

"Delia," said Mrs. Dann, "your papa's right. He's made me ashamed. Phil, I own up. I admire you some for speaking up straight. And you're right. You've got the finest silk-finished gloss of European culture, and when it comes to a question of artistic tout-ensemble you're there all the time. I've studied Italian art some, and I'm considered to have read more poetry than any woman in New York. But I admit that I never properly caught hold of the simplicity of nature. The vulgarity is deep down in me, and I don't know that I'll ever get rid of it. You're miles in front of me, Phil, in real refinement. When we're dealing with Europeans of the highest elegance it'll pay us to have that amphitheatre just plain, and let Judas Iscariot and Ananias play about spontaneously among the brambles. I see that now. The high brow Oxford professor would blush his rosiest if we set him down in front of a faked cross. I'm thankful to you for pointing that out."

Mr. Mervyn's anger vanished. The extraordinary softness of Mrs. Dann's answer melted him. He felt sorry that he had mentioned his objection to the erection of the Celtic cross. He could not bring himself to make another protest, one that would put a stop to the bottling of the water from the Holy Well.

"Same time, Phil," said Mrs. Dann, "we've got to have side shows. When we're through with the professors, and the uninstructed public begins to drop in, we'll have to provide some sort of supplementary attractions. That may not be art, but it's business. You've kicked against a Celtic cross, and I've given in. It wouldn't do. But what do you say now to advertising for a tame wolf hound?"

She paused and looked at her brother-in-law apprehensively.

"The animal wouldn't obtrude," she said. "He'd look natural. The public would gurgle a lot at the notion of being able to go home and say its hands had been licked by a real Irish wolf hound. We'd have the kind that reposes underneath the round tower with the rising sun in the background. That's real art, Phil, you can't deny it. There would be small statuettes of the quadruped on sale, imitation bronze. Nobody would grudge a dollar for a statue of a hound descended straight from the dumb friend of Brian Boru who fought alongside his royal master at the battle of Clontarf!"

Mr. Mervyn could not refuse his sister-in-law this small concession. After all a wolf hound or two, even a whole pack of wolf hounds, if a pack should turn out to be procurable, would add very little to the absurdity of the Druminawona Miracle Play. Mr. Mervyn felt sorry that he had made a stand against the round tower. He had, he feared, wantonly humiliated his sister-in-law. He had effected very little real good.

"I kind of feel you don't like the wolf hound," said Mrs. Dann. "Just you say now, Phil, and I'll scratch him off the list."

"No, no," said Mr. Mervyn, "but—"

"I think a wolf hound would be perfectly sweet," said Delia. "I've never seen one."

Mrs. Dann turned to the phaeton.

"I'll be off now," she said. "I'll examine your amphitheatre thoroughly, Delia, and then I'll step in and interview a few of your prominent citizens about the play."

"Do you really think," said Mr. Mervyn, "that Druminawona's altogether the most suitable place for this experiment of yours?"

"You produce another place with a better name," said Mrs. Dann, "and I'll take it on at once."

"We're very much out of the way here," said Mr. Mervyn, "and the people are backward in many of their ideas."

"I'm figuring on that backwardness. It kind of matches the name."

She took her place in the phaeton, and gathered the reins into her hand. Then she cracked the whip. Biddy, who had for some time been showing every sign of impatience, stood on her hind legs and shook her head playfully. Mr. Mervyn stared at her in amazement. At some remote period of the past, as a long-tailed filly in a field, Biddy may have been in the habit of prancing. Never once during her whole ten years at the rectory had she attempted any form of skittishness. Mrs. Dann cracked the whip again. Biddy came down heavily on her front legs, and looked round at Mr. Mervyn for admiration and applause. His face expressed nothing but surprise and sorrow. Biddy felt that she had behaved in a way unbecoming to her years. She was afraid to meet her master's eyes. The look of reproach in them filled her with shame. To Mrs. Dann's disappointment she pranced no more; but she trotted down towards the gate with unusual energy.

CHAPTER IX.

Delia turned to her father.

"Aunt Sally May is a darling," she said, "and I think it will be the greatest fun getting up the play. I do hope she'll ask me to act."

"Oh, I hope not," said Mr. Mervyn.

He spoke very earnestly. He had before him a horrible vision of Delia as the wife of Heber the Kenite hammering a nail into somebody's head, perhaps Bobby Sebright's.

"Father," said Delia, "why are you so hard on Aunt Sally May?"

"My dear! I certainly didn't mean——"

"You were quite rude to her about the Celtic cross. I don't see that it would do any one a bit of harm if she put up a Celtic cross. Lots of people do in graveyards and places."

Mr. Mervyn felt very much depressed. Biddy had proved disloyal, a fickle friend. She had transferred her allegiance shamelessly to Mrs. Dann. Now it seemed to him that Delia was deserting him too.

"And she was awfully nice about it," said Delia. "She gave in to you at once in the sweetest way. I was quite afraid she'd be angry."

Mr. Mervyn was pained. Delia was unjust to him. In the bitterness of his heart he made up his mind to tell her of the marriage arranged for her with Bobby Sebright. That would offend her. Her pride would rise in rebellion against such a plan. She would at once be estranged from Mrs. Dann, would return to her old trusting affection for her father.

"I must go back to my work now," said Delia. "I've got to start Onny at the washing. She won't do a thing till I go to her. But do think, father, you ought to try and be a little kinder to Aunt Sally May."

She went into the house as she spoke. Mr. Mervyn missed his opportunity.

A few minutes later the gate at the bottom of the rectory drive clanged. It was an iron gate and it always clanged unless it was shut with very great care. Mr. Mervyn peered through the trees and saw Aeneas Sweeny walking jauntily towards the house. It was quite plain to him that Aeneas had been drinking. He was scarcely surprised. Aeneas was seldom actually drunk, but it was his custom to drive off approaching sorrow, to welcome every kind of joy, and to cheer monotonous days, the days which had no special joy or sorrow in them, at the bar of one or another of the three public-houses in Druminawona. On the present occasion the coming of Mrs. Dann must have furnished him with his excuse. It was likely too that she had given him a coin, perhaps a coin of considerable value, when he brought up Biddy and the phaeton in the morning. Mr. Mervyn was grieved, but he anticipated no special annoyance. Aeneas' manners were good when he was sober. When he reached the state which he himself described as "being a bit careless" he became exceedingly respectful and polite.

"I beg your reverence's pardon," he said when he reached Mr. Mervyn, "but I'd be glad of a word with you if so be that I'm not interrupting you, and you busy."

Mr. Mervyn could not honestly say that he was busy. He might indeed, had he been a less truthful man, have pleaded press of work. A clergyman has this advantage over any other kind of man. No one can tell for certain whether he is working or not. Ordinary men go to offices when they work, and if they are not in offices it is reasonable to suppose that they are at leisure. A clergyman may be in the throes of sermon preparation, even if he is sitting in a chair in the sun. But Mr. Mervyn made no attempt to deceive Aeneas. He admitted, reluctantly, that he was in a position to receive any word that might be spoken to him.

"I'd as soon," Aeneas went on, "that your reverence wouldn't be troubling yourself any more on account of anything I might have said to you, and me not knowing rightly at the time the way things was."

Mr. Mervyn had several troubles, and was acutely conscious of them; but he was not fretting over any remark recently made to him by Aeneas Sweeny. He thought that Aeneas' conscience must have been rendered morbidly acute by the whisky he had drunk. It was always unwise to argue with a man in such a condition. Mr. Mervyn determined to humour him.

"Very well," he said graciously, "I'll think no more about it. And now you may as well be getting back to your work in the garden."

"She's a fine lady, so she is," said Aeneas thoughtfully, without moving from where he stood.

DAMS AND ORNAMENTAL LAKES.

(By W. GIBBONS COX, C.E.)

The recent correspondence in the "Herald," in which the fundamental necessity of drainage works was advocated in the city planning of Canberra, lays the problem open to special and particular treatment. A practice of many years in sub-artesian well-boring by the writer, in various parts of this country, in which the upper strata of the earth have been studied, both in theory and practice, and in the practical operations in the construction of water conservations or dams, in the dry interior country, suggests that an important feature of the work is in the minimising of seepage, by a proper location of the dams or ornamental lakes. In the case of the latter, in addition to the rainfall, an adequate gravitational supply must be provided by an adjacent reservoir at a high level to provide for loss by evaporation. In both cases, in order to ensure the most economic treatment of the subject, its geological bearings, i.e., the nature of the earth's upper crust, must be considered. Owing to an irregular original deposit of the tertiary formation borings show a change of strata both in nature and depth, within, in many cases, quite limited distances apart.

Sub-artesian water is the seepage from the rainfall, and is mostly obtained from the tertiary grit which exists in New South Wales under extensive areas. It is frequently covered up by a deposit of tertiary marl, which tends to hold down the accumulated waters in the grit. The marl varies from 20ft to 200ft in thickness, and the grit from 20ft to 100ft. Wherever there are natural springs they are from the grit. Many of the creeks of the interior are kept flowing by the abounding waters in this tertiary formation. The creeks are merely evanescent flood channels until they are cut down below the grit, and then their channels have a larger flow, except when hidden in sand, which is largely the debris of the grit.

Newell, a noted American writer, whose opinions, from my practice in America and Australia, I can fully confirm, says, in treating upon the arid sections of his country:—"The sandy nature of formations which are noted for their water-bearing capacity is the main cause of the conditions which allow some of the creek valleys to have a sub-flow of water equal to, or perhaps greater than, the visible creek. The water tends to move downward and forward under the influence of gravity, but, the rate of flow being diminished by friction and by adhesion to the surfaces of the grains, is far less than that of the water on the surface. While the latter may be travelling two or three miles in an hour, the moisture underground, even on coarse gravel, probably does not pass over this distance in a week or a month."

Another important consideration in regard to ornamental lakes is that water percolating beneath the surface is not only itself, for the time being, lost, but it is likely to carry with it, in solution, valuable earthy salts or plant food. It gradually travels by percolation or soakage, along the path of least resistance, filling up the voids, and gradually accumulating until it has raised the level of the water-plane, or ground-water, to the point of overflow. It seeks the lowest points, these being generally along the drainage lines of the valley. Here the water again comes to the surface, forming wet places or springs.

Taking into consideration the unknown conditions of the tertiary, or upper, strata, in locating dams or lakes, it is absolutely necessary to put down test borings in order to avoid a possible excess of water-bearing, surface inducing strata, which may lower the head of water in the conservation in an even greater degree than evaporation by the sun's heat. This necessitates, in the case of lake construction, an undue call upon the head supply conservation, which itself may be subject to equal seepage as well as evaporation. In a close study for many years of squatters' and other dams, which proved more or less failures as conservations, I have frequently found, after borings made in the vicinity, that seepage was a great cause of exhaustion of the supply, and that if the geological conditions had been previously shown by test borings, better sites would have been chosen for dam construction.

Short of test-borings, nothing definite can be known of the action of an accumulation of vast areas of surface water in any proposed lakes. There is a possibility of the seepage being so considerable that lower places in the locality may become subject to unwelcome wet, swampy places, which would be an unexpected enigma to, and avoided by, residents of a country so conditioned. To quote an old country dictum, "What is worth doing at all is worth doing well." It should hold a first place in the economy of Australia.

JEAN HENRI FABRE.

M. Fabre, the great French naturalist, recently entered upon his 91st year. Darwin described him as an "inimitable observer," and his "Souvenirs Entomologiques," consisting of no fewer than 10 volumes, dealing with the insects of his native Provence, not only contain the result of much original research and the record of many illuminating discoveries, but form a storehouse of insect romances, of instances of instinct and habit undreamed of by the average reader. This is not to say that M. Fabre is a "popular" writer in the sense that the scientist can afford to neglect his work. He is simply an observer of vast experience and inimitable patience, who relates his discoveries with a charm that makes them equally readable as literature and as scientific records. Fabre's first entomological work gained the honours of the Institue of France, and a prize for experimental physiology. His extraordinary absorption in his entomological pursuits was a source of perplexity to those among whom he dwelt. One morning he was passed by three women vintagers on their way to work. When they passed him again at sunset he was still seated on the same stone, with his eyes fixed on the same spot, whereupon he saw one of them tap her forehead as she whispered: "A poor innocent." But more than one garde champetre suspected that he was up to no good in his mysterious wanderings about the countryside. However, the sight of the little dark ribbon of the Legion of Honour, with which he had been decorated by the French Government, was generally sufficient to allay suspicion.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE INSECT WORLD.

Although in theory most of us will admit that insects have a beneficent purpose in the scheme of things, it is not always easy to say just what this purpose is, for in most cases the annoyance they cause us, seems to be far greater than the service they do us. However, in "Insect Life: Its Why and Wherefore," Mr. Hubert Stanley shows that even the most vexatious has its mission, did we but know it. This book consists of a series of little essays on some of the most common inhabitants of the insect world, and contains a vast amount of interesting information. Our old friend, the house-fly, for instance, comes in for a good deal of attention. The development of a generation takes about ten days; the number of eggs laid averages about 120, and there may be four such batches from one female, so that the huge numbers in which flies are found may be easily accounted for—200 puparia have been found in one single cubic inch of manure. "It will not be a very severe tax on the mathematician," says Mr. Stanley, "to work out the number of house-flies which one single female may be responsible for." And if this is true of England, what shall be said of Australia, where flies can breed all the year round?

The fly's amiable practice is to pick up dirt on its feet and then to deposit it on food—a revolting thought when we remember the fly's favourite haunt, and being a dirt-carrier, it is also a disease-carrier. It spreads typhoid, cholera, dysentery, and all kinds of gastric complaints, whilst germs of tuberculosis, anthrax, ophthalmia, and smallpox have been found in the house-fly. So much for the fly's delinquencies; what can be said to its credit? It is a splendid scavenger, and it teaches us a lesson in cleanliness. "The unceasing attempt of the larvae of the house-fly to do our scavenging for us when we fail to do it ourselves, is a silent but obvious reproof of the dirty habits of men. Nature in her kindness would show us that it is detrimental to man's health to have about him dead and decaying matter—these minute heralds of the laws of sanitation, which man is so slow to learn, have been for ages at work. They are perhaps too small and too silent in their work for most men to observe, so the mature insect in the form of the fly comes buzzing in our ears, and tries to wake us up in louder tones." In the same way the calumniated cockroach justifies his existence. He came originally from the Levant, where his scavenging talents had peculiar scope. He now is a citizen of the world, and his presence usually denotes something wrong with the drains or some dark and neglected corner, where he passes his days, to sally forth at night on business bent.

Of course, the use of many insects obviously outweighs their inconvenience. Some destroy other pests; some ventilate and triturate the soil. But some apparently only exist to teach us patience and other moral qualities. Mr. Stanley is hard put to it to find the redeeming virtues of these. All he can say for the earwig is that its beautiful maternal instincts and solicitude for its young put many a human parent to shame; while the mission of the clothes moth is "to make us less vain by destroying superfluous wardrobes, and less selfish and miserly by rendering useless things which we are only hoarding, and which might have been of priceless value to someone else." The moth, in fact, was created in order to make man give away his old clothes. (Pitman and Son.)

Most people think of the flea simply as an irritating little animal, whose unwelcome attentions are exceedingly difficult to escape. As a matter of fact, the flea is one of the most interesting inhabitants of the insect world; his varieties are many, his accomplishments great, but he has not received from scientists the notice that his importance warrants. He has at last found someone to appreciate him adequately, and he is the subject of a comprehensive monograph by Mr. H. Russell. The peculiarity of the flea is that he is split up into a number of tribes, each one of which shows a preference for a particular host. Thus there are human fleas, and rat fleas, and bat fleas, and dog fleas, and so on, each of which is associated with one kind of animal, although, if necessary, it will take up its quarters with another. This is why the flea is so dangerous as a carrier of disease, and Mr. Russell has much to say of the rat flea, which disseminates plague. The fact that he does it is now uncontrovertible; the manner in which he does it is still uncertain. Mr. Russell gives the various theories, and the most generally accepted one seems to be that the flea makes a puncture, and deposits the germs in its neighbourhood, and that the latter eventually find their way into the puncture by the victim rubbing the spot.

The most interesting class, however, is the human flea. This varies enormously from the common "pulex irritans" to the chigoe or "jigger" of tropical Africa who burrows under the toenails, lays eggs there and multiplies, giving the unfortunate host a very bad time in the process. Amputation of the foot is often necessary. The human flea also furnishes showmen with what they call "performing" or "educated" fleas. Mr. Russell explodes a very common superstition. "These fleas," he says, "are not educated, and the performance can only be attributed to their desire to escape. They are first of all securely fastened, and this is nine-tenths of the secret, the art of education. A very fine silk fibre is put round the body, and knitted at the back. The flea may then be cemented to some movable or unmovable object. It may pull a coach by being attached to a pole made of a bristle. A little paper object stuck on its back is termed by courtesy an equestrian or a ball dress. The lively imagination of the spectators is a great help." So fleas gummed opposite each other by a rigid bar, so that they cannot touch or part, try to run away, and revolve aimlessly, in a motion which, to the spectators, if not to the fleas, is very like waltzing. Or they have tiny bits of thin wire gummed to their limbs, and when in the struggle they brandish these, we have a duel. It is their enormous strength which makes the illusion possible; if a man six feet tall could jump proportionately to the flea, he would spring three times as high as St. Paul's Cathedral. (Cambridge University Press.)

A third book of popular entomology is "The Life Story of Insects," by Professor G. H. Carpenter. A wonderful story it is; that of an animal is intolerably monotonous by comparison. After all, the most adventurous animal has but one life, and he spends it in the one shape. The insect has much more variety. The most ordinary butterfly can boast three stages of existence, each complete in itself, and each metempsychosis giving rise to a new phase. It may even change its element, like the dragon fly, which remains continually under water till its wings are complete, and then, iridescent-hued, sallies forth to dwell in the air. It is a fascinating theme, and Professor Carpenter tells the story of these wonderful transformations with scientific exactitude, and yet with due allowance for the ignorance of the layman. (Cambridge University Press.)

JANE AUSTEN.

The latest addition to the English men of letters series is a biography of Jane Austen, by F. Warre Cornish, with which she takes her place along with Fanny Burney, Maria Edgeworth, and George Eliot, as one of the four English Women of Letters who have been permitted access to the masculine preserve. Jane Austen was not a particularly good subject for a biography. She was the daughter of a country clergyman, and the whole of her life was passed in a narrow circle. She never went abroad; even a visit to London was a rare occurrence; most of her days were spent in provincial towns or villages. Her adventures were spiritual rather than physical, and this makes it the more remarkable that this quiet, inexperienced young lady from a rural parsonage should have such an unerring insight into the characters both of women and of men.

Mr. Cornish makes the best of the scanty materials at his disposal, and writes an interesting life of his subject. He then proceeds to a critical estimate of her work. He takes each novel in succession, and analyses it with copious extracts from its contents. He proves to be a discriminating and sympathetic critic, though it is rather odd to find him saying that among Jane Austen's "obvious faults" is the fact that "her plots are neither original nor striking." Jane Austen's novels are essentially novels of character, and probably she regarded the plot as supremely unimportant. A person who can make his characters live does not need to worry about mere external incident, and if this be a fault it is one which Jane Austen shares with Thackeray; at any rate, she errs in good company. However, it does not detract from Mr. Cornish's admiration of her. "She stands by the side of Moliere," he says, in summing up her claims to distinction, "unsurpassed among writers of prose and poetry, within the limits she imposed upon herself, for clear and sympathetic vision of human character. She sees everything in clear outline and perspective. She does not care to analyse by logic what she knows by intuition; she does not search out the grounds of motive like George Eliot, nor illumine them like George Meredith by search-light flashes of insight, nor like Hardy, display them by irony, sardonic or pitying; nor, like Henry James, thread a labyrinth of indications and intimations, repulsions and attractions, right and left, all pointing to the central temple where sits the problem. She has no need to construct her characters, for there they are before her, like Mozart's music, only waiting to be written down." (Macmillan and Co.)

THE CONQUEST OF THE DESERT.

It almost seems as if the word "desert" would soon have to be expunged from the dictionaries. In Australia we are beginning to find that we have no such thing, and that regions described by the earlier explorers, in most uncompromising and uncomplimentary terms, have, under proper scientific treatment almost unlimited possibilities in the way of agriculture and pastoral development. In South Africa they are learning the same lesson, and "The Conquest of the Desert," by Dr. William Macdonald, is an account of the transformation which the Kalahari is undergoing.

The Kalahari, with the Sahara and the Sudan, is one of the three great African "deserts" so called. It runs from the frontier of German South-West Africa almost to the Transvaal, and from the Orange River northwards for hundreds of miles. The southern portion (with which the author deals) belongs to the South African Union; the northern to the Protectorate of Bechuanaland. For years it has been regarded as one of the waste places of the earth. Few white men ever ventured therein; even the natives shunned it. And the hardy pioneers, with their uneconomical methods, have aided the process of desiccation. They have chopped down the timber with the effect that rain is less frequent, springs have dried up, and the sand is ever blowing hither and thither, covering the fertile ground. Only at the eleventh hour has any systematic attempt been made to combat the desert, and already the results show immense promise for the future. The weapons recommended by Dr. Macdonald are threefold—population, afforestation, and conservation—that is to say, the storage of soil moisture by deep ploughing and thorough cultivation. The principles of dry farming have been applied with conspicuous success. A variety of wheat, "The Durum," has been grown, on which from seed time to harvest not a single drop of rain fell. And the area suitable for this is practically inexhaustible. At present lack of railways is a tremendous handicap to settlement, but if the country proves fertile these will have to come. "We live in a land," writes the author, "where men look for gold in the mile-deep mines, and are blind to the riches of our ten-inch levels."

However, Dr. Macdonald does not concern himself solely with agricultural facts and figures. He gives an excellent account of the Kalahari, with its huge distances and vast vistas, its scattered homesteads, and sleepy little townships. He is an enthusiast who, already in imagination, sees the desert blossoming as the rose, and his book will have a peculiar interest for Australians who have Kalaharis of their own to develop, and are trying to do so by much the same methods. (T. Werner Laurie.)

LORD CROMER'S ESSAYS.

The making of modern Egypt was the Earl of Cromer's life-work, and, though he has now retired from active participation in the world of affairs, his experience in the art of government and his ripe knowledge of men and things still find expression in his writings. "Political and Literary Essays, 1908-1913," consists of a number of papers contributed to various British periodicals, and they show the same moderation, understanding, and judgment which made his regime in Egypt so successful.

Naturally, the reader turns with most interest to that essay which deals with Lord Cromer's own peculiar metier, "The Government of Subject Races." Nominally this is a review of T. Hodgkin's "Italy and her Invaders." Actually it is a brilliant discussion of the whole question of Britain's relation to her colonies, particularly to those of them she actually rules. The Roman Empire crumbled and collapsed. Will the British Empire do the same? There are six main causes to which the disintegration of Rome may be assigned, and Lord Cromer finds that in the British Empire none of them is present as a disintegrating influence. One of them, indeed, namely Christianity, is actually a consolidating influence. In the course of the essay the author very emphatically deprecates the tendency to regard Oriental problems in terms of Occidental problems. Western institutions and western habits of thought are utterly different, and the failure to realise this is at the bottom of a great deal of the favour with which the plea for self-government in India and Egypt is received. Peoples accustomed for untold centuries to unconstitutional rule cannot bridge the gap by a stroke of the pen. "Free institutions, in the full sense of the term," he writes, "must, for generations to come, be wholly unsuitable to countries such as India and Egypt. . . . Do not let us for one moment imagine that the fatally simple idea of despotic rule will readily give way to a far more complex conception of ordered liberty. The transformation, if it ever takes place at all, will probably be the work, not of generations, but of centuries." As things are at present, "a freely elected Egyptian Parliament would not improbably legislate for the protection of the slave-owner, if not of the slave-dealer, and no assurance can be felt that the electors of Rajputana, if they had their own way, would not re-establish Suttee." Indeed, not only are Oriental peoples unripe for government by Parliaments of their own, but it is by no means certain that they want it, for "it may be questioned whether Oriental cultivators do not sometimes rather prefer the oppression and elasticity of the Eastern to the justice and rigidity of the western system." The same idea is uppermost in the essay on China.

However, Lord Cromer does not merely criticise the Oriental faculty for self-government. He discusses the French in Algeria, England and Islam, the international aspects of freetrade, army reform, and a dozen other topics of current interest. The literary essays are in a different category, and show that, despite his multiplicity of occupations, the author has retained his interest in the humanistic side of life. Many of them deal with the classics, and show a degree of erudition which is rather unexpected in one most of whose life has lain along paths far from academic. (Macmillan.)

INFLUENZA.

There is a general impression that influenza is quite a modern disease, but Dr. Arthur F. Hopkirk corrects this in an interesting monograph on the subject. Influenza has a history of great antiquity. Some savants identify with it various epidemics mentioned in the Bible, and in Homer, and others claim that Hippocrates has given the first scientific account of it in his description of an outbreak which reigned in Perinthus in 412 B.C. Some again declare that it is mentioned in various classical works, but Dr. Hopkins says that in all these cases the evidence is not conclusive. The most that can be said is that certain epidemics up to the tenth century A.D. were not improbably influenza, but that the first authentic record of a genuine visitation is that of 1173 A.D., when "an intolerable and unheard of cough" swept through Italy, Germany, and part of France, carrying off many a victim.

The author goes on to trace its subsequent history. Epidemics became more and more frequent, and the death-rate was greatly in excess of what it is to-day. As a community becomes "salted" the mortality diminishes, a phenomenon which has been noticed in the Pacific. On its first appearance there influenza, like measles, decimated whole islands, but now it is less dangerous. It is curious to learn that Mary Queen of Scots fell a victim to it, and "kept her bede six dayes," and that the appropriate treatment of the day was a medicine of wolfram, treacle, bezoar, and camphor, and five blisters, "two to the arms or hands, two to the legs or feet, and one to the back of the head." Blood-letting from a very early date was considered disastrous.

Influenza can boast some very widespread epidemics. That of 1889-90 girdled the globe. In June it appeared in Turkestan; in October it had reached St. Petersburg, and thence it travelled swiftly; by Christmas-time it had covered the whole of Europe, and North America. With the new year it reached Africa, South and Central America, and thence swept on to Australia, the Pacific, East Asia, and India. At the close of the year it was traced to the Hindu Kush mountains, in Kashmir, and there it ended close to where it had arisen. For the rest, Dr. Hopkirk's book contains much wisdom on the etymology, nature, and treatment of the disease, which is not so technical that the layman cannot appreciate it. (Walter Scott Co.)

A SIDELIGHT ON THE PENINSULAR WAR.

Every Englishman and every Australian knows of the Corunna campaign, if only from the famous ode on the burial of Sir John Moore. How near this famous retreat came to disaster, how near it came to being remembered only by the mismanagement and the breakdown of discipline, and consequent excesses which marked the demoralisation—for a few weeks—of one of the finest armies that ever left England, can be judged from the very frank and fairly written diary of a British officer, Captain Alexander Gordon, who served through the campaign with his regiment, the 15th Light Dragoons. This diary has now been edited by Colonel Wylly, and is published under the title "A Cavalry Officer in the Corunna Campaign."

The first occasion on which the French were met with in force, in this narrative, was whilst the British were still advancing, near Sahagun. A force of British cavalry came, just beyond that village, on a much larger body of French cavalry, and at once wheeled and charged them. Captain Gordon was in this charge. The French cavalry were completely beaten. "I expected the French would have displayed more skill in the use of the sabre than our men," says the diarist, "but the fact proved quite the reverse, for, notwithstanding their swords were considerably longer, they had no chance with us." The French cavalrymen were carrying in their valises on this occasion all sorts of plate and plunder stolen from the churches and houses of Spaniards. Not until a week or two later, when the British army had begun the retreat which saved its communications, did Captain Gordon have reason to complain of his own side.

Whether Captain Gordon's criticisms upon Sir John Moore's strategy are all justified it is difficult to decide. But the diary at least gives an intensely vivid picture of an interesting campaign. (Murray.)

SOME NEW NOVELS.

"The Lizard" is an excellent story of native Indian life, by H. Vaughan Sawyer. The scene is set amidst the sands and rocks of Baluchistan, and the characters are Baluchis and Pathans, fierce as the land they dwell in. It is the tale of the ambition of Sufaut Khan, who aspires to become headman of the tribe, and pursues his design with a combination of cunning and unscrupulous audacity which succeeds up to a point. Murder, robbery, treachery—these are the means by which he climbs the social ladder, and when his youngest brother threatens to unmask his villany, he adds him to the list of victims. We leave the reader to learn for himself how the old Malik is spared the humiliation prepared for him, how retribution overtakes the astute schemer, and how Goj, the little lizard of the desert plays an unconscious part in an exciting denouement. It is an excellent book, told with a certain grim humour, of which Mr. Sawyer makes effective use. (Mills and Boon; G. Robertson.)

"The Bewildered Benedict" who supplies the title of Mr. Edward Burke's latest novel, is a middle-aged and rather uxorious gentleman who endows his wife with all the charms and graces of her sex. The aforesaid wife is a slangy, downright sort of person, who harbours no illusions on this score, but is thoroughly devoted to her husband. They have their trials in the shape of relations, who are constantly interfering with their bliss. But the greatest trial of all is when an alleged millionaire uncle appears on the scene with a dilapidated kit-bag, and quarters himself upon them with no apparent intention of quitting. The reader at once realises that his millions are all a myth, and that the hard labour to which he continually refers has not been on the Klondyke, but in gaol. However, the characters are not so perspicacious, and for a long time, if they do not welcome him, they at any rate tolerate the infliction. How they finally learned the truth, and what eventually happened to the pseudo-millionaire, we leave readers to find out for themselves. The book is distinctly funny up to a point, but the humour becomes rather extravagant and wears a little thin after a time. (Herbert Jenkins.)

The publishers' advertisement to "Love on Smoky River," by Mr. Theodore Goodridge Roberts declares that it is "a book to make women weep tears of joy, and strong men hold themselves tense, so that they sigh with relief when the end is reached." This, however, does it far less than justice, for it is a first-class tale of pioneering and adventure in the Canadian north-west. Misunderstandings arise between the hero and his fiancee, and in a fit of pique he resolves to put her out of his life, and buries himself away on Smoky River, the Ultima Thule of settlement. Here, at Two Moose is a Hudson Bay station, with its factor, who confesses to a curious past; there are Indians, good, bad, and indifferent, tough lumber jacks, a siren of the backwoods, and all the other concomitants of a northern post. David Westley bears his part in the development of the land, and in so doing proves himself very much of a man. In the end he has his reward, but in the meanwhile the tale of his prowess is stimulating to read. (Long, Ltd.)

When Edward Tyrrell, the hero of Mr. J. Bloundelle Burton's "Fortune's Frown," receives from a dying mother a packet containing a confession, he learns that he has no right to his name, but is really Edward Van Heim, a child stolen from his Dutch parents in his infancy. He repairs to the Netherlands to declare himself, but finds them distracted by the Spanish persecution under Phillip II. He has various stirring adventures; he nearly loses his life, and entirely loses his heart, but all ends in the orthodox fashion. Ostensibly, the book is one of incident, rather than of character, and—a fatal defect in one of this type—the action flags at first. But later on it becomes brisker, and the account of the sacking of Antwerp by the Spanish under D'Avila, a worthy successor to Alva, brings out to the full the horrors of the "Spanish Fury." (Bell and Sons.)

"Light Fingers and Dark Eyes," by Vincent Collier, is the story of an English commercial traveller in Italy, who fancies that his manly charms have won the heart of the pretty Padrona at the Hotel Babone. By the time he recovers from this hallucination the lady and her husband have stripped him of the whole of his possessions, down to his false teeth. He repeats the story of his infatuation to some acquaintances, and finds that one of them has also fallen a victim to the wiles of the same enchantress. There is nothing much in the story, but it is told with a certain boisterous humour which may appeal to some readers. (Long, Ltd.)

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Mr. Henry Bracy is retiring from theatrical life, and thus the Australian stage will lose one of its best-known figures, as singer, stage-director, entrepreneur, and manager in front of the house. For the past 18 years the popular tenor has been high in the service of J. C. Williamson, Ltd. The late head of the firm remembered him by leaving him 500 shares in the enterprise, and at a recent board meeting the directors came to the generous determination to pension their old friend for life as from last New Year's Day. Mr. Bracy has just concluded the choice of chorus voices and small-part artists for the forthcoming production of "Puss-in-Boots" at the Cape, and he will still preside over the regular Tuesday voice-trials until his departure by the Tahiti on March 21. For the artist proposes to make the first use of his freedom by revisiting San Francisco, whence he will rejoin his wife. Mrs. Bracy, known on the stage as Miss Clara Thompson, being, indeed, the sister of the late Lydia Thompson, has left the Charles Frohman management after several happy seasons, and in May will reach Los Angeles with "the Biographic Company of America." A little later Mr. Bracy will return to Australia, and will then probably take the first benefit he has had during his 40 years' connection with our stage.

The tenor, who was born at Maesteg, South Wales, where his father was a manager of iron works, had been appearing as a comedian at the London Gaiety Theatre, under the Hollingshead management, four years, when he was engaged for the Melbourne Theatre Royal, where he opened in 1874 as Rosencrans to the "Hamlet" of Fairclough, and was immediately secured by Lister for "Princess of Trebizonde," "Chilperic," and other pieces during a period of five years. Mrs. Bracy was "Grand Duchess," and also Clairette in "Mme. Angot" with him. Well equipped by this experience, Mr. Bracy returned to London in 1879 for a decade of distinguished work. Amongst other successes, he was principal tenor in two pieces, which ran for 400 nights each, namely, "Madame Favart," at the Strand, with Florence St. John and Violet Cameron, and "La Mascotte" at the Comedy, in which his song, "Love is Blind," caught the town. At the Savoy Theatre, he created Prince Hilarion in "Princess Ida," the name-part being taken by Leonora Braham, who afterwards sang it on this side. Returning to Australia in 1888, Mr. Bracy formed a company of his own for Millocker's "The Beggar Student," which ran for 13 weeks in Melbourne, and with which he toured the capital cities for 15 months. In 1889 Mr. Bracy was engaged to produce "The Gondoliers" for Williamson, Garner, and Musgrove, and from that year until 1907 he produced nearly all the Royal Comic Opera Company's pieces, besides appearing in the tenor roles of many of the Gilbert-Sullivan characters. More recently Mr. Bracy directed a revival of "Dorothy," and produced the various grand operas of the Bel Sorel season, besides managing for Albani, Ada Crossly, and other concert stars. The tenor's last stage appearance was as Fairfax in "The Yeomen of the Guard," at Bendigo, about six years ago.

Our special correspondent, writing from London under date January 3, remarks: "On New Year's night Sir George Alexander returned to the St. James's Theatre with "The Attack," an English version of a Bernstein play which is having much success in Paris. He brings with him a new leading lady, Miss Martha Hedman, stated to be a great favourite in America. The piece had a successful premiere; Sir George Alexander himself is praised for a distinguished performance in the leading role, and has good support from Mr. Holman Clark, while Miss Hedman made an excellent impression by the sincerity and quiet simplicity of her methods. The "Poor Little Rich Girl," at the New Theatre, with Mr. W. E. Holloway in the forefront, is the latest child's play. In her dream the little girl reaches a place where the sky is lit by candles burning at both ends (in allusion to her father's money-grabbing tendencies). But happily, her teddy bear comes to life, and the ducks and drakes which her father makes sometimes also take on bodies and waddle and quack about the stage. The children, who are mystified with the author's play on words, will love these things, and other things like the policeman, and the plumber, and the organ-grinder. Also, they will be charmed by the pictures presented in the series of quaint scenes. "The Great Adventure" and "Diplomacy" have each more than 300 performances to their credit, and "Within the Law" is having a great success at the Haymarket. In this case, as in that of the others, the interpretation is largely to praise. Prominent in this fine cast are Mr. Frederick Ross, Mr. Eille Norwood (both at one time well known in Australia), Mr. J. V. Byrant, Mr. E. Lyall Swete, Miss Edith Goodall.

Mr. Lewis Waller, whose buoyancy and grace in costume-pieces will be illustrated for the last time as Don Caesar de Bazan in "A Royal Rival" this evening, will bid farewell to Sydney audiences in that character on Thursday. The popular English actor-manager will long be remembered on this side of the world, nor must it be forgotten that to his enterprise was due the introduction of Miss Madge Titheradge, an Australian actress whose emotional impersonation of the "Butterfly on the Wheel" had already established her name in London. The entire Waller company will leave by train on Friday, so as to join the Marathon on Saturday in Melbourne, and on their way to the Cape it is probable that they will make an appearance at Perth on January 20. During his brief stay there on his way out, Mr. Waller was cordially entertained by the Ministry, and many leading people, whose disappointment at not seeing him on the stage was so warmly expressed that he will endeavour to fill in the only available night with "A Marriage of Convenience." The long stretch of sea will then be traversed to Durban, where the tour, still under the J. C. Williamson direction, whose new South African circuit it embraces, will open on March 9, and Johannesburg, Pretoria, Bloemfontein, Kimberley, and Capetown (June 1 to 14) will be visited in the order named. Beyond that date Mr. Waller's plans are uncertain. "I really must take a long holiday," he remarked, "for I shall have been acting or travelling constantly for three years. What seems to me so strange is to realise that after a long career, during which I have not appeared out of London for more than three months, world-tours embracing the United States, Canada, Australia, and South Africa, should have kept me off its stage since I assisted at the Command performance of "Money," on May 17, 1911, before his Majesty King George and the German Emperor."

The meeting of musicians, presided over by Mr. Joseph Bradley, on Wednesday night, to consider the somewhat nebulous question of national opera, will probably lead to the production of lyrical works during the next two years by those few Australian composers who have any such in hand. If any of these operas emerge from the fiery furnace of public opinion unscorched, a small step forward towards an ambitious objective will have been achieved. As already indicated, Mr. Fritz Hart, acting director of the Marshall-Hall Conservatorium, and Mr. Alfred Hill, principal of the Austral College, have four pieces ready. Two of these will jointly occupy one evening, and two are of three or four act dimensions. Mr. Hill's one-act opera is entitled "The Weird Flute," upon a libretto he formed from a tale contributed by a New Zealand traveller to Charles Dickens's "Household Words," about 60 years ago, the incidents of which he verified himself by diligent inquiry amongst the Maoris. The story relates to a Maori Chief who slew his enemy, and made a flute from a hollowed arm-bone. However, he became obsessed with the idea that the vibrations were haunted by the death-lament, and he accused the dead man's captive daughter of bewitching the instrument. His son, who loved the maiden, insisted upon her receiving the Trial of the Spear, and when the weapon, of its own volition, bent towards her, declared her innocent. At that crisis the old man was overcome by emotion, and expired. Mr. Fritz Hart has also written his own libretto to a one-act opera, "Pierrette," a slight and mystical story in the style of Lawrence Houseman's "Prunella." The two big operas deal with a simple home-story of art-life in a remote Italian village and in Florence; and with "Malvolio," a libretto from "Twelfth Night," the other characters in which are Olivia, Maria, Sir Toby Belch, and the Clown. In every instance the composers have dispensed with any chorus, whilst the orchestration is elaborate. Might not the Symphony Orchestra and the S.A.O.S. divide the honour of producing these works at central theatres in aid of their own funds, and in the cause of Art?

ESPERANTO AND THE BIBLE.

The version of the New Testament in Esperanto, which was recently published by the B.F.B.S. conjointly with the National Bible Society of Scotland, has already passed into a second edition. It is interesting (says "The Bible in the World") to learn that in various countries Esperanto is being very commonly recognised as an optional subject of instruction, paid by grants, in State schools. This is now the case as regards evening schools and classes in England, while a police school of Esperanto is being conducted in London at Snow Hill police station. In Hanover the teaching of Esperanto is authorised in all first-grade schools; in Lille over 2000 children are under instruction; it is an obligatory subject in Bordeaux; and in Rio de Janeiro it is taught in all the model municipal schools. Centres of instruction are also found in Belgium, Bulgaria, Japan, Spain, Italy, and the United States. In the island of Samos, Esperanto is an obligatory subject in every elementary school. The Russian Esperantist Year Book gives the names and addresses of several thousand Esperantists in more than 500 towns throughout European Russia. Esperanto possesses a vigorous press, a widely extended consular system for tourists, and men of business, and a rapidly growing literature, original and translated. Such a phenomenon, as the "Times" remarks, is clearly worthy of attention.

Cawdell, Archdeacon Gunther referred to Mr. Cawdell as a man of very high character, of a brave heart, a strenuous worker, and one who by word and deed did much to promote the spiritual well-being of the people committed to his charge. Though he entered the sacred ministry of the Church at an advanced age, being over 70 years of age, his work should be measured, not by years, but by his acts of service.

As the date fixed for the arrival of the Rev. Harry Owen approaches it is interesting to note that during the eight months to the end of 1913, during which Mr. Owen was co-pastor at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, San Jose, California, he was the means of bringing nearly 300 into church fellowship, and this work was done without any special effort in the form of evangelistic services. Mr. Owen writes to Mr. Ardill, secretary of the Evangelical Council:—"It has been largely a kind of hand-picking work, which, in my opinion, is by far the best and most lasting. My aim will be to lift the Churches, as well as try to win the outsider. I think I can help the Churches with God's blessing. If the Churches are blessed, and become energised and enthusiastic, then will our work not be in vain. If we could win nearly 300 in eight months by hard persistent work, others can do the same if they have a mind to. God help us to create the mind or will for this noble work."

The Young Women's Christian Association is looking forward to a very busy week. The various classes and clubs, imbued with fresh energy, are gradually commencing their year's work, and opening functions are being held each week.

The Wyreepi Club holds its welcoming social on Thursday evening next, when about one hundred young business girls will meet together, and old friendships will be revived and new ones made.

The monthly rally of the members of the Y.W.C.A. on Wednesday night will be held in a new spot, advantage being taken of the warm nights and full moon to hold a moonlight supper party at Clark Island, and a very happy evening is being looked forward to. Saturday, the 14th, the Ramblers' Club intend visiting La Perouse, which has so many interesting associations connected with it.

MILITARY.

EXPERIENCED SOLDIERS.

One of the great advantages that the Australian army enjoys is that it can command the services of experienced soldiers from the Imperial Army to assist in the work of instruction. There have just been placed on the Instruction Staff, with the rank of Acting Staff Sergeant-Major, the following non-commissioned officers:—

J. E. Cooper, late colour-sergeant, The Buffs.
C. V. Baldwin, late colour-sergeant, Oxfordshire Light Infantry.
P. N. Butler, late colour-sergeant, Middlesex Regiment.
A. Blainey, late sergeant, Notts and Derby Regiment.
H. Garner, late sergeant, Cameron Highlanders.
J. Stanley, late lance-corporal, Royal Munster Fusiliers.
J. T. Simmonds, late sergeant, Worcestershire Regiment.
T. P. Cook, late lance-corporal, Royal Marine Light Infantry.

Colour-sergeant F. Osborne, of the Norfolk Regiment, was selected in India by Colonel Stanley for the position of staff sergeant-major on the instructional staff.

You Should Know— This Laxative is Safe

Most pills and laxatives are not. There are hundreds of preparations which will make the bowels act, but very few of them will do so without great damage to the digestive organs. They are purgatives, not laxatives, and while they force the bowels to action they do so at great cost of strength to the intestinal muscles. Salts, castor oil and purgative pills act in this unnatural manner. They weaken the entire system and the patient is left in a worse condition than if nothing had been taken.

Chamberlain's Tablets

are unlike other preparations. They are a gentle laxative. They never weaken but strengthen. They are pleasant to take, act gently upon the bowels and never gripe, and once the bowels are given the strength which Chamberlain's Tablets impart they are quickly restored to a permanent normal condition, fully able to voluntarily perform their own functions. Chamberlain's Tablets are unequalled in the treatment of dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and all disorders of the stomach and liver. Sold everywhere at 1/6 per Box.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY SIR HENRY LUCY.)

The Veto of the Crown—Unconstitutional Practice—A Secret of the Franco-German War—Heavy Fall in Values—A Sunday Morning Worshipper.

WESTMINSTER, Jan. 2.

Finding that Mr. Asquith has no intention of wrecking the Parliament Act by throwing into the melting pot of a general election a bill that has twice passed the House of Commons by majorities steadily standing in the neighbourhood of one hundred, good Unionists are beginning to concentrate their hopes upon the King. Why, they ask, should not his Majesty assert himself at this desperate juncture and save the country from disaster into which it is rushing? That is to say, why does not a constitutional monarch veto the decision of an overwhelming Parliamentary majority and set up in its place the will of a minority, who twice in succession were a short time ago rejected by the country? It is truly a pretty position to be assumed by the party that arrogates to itself the guardianship of law, order, and the British Constitution. It illustrates afresh that lamentable sense of humour which has led to frequent discomfiture since it got rid of Mr. Balfour as leader and substituted Mr. Bonar Law.

It is quite true that the veto of the Crown in respect of legislation remains unrepealed. The last time it was exercised was when William IV., growing tired of the Premiership of Lord Melbourne, invited him to call upon him at Brighton, and in a brief interview dismissed him from office. Fifty years earlier that other worthy monarch, George III., in the same fashion dismissed the long-time favourite Lord North. Here are two precedents precisely bearing on the situation of to-day as it is viewed from the Opposition camp. All they ask his Majesty to do is to send Mr. Asquith about his business, taking care he is accompanied by Mr. Lloyd George. Lord Lansdowne or Mr. Bonar Law, called upon to form a Ministry, would advise his Majesty to dissolve Parliament, and there would be, not only an end of the Home Rule Bill, but of the Parliament Act. It is delightfully simple. Unfortunately for the purposes of advocates of the scheme King George is not.

The practice of dragging the Sovereign's name into political controversy, whether in Parliament, the press, or on the platform, is part of "the new style," deplored last session by Mr. Asquith. There was a historic scene in the House of Commons so recently as the time of the Disraelian Parliament, 1874-80, which testified to the jealousy excited by breach of the constitutional rule. During the debate on Disraeli's pet scheme for creating Queen Victoria Empress of India, Robert Lowe, addressing a public meeting at Thetford, declared that two of Disraeli's predecessors in the Premiership had been asked to bring in such a bill, and had declined. Attention being called to the matter in the House, Disraeli heartily trounced his ancient foeman for his indiscretion. He was about to cite the personal testimony of the Queen denying the allegation, when an angry shout of "Order, order!" made him pause. The Speaker ruled the reference out of order, and the subject perforce dropped. Irregularities on the same line not less flagrant in character have been overlooked when the Ulster question came up in the House of Commons during the last two sessions.

Mr. Winston Churchill's proposal to Germany to join this country in a year's holiday from battleship building attracted univeral attention by reason of its apparent originality. But there is nothing new under the sun. In the early spring of 1870, when war, ominously looming between Germany and France, appeared to be indefinitely postponed, Lord Clarendon, then Foreign Secretary, secretly instigated by France, approached Bismarck with the suggestion that the two countries should enjoy a military holiday by the process of equalised disarmament. Particulars of this episode taking place on the eve of the outbreak of devastating war are for the first time fully given in Lord Newton's "Life and Correspondence of Lord Lyons," a book whose historic value stands highest in the scale of important biographies that have been a special feature of the winter publishing season. Lord Clarendon's letter to Bismarck, given in full, is a masterpiece of adroit statesmanship. The Prussian Chancellor, who meant to be at war with France at the earliest possible moment, naturally was not, as outsiders were, misled by appearances. He replied in the negative with extreme courtesy, but with equal firmness.

His final reply, orally addressed to Lord Augustus Loftus, British Ambassador at Berlin, is striking in its relation to current events which suggested Mr. Churchill's idea of a year's cessation of naval building. "It is all very well for you," said Bismarck, addressing Lord Augustus, "living in an island where none can attack you, to preach disarmament. But put yourself into our skin. You would then think and act differently. What would you say if we were to observe to you that your navy was too large, that you did not require so many ironclads, that you lavished too large a proportion of the taxation of the country in building ships which in the peaceful disposition of Europe were not required? What if we recommended you to diminish your naval armaments?" In the 43 years that have elapsed since these words were spoken, a great deal has happened to alter the European situation.

Turning over some old letters I came upon the subjoined addressed to me by a London firm of stockbrokers under date April 2, 1902: "After April of next year the rate of interest payable on consols will be 2¾ per cent. Instead of 2¾ per cent., and to us it seems not improbable that one of the results will be a rise in all trustee securities which give a higher yield per cent. than can be obtained from consols. This was the case after the conversion of consols from 3 per cent. to 2¾ per cent., in 1889. Unless the continuation of the war creates an exceptional position, we see no reason why there should not be a repetition of the movement. Consols can now be sold at 94¼, at which price upon a 2¾ per cent. basis, the yield for an investor would be £2 13s per cent. We, therefore, submit for your consideration, whether it might not be worth while to sell any consols which you at present hold, and reinvest in some such securities as the following." Here are set forth a list of a dozen high-class trustee securities.

The latter casts a flood of light upon one of the most notable and important financial and political phenomena of the century as far as it has gone. To-day consols may be bought at 71¾. This fall of 20¼ per cent. is appalling. Time was within recent date when the pride of the English moneyed man was consols. Next to the four Gospels even the most devout pinned their faith to their impregnability. The return was small, but it was felt that the level of price was immutable. The result among large holders of the fall in value is shown in the annual accounts of the banks where, for a dozen years, provision out of profits has perforce been made to "write down consols." Some consolation (no pun intended) will be found in the fact that the alternative securities recommended have in equal proportion tumbled down. One of them India 3 per cent. stock quoted at 101¾ in 1902, stands to-day at 74¼, and the rest much on the same scale.

The excise authorities are much interested in the reported appearance in a northern suburb of London of a new opportunity for refreshment. Every Sunday morning during the time public houses are closed, a four-wheeler stands at a certain spot, apparently waiting for a fare. In the course of the morning it has many, and the journeys are short. A man gets in, and the four-wheeler moves at a gentle pace up the street. The fare lifts the cushion of the front seat, places sixpence in a slot, a lid draws back, and there is "a go" of whisky, with a tumbler and flask of water. The morning worshipper takes his drink, replaces the cushion, gets out, and the four-wheeler waits for another customer.

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

An Old-fashioned Christmas.

LONDON W., Jan. 2.

We have had a regular old-fashioned Christmas. Snow is still blocking the way in the colder counties, and Germany, they say, is still 2ft under snow. In London we only had severe frosts. Personally I shall never forget the beauty of the heavens on Christmas Eve. I was spending the Christmastide at Shiplake, and drove thence to Henley for midnight mass. The stars were simply magnificent. I could not keep my eyes away from the gorgeous blue night and the myriads of constellations which shone with the radiance of diamonds. Not a cloud was to be seen, and the night was absolutely still. These late services on Christmas Eve are getting very general. Anglican as well as other churches have them, and the same holds good on New Year's Eve. In Paris all cafes keep open all night with "Reveillon" inscribed in letters of light over their portals. To anyone who has not seen Paris on the eve of Noel I advise a visit. The dull day is Christmas Day itself. That is treated even more solemnly than a Sunday; while in Germany it is the feast of feasts. A friend over from Holland at Christmas tells me that in that country they keep St. Nikolas on December 5 with all the feeling we bestow on Christmas Day. This, however, is changing gradually; the younger Dutch people like to be as English as possible.

The Sales.

We are just closing what always seems to me to be the longest week in the year—the seven days since Christmas Day. London looked deplorable on Monday morning. People were not back, the shops were again open, but in a half-hearted sort of way. The preparations for the winter sales have been rather rushed, and those whose Christmas was still a warm memory did not care to buckle to so early with sale bargains. However, it is recovering, and from what I saw yesterday in one of the larger houses, housewives are busy replenishing linen and carpets. The bargains in this class of goods are always worth hunting for. In dress goods, of course, it is in the best houses you do the purchasing best. The old-fashioned places which cater for the higher class of customer are ever the most satisfactory to go to for dresses and models. Furs I need but say are selling at reduced rates; the wiser time, though, for laying in a stock of furs is at the summer sales, when most furriers will take charge of them and keep them in moth-proof chambers until you want them. At the moment fur trimmings are the rage. Coats have fur collars and cuffs, just as we used to wear them some ten or twelve years ago. And not only on coats do we find fur; it trims ninon blouses and tunics, edges sleeves, and is more fashionable than anything for trimming to evening gowns.

Midwinter Fashions.

You will be noticing in the illustrated papers that reach you how much more frilly the skirts are for dancing gowns. Very often the tunics are a series of accordion kilted tulle laid one over the other, with a light wire put in at the edge to keep them away from the figure. The skirts remain narrow, with pointed trains, and showing plenty of foot and ankle. I see no immediate prospect of this style of gown going out. But I think we shall find more frills to our frocks ere long. They make a distinct difference in the manner of making these little dance frocks for girls. Just now the flapper is much in evidence, and when she doffs her boyish sports clothes she is particular as to her house and evening frocks. Above all, she loves to dance; moreover, she is better trained nowadays in the art of dancing than has ever been the case. The tango is not going to oust all other dances this coming season. Its popularity is already on the wane. Classes are being formed for dancing minuets, a slower, more graceful dance than we are accustomed to in these days of noise and hurry. With the minuet will come longer skirts, and a different deportment. I see some charming little net and lace gowns for girls' dancing frocks. They are made up over soft cream charmeuse, with a swathe of satin at the waist and a flower or two tucked into the belt. They are much liked for evening frocks for the girls who are home from school and yet not quite old enough for entering the grown-up world. The girl on the eve of Girton or Lady Margaret Hall are more the type I have in my mind's eye. "College girls" they style them in America.

I also see many satin gowns for evening wear made in the usual draped manner, with an entirely different bodice. It sounds a little "patchy," but it is done by some of the first Parisian houses. A very good plan is to have a velvet skirt made high-waisted and worn over a little bodice made, as they all are now, with kimono sleeves of transparent ninon or net with a lining of spangled net. This can be as bright as you please, provided it is veiled by a black fabric. I was looking yesterday at a group of new blouses made of black ninon mounted over cream net, made very simply with long sleeves with little ruffling at the wrist. On the inner blouse were mounted smartly-tied bows of ribbon. The blouse was put into an elastic run in the hem, and, strangely enough, they all fastened behind and opened over a V-shaped foundation of unlined net. I should imagine all these blouses were meant to wear with black velvet skirts under fur coats. The newest shoulder wraps are fitted over the shoulder, and are worn draped across the figure back and front.

These are the little changes I note in the latest designs for winter fashions. After February we shall get a glimpse of spring ideas. I fancy the small black velvet hats will hold their own until Easter. The few straw models one has seen are all small. Just at the moment there are more flowers worn in the hats, which often have a fur edge or narrow band of it round the crowns. Fur, lace, and flowers always come in together. I think you would be pleased with the lace tunics and blouses worn with black skirts all edged with brown fur. They are very becoming. The tunics are not always pleated, some of the newest are made much like the basque of a bodice open in front, and coming almost to the knees. They are finished at the waist with a wide draped sash, pulled well down over the hip on one side, and tied with one long end coming from over the belt; a shorter one falls over the long one, and both are either embroidered and finished with tassels. I had a rather good sash made in the house by a little dressmaker the other day. I bought some wide flowered ribbon, not one of the "futurist" designs, but a handsome, rather normal one. This lined a sash made of piece satin, and the ends were enclosed in a heading on top of each tassel. One end had a dress weight, which ensures the correct hang. It is a wonderfully useful finish to a black skirt, and one can so easily ring changes if you garb yourself in sable, and trust to touches of colour to enliven sombre gowns. Another finish is to have a wide swathed sash finished at the back with a broad bow, they call them Mousmé bows, after the Japanese fashion of wearing them. They must be at least 20 inches wide.

At this time of year, when so many fancy dress dances are given, and when women like to adopt a poudre coiffure, it is as well to note that with a powdered head nothing looks so well as the quieter shades of chalk white, greys, and black and white striped dresses. Some of the greys are quite beautiful. One especially struck me, made of silk muslin, in three shades of grey, silver, smoke, and what is called "ciel d'Avril," a grey with that touch of blue in it that you see sometimes on a fine spring evening. The folds of chiffon seemed to melt one into the other, as they were draped round the wearer's lithe figure, and on one side of the skirt, under a cloud of grey chiffon, were long silver fringes. The one touch of colour was given by a deep carmine camellia worn at the waist. I have also seen lovely models in chalk white charmeuse, veiled in soft silver grey chiffon, and weighed down with silver fringes and embroideries. This sudden rage for grey chiffon and mirror velvet has been suggested by the continued success of powder and patches. All women who adopt powdered hair in the evening have had to learn an important fact connected with the picturesque fashion: it is this: Black, white, and certain shades of pink are the proper colours to accompany powder. The faintest blues, and some delicately-coloured old world Chine silks are admissible; but bright colours only vulgarise the style. When houses possessed "powdering closets," and it was worn every day by women of fashion, the bright dyes we are known to-day did not exist. Silk was woven by artists: velvet was an heirloom. All greys, especially the beautiful satins you see in the portraits by Vandyke and men of his time, went well with powdered hair. Even those ladies who wore black velvet or satin always wore some of their finest lace with it to soften the effect against the hair and skin.

Lace is one of the immortal things in dress. You can never go wrong if you have it of fine texture and of real "hand-make." It falls like nothing machine ever made, and its colour is always one of its greatest attractions.

BOXING NIGHT AT DRURY-LANE.

(BY ARTHUR MASON.)

There is no first-night quite like the first night of the Drury Lane pantomime. That is why it is so famous.

More or less, of course, Drury Lane is one of London's great illusions. But that is not to its discredit. What a world this of ours would be, and what a London we should have to suffer if there were no illusions. Long be the Drury Lane pantomime, at any rate, a Christmas excitement, and heavy be the glamour of it upon the hearts of its patrons.

They—its patrons—are a multitude not to be numbered. Some of them may have probed the illusion of Drury Lane. They give no sign of it. The grown-ups among them are shamelessly youthful. They sit in the light of Drury Lane Theatre with their children, and their children's children, much as their grandfathers, yea, even their great-grandfathers, used to sit with them—and their faces glow, and they dream their dreams of the world behind the drop curtain, and they are nearly as happy as they ever were.

As for their boys and girls, they know it to be no illusion, this Boxing Night splendour of enchantment. Their wise faith in it is untroubled by knowledge, or any other foolishness. Some of them grow, too. The marks of their stature climb upon the wall. They are at question, this year, with many things. They have looked upon the printed page. The light of common day more and more surely encompasses them. But the pantomime posters flaunt upon the London streets, the lamps flare above the portal of Drury Lane—and these aging ones are young again, and Boxing Night is once more a wonder and a wild desire.

It was Thackeray who used to say that the day after Boxing Day was his delight, for the reason that he could take the pantomime page of the "Times" and read steadily through it from Drury Lane to the Britannia, Hoxton. He would have made joyous pilgrimage this year. He would have loved a London that contained eighteen pantomimes. That, we are informed, is the number of them in and about the city this year. Drury Lane, for all that, stands alone.

Its fascination is made up of many things. For myself I am fascinated long before the curtain goes up. There is, for example, the turn out of the Strand into the street itself, a little street and a narrow street, but a street of immortal memory, with Drury Lane theatre always there for centre and substance, and the ghosts of immemorial players and shadowy hosts of audiences to people it. Then there are the warm, inviting lights spread about the great entrance doors, and the torches flaming upon its roof—no small allurement in a London night of winter. And there are the queues stretching far away into that night from the pit and gallery doors, a dim spread in the mist, without beginning or end. And there are the orange-women all about those queues—the orange-women whose wares at any rate, if not their somewhat bulky selves, recall the days when Nell Gwynn, most famous of Drury's orange-girls, tripped about these self-same streets and alleys. The oranges of Drury Lane are, indeed, one of its institutions. Presently, in the pit and gallery, hundreds of people will be eating oranges. The oranges of Drury Lane are a time-honoured historic appetiser for the play, and the scent of oranges is the theatre's distinctive aroma.

And there are all the other fascinations of inside. There is the huge and splendid auditorium itself, with that wonderful scroll of names, emblazoned along the dress circle—Siddons, Garrick, Kean, Kemble, and the rest—the names of Drury Lane's great actors of the long ago. There is the festival company assembled for the Boxing Night excitement, the dainty family parties in the boxes—the grubby family parties in the gallery—the children of the rich in fine linen, and the children of the poor in the best substitute available, but all alike beaming and alert. There are the crowded stalls, and the swarming pit behind them, and the tier upon tier of circles, and the great gallery rising to the roof—all crowded, and all humming with expectation.

Then there is Mr. Jimmy Glover and his orchestra—Mr. Glover as historic as most things thereabout, and presently, with all the cunning of the old hand, setting his fine orchestra straight at the hearts of the throng. How they play that overture—with what gusto, and what determination to set this Boxing Night merrily afoot. And what an overture it is—a glorious medley of all the popular songs of the year—and how the pit and gallery swing into line with it, and rear its response, so that the theatre thunders to the strain of "On the Mississippi," or to the lilt of "You made Me Love You."

And then the curtain goes up, and the mystery abrew behind it these weeks past is disclosed. "The Sleeping Beauty Reawakened" is its legend, and soon the theatre is charmed by the girlishness and grace of little Renee Mayer's Puck, or is rejoicing in the pretty poses and the sweet songs of Miss Florence Smithson, who is the beauty, and shouting laughter at Mr. George Graves, who is no one in particular, but for all that a host in himself. Soon, too, it is all astonishment at the feats of the acrobats and the dancers, and it believes nearly all the dialogue to be very funny. It does not seem to be sorry that Drury Lane has no "principal boy" nowadays, having given up that shapely make-believe, so I and others like me lament the fact in silence, though I am buoyed by the recollection that at least we had one principal boy at Drury Lane—and her name was Nellie Stewart.

But this audience does not regret anything. How could it, now that the scenes begin to spread, and Drury Lane begins to show what it can do? Here are many scenes, but there are two or three scenes which no pantomime in the world will reveal. In one, the sleeping beauty princess lies upon her gorgeous bed dreaming of her childhood's toys and stories. And in a mist behind the bed these stories and toys take shape in a beautiful procession of nursery immortals. No theatre could do that quite in the same way—unless, that is, its stage also possesses two such wonder-working electric staircases. The other scene is the princess's garden, the most beautiful garden that ever was, a fairy dream of blended colour and beautiful design, with hundreds of living flowers strewn about it, and grouped into rare and lovely shapes that rise at the end into an immense bouquet. That was glorious—and so were some other things, especially, and most glorious of all, the bridge of light let down by little Puck in the midst of the burning forest, for rescue of Beauty and her hero just when they were in direst straits.

Altogether a fascinating thing, this Drury Lane pantomime, as any can discover who hears the children shouting their happiness at it. But I cannot begin to tell one-half of its wonders. They began at 7 o'clock on Boxing Night and they did not end till half-past 12 next morning.

MADAME JEANNE BROLA IN ARDUOUS OPERATIC ROLES.

It has been the surprise and delight of music-lovers and theatre-goers to witness the lavish display of vocal ability and operatic talent so unquestionably possessed by Madame Jeanne Brola, the distinguished soprano of the Quinlan Opera Company, during its recent season.

Many of her singing roles are prominently opposed to each other, yet she is as much at home in "Madame Butterfly" as in "La Boheme," and as much so in "The Girl of the Golden West" as in "Aida." It appears natural to her in that whatever she does she does well.

Madame Brola has during the season deservedly become intensely popular with Australian music-lovers, but she freely admits that so great and exhausting have been her duties that she would undoubtedly have suffered from a great mental and physical breakdown were it not for the fact that she took Clements Tonic, the ideal medicine for the artiste and professional. Her tribute to this splendid strength-giving and health-preserving medicine has been often published for the public good.

In her own words, she says:—"I feel certain that I would have suffered from a great physical and mental breakdown were it not for the use of this great medicine."

All stores and chemists sell Clements Tonic. Get it, and lay the foundation of good and lasting health.—Advt.

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE.

AND AUSTRALIA.

(BY G.W.B.)

The recent cable announcement from Washington that Independence will probably be granted the people of the Philippine Islands in the near future, will have been received with the gravest misgiving by all who know the islands and their important connection with Australia and the East generally.

The controlling influence of the United States in the islands is of vital significance to Australia, for, while the American flag waves over the archipelago the power of Uncle Sam stands as a buffer between us and Japan, and once withdrawn, the possibilities do not encourage pleasant conjectures.

Ever since the martyrdom of the great Royal, "Viva la independencia" has been the fervid cry of the civilised Filipino—cried earnestly by some few ardent patriots, hypocritically by many schemers who foresee easy government offices and easy ways to ill-gained wealth, and cried parrot-like by the millions of the semi-civilised poorer class, who think only what they are taught to think by the eloquence of unscrupulous agitators. What "Independencia" means to the wild pagan, mountain tribesman it is difficult to imagine. To him, carrying on his tribal customs as he has for forgotten centuries, the word must be meaningless, and probably does not trouble him one iota.

Before the eventful day in the far-off year of 1521, when the great Magellan landed on the north of Mindanao, and claimed the islands in the name of the Spanish King, we have no written records of island history, except the scrappy chronicles of a wandering Chinese historian in the 13th century.

Since Magellan made his famous passage round the Horn records have been kept, and gruesome ones they are—most of them, for perhaps no other country has a darker record for so short a period. The pages of the old chronicles read like a hideous nightmare, and are full of dreadful accounts of typhoons, plagues, insurrections, massacres, volcanic eruptions, foreign invasions, and general lawlessness, that are almost beyond belief. Chinese pirate Admirals came again and again, with huge fleets of junks, and stormed the walls of Manila, and once the Mikado of Japan made a vain attempt to vanquish the resolute Spaniards. Small fleets of Dutch, English, and Portuguese warships came at intervals through the long dark years of incessant international conflict and strove to wrest the islands from their common enemy, and once, for three years, the Union Jack flew proudly over the walls of the battered old city of Manila, until news came of the declaration of peace between England and Spain, and Buccaneer-Admiral Cornish, with his 13 ships and 6000 men, sailed away to collect an indemnity which was never paid.

Prior to the Spanish occupation some seven million pagan island people, divided into over 36 different tribes, lived by their narrow tribal laws, each antagonistic to the other, with the Mahommedans in the south as their common enemy, of whom they stood in deadly terror. During the Spanish regime the island people were divided into the pagan tribesmen in the hills, and the fanatical Moros in the south—who knew no rulers but their own—and the civilised and subject tribes along the coast, who looked up fearfully to the Spaniard as their lord and master. Such was the position in 1898, when after the supposed outrage of the Maine, America and Spain went at each other's throats, and America awoke one morning to find, to her astonishment, that she had the far off Philippine Islands on her hands. With typical American energy the United States immediately set out to Westernise their portion of the East at a rate that astonished the Easterners, and filled the minds of the English, Dutch, and German colonisers with misgivings. When the civilised and more or less united tribes of the coastal Filipinos crawled painfully back to their homes after the futile insurrection of 1899 they settled down to American rule and began to foster their new-found dream of independence.

American administrators in the islands encouraged this ideal, but not one of them entertained the thought that such a step could be sensibly taken in their lifetime, and looked on the would-be native guiders of the islands' destiny as a great statesman might look on a little child, and speculate on the distant day when he might be able to assume control of vital matters.

It was this certainty of American control that induced American capital to pour into the islands, and during the last 12 years amazing strides have been made in trade and commerce. So rapid has been the industrial advancement, that it is hard to realise, amidst the roar and rattle of huge factories and iron foundries, and the rush of trams and taxi-cabs, of Manila city, that up in the dark jungles to northward little black and woolly-headed negritos hide with their poisoned arrows, and head-hunting Igorottes roam on the pine-clad hills. Granted that the Filipinos have their own Parliament in Manila—their own police, doctors, lawyers, shipping-houses, and commercial firms among the long-civilised and partly Spanish tribes—yet to the American who understands the islands the very thought of Philippine control and independence as a united people is absurd.

Various "Philippine Islands Publicity Societies" have been striving mightily to bring the American people into touch with the islands and their products, and to create a wide and intelligent interest in them, but they have fought an up-hill battle as a whole. The cry for independence has increased to an incessant roar of late years, and it has been the policy of various American politicians to take up the cudgels for independence in the United States; and this, aided by the general ignorance and apathy displayed by the vast majority of the American people as regards the islands, seems to have helped considerably to bring matters to a head. When, some time ago, it was rumoured that the (then) President-elect had leanings towards independence, and that it might be granted as soon as he came into power, a commercial panic was created amongst American capitalists with large interests in the islands, and for a time nearly all projected industrial investments were withheld. Even as Cuba got into hopeless financial difficulties, so do all Americans in the islands predict that, if independence is granted to the Filipinos as a people, they will, if not pounced upon by Japan or some other enterprising nation, steer themselves at full speed on to the rocks of financial ruin in a very short space of time.

Again, when Mr. Worcester, Secretary for the Interior, spoke his mind in 1910, and expressed the opinion that, if independence was granted to the islanders, the warlike and fanatical Mahommedan Moros in the south would swarm up helter-skelter and overpower their Christian kinsmen, the Filipino press howled him down as an insulter of Filipino bravery. Secretary Worcester knows the islands as no other white man does, and he spoke with conviction and sincerity. To apply the word "Filipino" collectively to some seven millions mixed Christians, pagans, and Mahommedans is as incongrous as the word "Indian" as applied to India generally, and yet it is to this weird mixture of conflicting tongues and faiths that it is proposed to hand the reins of self-government—to a polyglot people who, from the darkest ages, have never known the meaning of unity and friendliness! Apart from the significance of America's influence in the islands as a protective power between ourselves and Japan, we have worked up a very considerable trade with the Philippine Islands, and the future turn of events will be watched with intense interest by all who are aware of the far-reaching possibilities should independence be granted the islanders.

BREAKING OUT ON BABY'S FACE.

"Wando," Wilby Wilby, N.S.W.—"My baby's chin broke out in the form of a pimple, and gradually spread until the sore almost covered that part of her face. It would fester and all become inflamed. There were also the same sores on her fingers and knee. I tried several remedies without success. One day I saw an advertisement for the Cuticura Remedies, so I got some Cuticura Ointment, which I used along with Cuticura Soap, which I had been using for two years, and in four days I could notice a vast difference, and now after three weeks my baby's face is quite healthy. I think Cuticura Soap and Ointment splendid for the skin and hair." (Signed) Mrs. L. M. Cook, January 7, 1913.—Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T, Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

TECHNICAL COLLEGE.

PRINCIPAL APPOINTED FOR NEWCASTLE.

ANOTHER AUSTRALIAN NATIVE.

The Minister for Education announced yesterday that Mr. C. A. Sussmilch, F.G.S., has been appointed Principal of the Newcastle Technical College.

"Mr. Sussmilch," Mr. Carmichael said, "is another example of the Government's policy of appointing Australians to important positions in the service. He joined the staff at the Sydney Technical College in 1900, and was appointed lecturer in charge of geology, mining, and surveying in 1903, after a distinguished career at the Sydney University, where he took honours in mining, metallurgy, and geology. He is the author of a standard textbook on the geology of New South Wales, and has edited the "Technical Gazette" ever since it was first published. Mr. Sussmilch has not only visited all the important Technical Colleges in the Commonwealth, but has made a point of personally investigating the conditions at the principal mining and smelting works throughout the whole of eastern Australia. Two years ago he visited the United States of America and Canada for the purpose of studying technical education, with special reference to trades schools. He has been closely associated with Mr. Board, and with the late superintendent of the Technical College, Mr. J. W. Turner, as well as with the present superintendent, Mr. James Nangle, in the reorganisation of technical education.

Mr. Sussmilch has had a close association with the Technical College. He has been a member of the advisory committee for the past five years, and is chairman of the diploma committee. He is a Fellow of the London Geological Society, a member of the Australian Institute of Mining Engineers, a member of the Royal Society of New South Wales, and a Fellow of the Linnean Society. He has contributed a number of scientific papers to the Royal Society and the Australian Society for the Advancement of Science.

"I am sure," said Mr. Carmichael, "that Mr. Sussmilch's appointment will prove exceedingly popular, and that his influence will be quickly felt throughout the Newcastle and Maitland districts."

MACQUARIE ELECTORAL INQUIRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Owing to the necessary condensation in telegraphing the report on the inquiry held by Mr. Burton-Smith at Dubbo, my evidence was somewhat misreported, and I would crave space in your columns to add the following:—

(1) The police magistrate admitted that no subpoenas could be issued, and, therefore, neither be nor I had any power to compel the attendance of witnesses.

(2) At my request, Mr. Burton-Smith issued about 120 notices to attend, to persons put on the roll by the Labour organiser, and the police could find only three of them. Two of these—McAuliffe and Holmes—were in Dubbo on Saturday, but, acting on the advice of the Labour secretary, did not attend the inquiry.

(3) The police admitted that they were frequently unable to find claimants for enrolment, whose signatures had been witnessed by the Labour organiser.

(4) Your reporter stated that I admitted not having applied officially to the Chief Secretary for a Royal Commission, but you omitted to add my further statement that I had made the request from almost every platform in the Macquarie electorate, and had also written to the Sydney press for a Royal Commission.

The fact was furthermore emphasised that the Liberal organiser took every course possible to clean the roll, and by objecting at the Revision Court, we had the whole of the names mentioned by Detective Moore removed from the roll, so that they could not vote.

It is unnecessary for me to occupy much space in pointing out the absurdity and uselessness of an inquiry which does not put witnesses on their oath; cannot insist upon witnesses answering questions; has no power to compel attendance, and affords no opportunity of putting evidence before the inquiry.

I may mention, however, that I have in my possession unanswerable evidence to prove every charge I made, and I would welcome a Royal Commission. Time alone will prove whether Mr. Thrower and the Caucus Government have the courage and sufficient sense of justice to appoint a Royal Commission without restrictions or limitations.

I am, etc.,
R. W. D. WEAVER.

STOCK AT FLEMINGTON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—There was another shocking spectacle witnessed at Flemington siding yesterday, when a stock train arrived from the west. This particular train was three hours late, and the owner of the sheep in two of the trucks will have some cause for complaint. One of our inspectors was present when the sheep were removed. The unfortunate animals were so weak with the rough treatment they received on the journey, that some difficulty was experienced in detraining them. Dogs were allowed to enter the trucks over the sheeps' backs to eject them. Ten sheep were dead in the two trucks, some of them almost devoid of wool, and must have been dead over 48 hours. They were swollen and decomposed. Nine others were in a mangled and dying condition, and were dragged out on to the siding, and there left in the scorching and sweltering sun from 11 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when I put them out of their misery. I adopted this course, because I was informed by the carter who removes the dead sheep that any animal showing any sign of life would be removed to the abattoirs by the contractor, to be used for human consumption. The inspector of the Meat Industry and Abattoirs Board has been for some time engaged in killing all dying and mutilated sheep after their removal from the trucks, and was so engaged during the night previous and early morning, when his duty ended. The state of the law is such that our society is almost helpless to cope with these cases of cruelty and prosecute with any hope of success. The sooner it is altered the better for all concerned.

I am, etc., W. T. MOSS, Secretary,
Animals' Protection Society.

Sunshine—

THE COMPLEXION'S ENEMY.

Sunshine has always been symbolical of brightness and joyfulness, and it is only natural that the sunny summer months should be taken advantage of in every way possible.

In the town, in the country, by the sea, those may be met who are revelling in the sunshine, walking, motoring, golfing, bathing, yachting, etc. The suggestion to them that the sunshine was an enemy to be guarded against would very probably be received with amazement. Yet so it is, and the mirror is an excellent witness of this; how often it reveals the sad results of King Sol's attentions—redness, roughness, and discolouration of the skin—instead of whiteness, clearness, suppleness, and healthy tints.

But even the most ardent lovers of the sun may keep their skin beautiful, and free from discolouration, by the use of Valaze.

The health, colour, radiancy of the complexion can be ensured—all the most valuable essentials to facial beauty—the whiteness, clearness, smoothness, softness, tone and health of the skin can be preserved by the use of this world-renowned Skin Food and Beautifier. Valaze charms every atom of impurity out of the skin. Freckles disappear; sunburn, tan, sallowness, and ravages by wind and weather vanish. The skin will grow beautiful by its help, and proof against all weather conditions. The price of Valaze is 3/6 and 6/6 a jar; postage 6d.

An equally interesting speciality will be found in Novena Sunproof and Windproof Creme, which affords positive protection to the skin against the sun as well as the wind, and prevents—as Valaze removes—freckles, sunburn, tan, sallowness, and chapping of the skin due to heat, wind or weather.

By rubbing a little of the Creme into the skin, one is enabled to go out riding, motoring, or boating, to expose one's face and hands to the sun's scorching heat, and to return home with the complexion as fair and pure as when one started out. Novena Sunproof Creme is sold at 2/- and 3/6 a jar; postage 4d.

Other specialities particularly recommended for summer use are: Valaze Complexion Powder, for greasy, overmoist, and shiny skins; Novena Poudre, for dry and normal skins. Each obtainable in three tints—pink, white and creme—2/-, 3/- and 5/- a box; postage 3d. Valaze Snow Lotion, a superb Viennese Liquid Powder, cools, refreshens, whitens and preserves the skin. Price 3/6; postage 6d. Valaze Liquidine is an ideal summer preparation. Its use overcomes many undesirable conditions, amongst which are undue redness of the nose, and face, greasiness, oiliness and shine, by acting directly on the pores, and freeing them from the waste matter which clogs them, thus eliminating the possibility of blackheads, pimples and acne. Price 5/- and 8/6 a bottle; postage 6d.

Valaze Blackhead and Open Pore Cure banishes these disfigurements, cures a greasy, coarse, overmoist skin, and assists in preserving the health of the complexion. Price 2/10, posted. Novena Cerate is an emollient skin cleanser without the use of soap and water. When the skin is delicate or sensitive, it should be cleansed with Novena Cerate. This cleanses, soothes, softens, whitens and preserves the skin. Price 2/- and 3/6; postage 4d.

By the use of Valaze Hair Tonic the care of the hair is made at once pleasant and effective. It goes to the root of hair troubles, restores the vital principle to the hair follicles, and produces luxuriant growth where the natural process is sluggish. Its antiseptic qualities are on a par with the power it possesses of preserving and strengthening the hair and giving it softness and gloss. Price 3/6; postage 6d. Dr. Lykuski's Hair Tonic is very easily, effectually and economically applied by means of an ingenious Pneumatic Comb. Passing the comb through the hair, the fluid runs imperceptibly through the hollow teeth right down into the scalp without at all disturbing the most elaborate coiffure. Price 2/9 posted.

Novena Hair Destroyer instantly removes the hairs without the slightest detriment to the skin. It is safe and pleasant to use, and leaves a delightfully cool sensation which is so different to the usual effect of other depilatories. Price, 5/6; postage 6d.

It will be of additional interest to the women readers of this paper to know that Mlle. Rubinstein will be in Sydney during February, and will remain there for a few weeks, during which time she may be consulted on any matter concerning the complexion. No charge whatsoever will be made for advice, and whether it concerns the object of some of her many new Specialities, or the use of an old one to obtain the best possible beautifying results, Mlle. Rubinstein will be well able to furnish all those who will seek her counsel, numerous hints which should prove of lasting advantage. If calling on Mlle. Rubinstein should be impossible for some reason or other, or you prefer to treat yourself at home, she will send you, if 3d. is sent for postage, her book, "Beauty in the Making," in which will be found a remedy for every complexion trouble, and indispensable information on the scientific and modern treatment of the Face and Hair.

an excessively corpulent woman remembers the anguish she felt when the knowledge was first forced upon her that her girlish Beauty of Form had started to develop to abnormal proportions. How vividly she remembers the tears she wept when that monster "fat" made her realise that her graceful, slim figure was rapidly becoming a thing of the past, and that she must hereafter take her place in the ranks of the heavyweight division.

A WOMAN'S

chief charm lies in a perfect figure, and every woman knows how appreciative the world is in bestowing its admiration upon her who can conquer fat. Fortunately this is now easily accomplished, and thanks to Formettes—the proven and popular remedy for obesity—every woman can have a

that will look its best in the prevailing fashions. No woman on account of excess avoirdupois need now learn with regret that "skirts are to be worn narrower than usual during the coming season," neither need she study the question of diet, and cut down her daily ration of potatoes from four to two, and struggle along with never a dessert in a vain effort to make the fashions fit her. She need only just buy a carton of Formettes from the nearest chemist or draper, and

BEFORE TAKING

Breakfast, Lunch, or Dinner, she quietly and all unseen slips one of these pleasant herbal little tablets into her mouth, and then enjoys a hearty meal, confident in the knowledge that though she eats all she wants of whatever she likes she is on the sure road to rapid, easy, safe, and pleasant weight reduction, from the very moment she starts to take

"FORMETTES."

Formettes call for no exercising, no dieting, no massaging—no additional help or treatment of any kind, have never been known to cause a wrinkle, and both make you look and feel years younger.

FORMETTES are sold by all Chemists and Drapers at 5/3 per Carton. 5/3 AGENTS: Anthony Hordern and Sons; Washington Soul; Pattinson Bros.; Elliott Bros.

ANY

woman who is abnormally fat will be glad to know that all corpulency complaints such as palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, indigestion, dyspepsia, heart burn, and many other obesity ills quickly disappear along with the fat under the beneficial effects of "Formettes." It is bad enough that a should cause her to suffer the jibes and sneers of others, but when she is called upon to pay the twin penalty of bad health, is it any wonder the fat becomes unbearable? Remember that Formettes are no new experiment, but a thoroughly reliable time-tested cure for corpulency, and call for no such risky measures as do all other so called fat cures, in the shape of exhausting physical exercising and starvation diets.

AFTER TAKING "FORMETTES"

a few days, you will be surprised and delighted at the difference in your bodily health, as well as in your form. Not only will your figure begin to regain its lost charm of slenderness, but the roses will start to return to your cheeks, the sparkle to the eye, and the youthful buoyancy to your steps. You may eat as many meals a day as you desire, and still go on rapidly reducing; a most astonishing part of the "Formettes" treatment for obesity is that it does not produce wrinkles or leave the skin flabby, and last, though not least, while the beneficial results are quite permanent, they can be accomplished without anyone being the wiser as to how you have so happily reduced your burden of flesh, and so greatly improved both your appearance and your health.

JANUARY REVIEWS.

ALSACE AND LORRAINE.

The recent Zabern incident lends interest to an article by Mr. Henry Baerlein in the "Fortnightly" on "The State of Alsace and Lorraine." The writer believes, after having made a close study of the question that both Alsatians and Lorrainers would, upon a referendum, vote in overwhelming numbers not for French and not for German citizenship; they would ask for more or less autonomy. Perhaps a South German Catholic Prince, as Maximilian Harden suggested, would be acceptable to a majority. Harden would go further and hand back some of the more French districts to France in exchange for an African colony. Publicists have pointed out that Alsace and Lorraine are the sole obstacles to a Franco-German understanding.

Sir Harry H. Johnston, G.C.M.G., has an article on the same subject in the "Nineteenth Century." The affairs of Alsace-Lorraine, he says, interest Great Britain only less than they interest France, Luxemburg, and Belgium; for on the eventual solution of the national and regional status of the Western Rhine basin depend the peace and prosperity of the old world, and especially of Western Europe. One possible solution of the difficulty which he mentions is the retrocession of the small area of French-speaking Lorraine—not more than 450 square miles, including Metz and the line of the Seille River—to France, in return for further concessions on the part of France in Congoland.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S PROBLEMS.

Mr. James Davenport Whelpley writes in the "Fortnightly" on "President Wilson and His Problems." Naturally the article is chiefly concerned with the position in Mexico, and the writer says that the Wilson policy of watchful drift in regard to that land of revolutions will probably win out in the end. The American people as a whole place little hope in the Democratic party, but throughout the country there is a decided tendency to have faith in President Wilson. The greatest factor in the political future of America will be the state of business and industry during the next two years. One great blow has come to the Democratic party now in power—the cost of living has not been and will not be reduced by the new tariff law. In view of the Interstate Commission now at work in Australia, we read with interest that in the United States there will be no more tariff legislation than is necessary to put the whole question upon a scientific basis, and this will result in the creation of a board of tariff experts, in whose hands will be left the initiative for suggested changes in the law. On the subject of trusts and monopolies, the writer remarks that some of the most wonderful business organisations of the world are seriously threatened unless something happens to enable the public mind to discriminate between good and evil in the form of industrial enterprise.

TYRANNY IN PORTUGAL.

The unhappy state of affairs in Portugal today is given prominence in the January Reviews. Mr. Phillip Gibbs, in the "Contemporary," and Mr. Francis M'Cullagh, in the "Nineteenth Century," both write on the subject. And the conditions they disclose are enough to shock the civilised world. For there is no law and order in Portugal, there is neither liberty nor justice. These two men have made a tour of the prisons in Portugal, and have been otherwise inquiring into the conditions ruling in that country, and they are both agreed on the point that Portugal is to-day the most unhappy country in the world. Its position is far worse under the Republic than under the Monarchy. Even strangers arriving in Lisbon are shadowed about the streets until it is known what their business may be, and to what people they are paying visits. Private letters are opened in the post-office and the hotels by secret-service agents. In brief, a reign of terror prevails. In the Limoeiro at Lisbon, in the Aljube at Oporto, in bishops' palaces now converted into gaols, and in military prisons hundreds of men were met—professors, doctors, journalists, priests, peasants, soldiers, policemen, and even poor boy students—who had been kept in these miserable places many weeks, some of them as long as 17 months, without any trial. Its Government is the declared enemy of God and religion. Portugal, we are told, is plague-stricken, and its life is being sapped by a spiritual, moral, and economic rot. All ideals have faded away, all sense of duty is lost. The Republic has lived for the last three years on mendacity and corruption, and the Parliamentary elections have become a sham and a scandal. "Lisbon," says Mr. M'Cullagh, "is the most anti-Christian capital in Europe, not excepting even Stamboul."

BULGARIA AND ITS KING.

In "Ferdinand, Tsar of the Bulgarians," Mr. Spencer Campbell tells us in the "Fortnightly" that nature marked Ferdinand out to be a student—accident or destiny made him a king. Temperamentally he and the mass of the nation are as poles asunder. Bismarck once remarked that "a reign in the Balkans would be an interesting reminiscence." Ferdinand has had this interesting experience. There was in the Balkans another Bismarck—the "Bismarck of the Balkans," as he has been called, and the story of the long conflict between Ferdinand and Stambuloff, and the end of it, the assassination of Stambuloff in the street as he was returning from the Union Club in Sofia to his house, is one of the most dramatic things in modern history. "Tragic as was the murder of Stambuloff, sordid the scenes which disgraced his funeral," says Mr. Campbell, "he was granted the crowning mercy of dying at the conclusion of his life-task, while it was yet perfect and complete; and Ferdinand might well wish that a fate a thousand times more miserable had stricken him down at the fall of Adrianople, so that he would have avoided the shame, humiliations, defeat, and contempt which have been his portion since that fatal June 30. Ferdinand's position, it is added, is studded with difficulties and dangers. The Bulgarians do not forget or forgive, and they are on the search for a scapegoat for their rout in July

THE FUTURE EMPEROR-KING.

According to rumours, the heart of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, the future Emperor-King, is set on transforming the Dual Monarchy into a Federalist State, and on bringing not only Montenegro and Servia within the imperial fold, but also Bulgaria, the Balkan war notwithstanding. This is an ambitious programme. It is discussed in the "Fortnightly" by Miss Edith Sellers, a frequent contributor on Austro-Hungarian questions. Most of the Archduke's personal friends and the party with which he has identified himself are Christian Socialist in sympathy. To English folk the thought of Jesuits as social reformers may seem fantastic, yet in Austria they years ago took the lead in denouncing the great capitalists as the oppressors of the poor, and began clamouring for social and political reforms, above all, for universal suffrage. It is through their influence, in a great measure, says the writer, that the Austrian Church is become democratic, and her political representatives Christian Socialists. And the Archduke is a stanch friend of the Jesuits. Under the future Emperor, we are told, every nerve will be strained to render the army strong, and to build Dreadnoughts; under him, too, the Triple Alliance will still be the corner-stone of Austria's foreign policy, though he may be stirred with the ambition to compete against the German Emperor for the dominant place in the partnership.

A LAYMAN ON MEDICAL RESEARCH.

Mr. John Howard McFadden is an American merchant who has spent thirty years in England, the last four of which have been spent in promoting medical research. He writes to the "Nineteenth Century" in the hope that the publication of his experiences may lead others to try this mode of helping to alleviate human suffering. He has now four qualified workers engaged. He was chiefly interested at first in discovering the cause and cure of cancer, but gradually fresh paths of research have opened up as well. From the outset he found this form of philanthropy most interesting, and it has now become a fascination. The thing may be done on a moderate scale, he adds, and "even one worker provided will help considerably, and ensure more gratification than a third motor car."

"MARTIAL LAW."

(BY X.)

The Dutch in South Africa have been always an agrarian class, working their farms with Kaffir labour; and one of the causes of the Boer war was the fear on the part of the old Boer that if white settlers were encouraged, this patriarchal method of industry would be disturbed. The stern suppression of the strike, and the deportation of its leaders is, in part, an expression of this old hostility to modern industrialism. But the matter of interest to us, as a British community, is not so much the deportation of the leaders of the strike, which took place under a local statute, as the declaration of "martial law" in the earlier stages of the dispute. How many persons have realised, on reading this item of news, that they have been spectators, all unwitting, of a very remarkable manifestation of the power of the common law? South Africa, being a conquered colony preserves her original Roman Dutch system of law; but being also a British dominion its citizens enjoy the protection of the fundamental maxims of the common law in regard to their personal liberty. One of these is the right of self-protection, with its corresponding duty of service to protect the State. This right and its correlative duty are, of course, common to every system of law; but it is only the common law of England, which imposes the duty upon every citizen equally, and not, in the first instance, upon a special class, such as the military or police. In all other European countries the duty of preserving order is cast, in the first instance, upon officials, who are protected by a special administrative code, which confers special powers upon them and permits them to plead the order of a superior officer in their defence. But the English common law, which in this particular is common to the whole Empire, knows no such distinction between citizen and official. Every man, from the Governor-General to the most junior constable, has to answer for his official acts before the ordinary tribunals of the country; and the "Law Administrative," which forms part of every other European system, is unknown in the British Empire. That is to say, no public officer in a British dominion can justify an illegal act upon the plea that he acted upon the order of a superior officer, or in what he believes to be the interests of the State.

How comes it, then, that "martial law," which has been described by Sir Matthew Hale, as being "no law at all," can be permitted in a British dominion—a question which is the more puzzling because neither in England nor in any part of the Empire is there any statute making martial law part of the law, and, therefore, no statutory basis upon which a proclamation of such law can rest? Nay, more, there is an express provision in the Bill of Rights against "martial law." The answer is that "martial law" rests upon the fundamental doctrine of the right of a citizen to defend himself; and that the common sense of English Judges interpreted the prohibition of the Bill of Rights as being applicable only to times of peace.

The first and only justification, therefore, of "martial law" is a state of war—"inter arma silent leges." When this exists, "martial law" may be applied; but this will be always at the risk that those who use this weapon of defence can satisfy the ordinary tribunals that a state of war exists in fact. When this is proved, the Courts will not question the proceedings. This has been laid down very clearly by the Privy Council in the case of Zilanko, which was decided in 1907.

It must not be supposed, however, that any enormity may be practised under martial law. Grave errors of judgment and bona-fide mistakes will not be inquired into by the Courts if a state of war be proved, but nothing can justify the use of "martial law" to gratify private spite. Everything done under martial law must be bona-fide. Thus, the unfortunate Morant suffered death by the judgment of a court martial during the Boer War because he was held to have killed prisoners without just excuse. But since martial law is a rule of necessity, a man who acts under it honestly and without excessive violence, is held free from blame, because he is simply doing his duty as a good citizen. The distinction is quite familiar to juries in ordinary times. If a man comes to rob me in the King's highway, I may shoot him in self-protection. But if I mistake this man's intention and shoot him, it becomes a question for the jury whether I acted in good faith and reasonably.

It will be plain from what is stated above that not many questions of difficulty can arise when there is an unquestioned state of war; but it is far otherwise when, as in the case of a general strike, or a riot, the fact of a state of rebellion or insurrection is not established clearly. It will be, then, a question of fact, to be determined by evidence, whether a plot or disturbance is so serious and extensive as to amount really to war—that is to say, whether it interrupts the ordinary course of society, by preventing the execution of contracts or the enforcement of the orders of a Civil Court. But let it once be established that the ordinary course of society is interrupted by the fact of actual war, then the Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to call in question the propriety of the action of the military authorities or other persons acting under the orders of the Government in suppressing the disorder.

Up to this point we have considered only a state of war arising from the operations of a foreign enemy, or a force of rebels. Much greater difficulties arise, in practice, in the application of "martial law" to the case of civil disturbance, such as a general strike. Yet the principles which govern the use of this weapon of self-defence are exactly the same as would govern it in the case of an invasion by a foreign army. In each case the Government of the day has a paramount duty to protect the State against disorder, and its acts will be justified in each case by the same considerations. It may be often a question whether a mere riot or disturbance is sufficiently serious and extensive as really to amount to war, and whether the intervention of any force beyond that of the police is really necessary; but once let it be established that the King's writ will not run in any district, owing to the organised refusal of a body of citizens to obey the law, and that there is, in consequence, a real danger of disorder and injury to life and property, at that moment it becomes the duty of all citizens to take measures to restore normal conditions; and no court of justice can question the propriety of acts done in good faith to secure this end. The essential requisites to the protection of a citizen who acts under "martial law" is that he acts bona fide in pursuance of the duty cast upon all citizens by English law to preserve order, and that he does not use more violence than is necessary. Usually—and this is the safer course—the Government issues a proclamation declaring "martial law"; but this is not necessary. The precedents in Clode's "Military Law" consist of a series of directions to the citizens and the constitution of tribunals to try breaches of these directions, or other disturbances of public order; and it is quite consistent with the theory which justifies this step that the term "martial law" is not mentioned in these proclamations.

To sum up:—"Martial law" must be distinguished from "Military law." The latter is a rule of conduct for persons in the military or naval services. The former, while it is in force, is applicable indiscriminately to all citizens.

A declaration of martial law is usual, although not necessary. Usually it prescribes things to be done or forbidden; and constitutes tribunals to enforce these directions. These tribunals may inflict any penalty, even that of death; because obedience to orders may be of vital importance, so that disobedience may imperil the safety of the State.

"Martial law" is not a mere negation of law and justice. It is not arbitrary and uncertain, so that the term law cannot be properly applied to it. Officers executing martial law are bound like all other citizens by the ordinary laws of the land; but, if a state of war exists—and this is the only justification of martial law—the ordinary courts will not inquire into any acts done under it which are done in good faith and under reasonable necessity. But, as Chief Justice Cockburn pointed out in his charge to the Grand Jury in the case of the Jamaica Riots in 1866, there is no authority for saying that "martial law" is the negation of law, or that it is an entirely arbitrary system which over-rides all rules of justice. "Such a doctrine is as unfounded and intolerable as it is mischievous," and therefore the courts will always interfere to protect citizens against the wanton abuse of power under martial law, or any proceeding which is contrary to natural justice.

Every person acts under martial law at his own risk, and may be called upon to justify his actions either in the local courts or in London. Consequently, it is usual to pass a bill of indemnity for all acts done under martial law while it was in force. But this will not protect anyone who used the forms of martial law to gratify private spite. In such a case even a general Act of Indemnity will furnish no defence. (Wright v Fitzgerald, 27, State Trials, p. 765.)

The principal authorities on this important but little-known branch of the law are Stephen's "History of the Criminal Law," Clode's "Military Law," Keith's "Responsible Government in the Dominions"; Dicey's "Constitutional Law," and Finlayson's Reports of the Jamaica Cases in 1866.

A BUSH RAILWAY.

(BY R.M.)

An interesting example of railway construction is afforded by watching the progress of the Dunedoo-Coonabarabran line, under, perhaps, more typically Australian conditions than those that prevail on the North Coast. Here, in Central New South Wales, the outposts of civilisation are being extended in a swift and certain manner, the present terminus of Dunedoo having literally sprung into existence within the last two years, and grown rapidly in proportion.

The writer had the opportunity of travelling along the new line as far as it has at present advanced, on a tour of inspection, with the engineer in charge. The mode of transit was by motor car, for on these light lines work is spread over such a radius that horses are dispensed with for the sake of time and speed, an innovation well worth while, though roads are frequently rough and problematic. Outside the township the country is flat and somewhat grassless, given over to the gum, old stunted pines, and a flourishing crop of goannas and lizards that scuttle across the natural high road before the wheels of the car, some being slain by the way. Though this temperate clime does not escape midsummer heat as all Australia knows it, the morning air is delightful after rain during the week, with the healthy freshness and dryness of the interior bush, in itself a tonic to body and mind.

The first stop is at a little village of navvies' camps off the road, where a platform is to be erected, and the new line is visible, the rails shining in the sun high on an embankment of soft red soil and shaly rock, that looks as if the weather would wash it away. However, the engineers have seen that it hasn't a chance, with their drainage system of small culverts at frequent intervals, except under circumstances of abnormally rude behaviour. The camps have cooking galleys attached to them, mostly of hessian, with iron chimney-places, and one large one is erected in the likeness of a social hall, with an iron roof over the canvas walls, the institution barracked for by the committee, of which Lady Chelmsford was president, now carried into execution by the Government. The Bush Book Club is also here, represented by a box of books under its sheltering iron. A primitive tennis court was to be observed with a smile, a chipped and level patch, the net consisting of bags suspended on a piece of wire, stretched from post to post. A handful of youngsters were perched on some loose trucks in a siding, as healthful and happy-looking as children could be. No sign of the platform had yet appeared, save for a cleared space and a row of piles on which it shall rest.

Further on, the country opens out around the tiny township of Merrygoen, a comparatively old locality that served as a half-way place on the road between Coonabarabran and Mudgee, before the extensions to Gulgong and Dunedoo. Merrygoen consists of a post-office, a hotel, and some picturesque old vine-clad and white painted farm-houses, in the midst of a spacious vista devoted to wheat-growing. Horse teams, laden with wool from Coonabarabran, pass by in plenty.

The car passes swiftly through, and stops presently at the site of a future bridge. It is interesting in its natural aspect, as yet unsullied by the roar of the train, a dry creek bed with a grassy bottom and soft sheoaks and miniature gums straggling about the banks. The space across measures little more than 100 yards, but the banks are of crumbling texture, and riddled with rabbit-burrows, and the engineer and his assistant camped along the line have an anxious consultation on the subject, study the plan, and pace the debatable ground. At last it is decided to cut well into them, dig a trench, and proceed to drive the piles, which are strewn at random over the scene, with the heavy ironbark girders that are to be. Beyond here the rails are not yet laid, though the fresh red soil-bed of the line is visible, ready for the sleepers to rest upon it. All these sleepers are locally procured, a sawmill having been erected to cut them into shape en route.

About 20 miles out of Dunedoo the line strikes the Castlereagh, a typical inland river, that rises in the Warumbungle Range about Coonabarabran. The bed of this river is an expanse of sand, with a tiny trickle like a lengthy snake coiling and twisting through it, but it never runs dry, and a plentiful supply of water may be obtained by digging. In flood-time, the wide expanse becomes a raging torrent with unexpected suddenness. The banks are picturesque with red gums and apple trees, with now and again a Government camp of half a dozen, more or less, snowy tents beneath their shadows, temporary headquarters of an inspector or assistant engineer. In one of these we partake of lunch, enjoyable beyond a seven-course meal in the city to the hungry traveller through the bush. All around the country is open, devoted to wheat-growing and grazing, and the acres of cultivation are a cheering sight. From Gulgong to Dunedoo, grazing has given way more and more to cultivation, and is still doing so, since the advent of the railway within the last few years, and this country beyond is expected to follow the same footsteps.

An interesting spectacle is pile-driving by horse-power, though the method is extremely old-fashioned, but the engine in use at first was found so inconvenient to move about in rough places that it was replaced by the slower mode. The horses, that can drop the 25 cwt. iron monkey with an effective thud on the obstinate pile five times a minute, are thoroughly trained to the work, and run obediently backwards and forwards into position without the word of command—a shining example of willingness at their work. It is always a fine point of consideration how far to drive the piles, since an equal number of blows is not sufficient guide in itself, when they strike on a harder or softer kind of rock. Again the judgment of the engineer comes into play in another important detail. Add to this the arrangements in contact with head office for the supply of material and tools, not wholly free from the red-tapeism in which all head offices indulge; the application of the energies of 500 men; the surmounting of every varying local condition; the supervising of a hundred separate trades, and a vague idea of the exigencies of the business of swift and thorough railroad building may be grasped. There is scope in Australia for another Kipling to arise and sound the timbrel of a perfect understanding of the spirit of the work that is the first step towards civilisation in the making, as he has sounded it to an Indian key-note.

The township of Binnaway is reached at last, another old half-way place on the road from Coonabarabran, not as large as the progressive Dunedoo, though at present showing signs of growth. Here there is a quaint suspension bridge over the Castlereagh, just wide enough to permit two to pass, a few hundred yards outside the town, the only means of crossing in flood-time.

The hotel at Binnaway proved one of the many bush hotels in small townships, without elegance, but welcome enough to provide a meal and bed after a long day in the open air. A perfect evening set in, with wafts of scented hay from the cultivation paddocks, mingled with the breath of the gums in the outer bush. A man on the verandah played a concertina, whilst the moon rose worthy the symphony of a mighty master as celebration; but even the concertina did not diminish her glory, as she shone clearly down on this very real drama of nation-building, as exemplified in every rough detail of settlement and of life. Some navvies were drinking and singing at the far side of the building, but the long line of earthworks wound away across the miles, and they were the tools of the ultimate end at which it aimed, an end great enough to match the majesty of nature—the creation of a clean and healthy civilisation, a the peopling and development of a continent.

IN THE GARDEN.

HYBRID COLUMBINES.

Columbines have always been popular border plants, but increased attention is now being taken in the long-spurred hybrids, known as the Mrs. Scott-Elliott strain. That lady's success in the hybridisation of these plants has been recognised by all admirers of these beautiful flowers. The new strain consists of hardy perennials, with elegant, divided leaves, and showy flowers of the most delicate colours, which include blue, cream, rose, terra-cotta, and pure white. The long spur-like appendages on the flowers make them singularly attractive. If seeds are sown any time this month or early in March in the coast and more favoured districts, the resulting plants, with ordinary care and attention, will flower next spring and summer. In the colder parts, where the ordinary columbines thrive, the seeds should not be sown in the open till August. If a number of plants are required, prepare a seed-bed in a sheltered situation, and on the smooth surface sow the seeds thinly and evenly, leaving them only very lightly covered with soil. Where there is room for only a few plants the seeds may be sown in a well-grained seed-box or seed-pan nearly filled with light sandy soil. The seedlings should be regularly watered, and when about 3in high transplanted to the positions where they are to flower, favourable weather and soil conditions being chosen. Columbines show best in masses, but they are seen to great advantage in groups of three or five in the borders. The more vigorous growing hybrids should be planted about 18in apart.

Although these plants are easily cultivated and do well in any good, friable soil, they attain perfection in deeply worked, rich, sandy loam. The dwarf kinds make charming pot plants.

Long established columbines in the warmer districts should now receive attention. Where the old flowering stems and decaying leaves are unsightly, the plants should be cut nearly to the ground. Lightly fork in about the plants some well-decayed manure from the cow-yard, taking care not to injure the crowns. This will ensure vigorous, new growth when the autumn rains set in. It is not advisable to remove any leaves in autumn from plants growing in the colder parts, for they afford protection to the crowns and roots during the winter months. Neither should manure be applied to such plants till very early in the spring before new growth begins.

ALUM ROOT PLANT.

Alum root is the popular name of Heuchera sanguinea, one of the prettiest flowering dwarf herbaceous plants that have been introduced during recent years. It is a native of Northern Mexico, and, like many of the beautiful and showy flowering plants from that country, thrives in many parts of Australia. This hardy, compact-growing plant has roundish lobed leaves, which are distinctly ornamental, and numerous flowering stems about eighteen inches long, clothed with bright crimson flowers in the typical form. There is a variety with white flowers, but the more recently raised varieties have blooms of various shades, ranging from crimson to white. The long, graceful flowering stems are admirably adapted for table and drawing room decoration. It is the season for sowing the seeds in the coast and more favoured districts, but in the colder parts August will be early enough. The seeds should be sown under the same conditions, and the seedlings treated similarly to the columbines. All the varieties of this plant are easily cultivated, and thrive in ordinary garden soils. The typical form with bright crimson flowers produces the most dazzling effect in bloom when grown in a small bed by itself, but may be planted, as well as the other varieties, in groups in the borders, or in rows. The young plants should be set out about one foot apart, and watered occasionally in dry weather.

NOTES.

All through the recent dry, hot weather one of the South African trumpet flowers, Tecoma mackenii, has been in full bloom, and is still flowering freely, and producing an exceedingly fine effect. This handsome, vigorous-growing climbing plant, which has large, somewhat trumpet-shaped, delicate, rose-pink flowers, with dark veins, thrives in rich, sandy soil, and shows to the greatest advantage in bloom when trained in a sunny situation. It is worth a good position in any garden where the climatic conditions are favourable. This climber can be successfully cultivated in all the warmer districts.

All the hardier fuchsias that have been flowering in the open since early in the season, and are now rather unsightly, should receive attention. Their long growths should be well shortened, the weak and useless shoots cut out, and the plants pruned into shape. Fork in lightly about their surface roots a little bone dust, or a good dressing of decomposed, rich manure, and then mulch with some well-decayed vegetable matter. This will stimulate vigorous, new growth, which will freely produce flowers in autumn and early winter. The developing leaves should be hosed occasionally to keep them free from insect pests, and water should be freely given at the roots in dry, hot weather.

In the coast districts seeds of anemones and ranunculuses may now be sown where the resulting seedlings are to flower. These beautiful flowering plants thrive in a sunny and sheltered position in light, rich soil. With a little care and attention, anemones and ranunculuses raised in this way will produce a profusion of bloom in early spring. Also now seeds of the South African snapdragon, Nemesia strumosa, and its very beautiful flowering varieties, under similar conditions. Seeds of none of these plants should be sown in the open in the cooler districts till spring.

GLASS HOUSE.

Achimenes and gloxinias are now making a fine display, and their lovely flowers have rarely been seen to greater advantage. These plants will be greatly benefited by receiving an occasional watering of weak liquid manure at the roots, as will also caladiums and other soft-wooded plants that have filled their pots with roots.

Seedlings raised from seeds of calceolaria, cineraria, and primula, sown in December last, should now be sufficiently forward to be transferred from the seed pans singly to small flower-pots. Well drain the latter with crushed charcoal, and in potting keep the crown of the plant above the surface soil, and use a light, but not too rich compost. Keep the newly-potted seedlings in a rather close, shaded position for a few days, until they begin to root freely in the soil. After that, they must have an abundance of light and air, but protection from direct sunlight. That will ensure vigorous, sturdy growth, especially if the young plants are kept as near the glass as possible. Watering must be carefully and efficiently attended to. More seeds of these plants may now be sown, under the conditions previously referred to in this column, to provide succession.

Giant mosses, such as Selaginella willdenovii, with climbing stems, should have their growths trained evenly over their supports, or their beautiful foliage will not be seen to advantage. Clerodendrons, dipladenias, and other flowering climbing plants should be similarly attended to, so that their beautiful blooms will be well displayed.

VEGETABLE GARDEN.

If the ground on which it is intended to grow the autumn and winter crops of broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower has not yet been thoroughly prepared by being heavily manured and worked deeply, the work should be taken in hand without further delay. Seedlings raised from seeds of these plants sown in December last should now be sufficiently grown to be successfully transplanted from the seed beds to the positions where they are to mature. Early York and similar dwarf cabbages should be set out in rows twenty inches apart and fifteen inches apart in the rows, but the more robust ones, as London Market, should be allowed more room. Veitch's Autumn Giant cauliflower and other robust varieties should be planted in rows three feet apart, and two feet apart in the rows, and similar distances should be observed when setting out broccoli.

In drills now seeds of butter beans, dwarf beans, beet, carrot, parsnip, culinary peas, spinach, Swede and white turnips.

Only a small sowing of culinary peas should be made in the cooler parts, but a large one may now be made in the coast and more favoured districts for an early autumn crop.

In prepared beds now seeds of borecole, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, endive, kohl-rabi, or turnip-rooted cabbage, leek, and savoy cabbage.

To keep up a continuous supply of fresh, crisp salad plants make occasional small sowings of seeds of cress, lettuce, onion, mustard, and radish. Sow these seeds in rich soil, and give the seedlings frequent supplies of water in dry weather.

NEIGHBOURS ASTOUNDED.

Little Girl Wonderfully Restored to Health---A Puny Weak Child with Rheumatism--Now Healthy and Active through Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

In the district of No. 4 Charles St., Erskineville, Sydney, neighbours point out little May Allport, as she passes on her way to school. As a child they never expected to see her strong and active. She is now fourteen—a healthy growing girl—but from the age of seven, for years she was a puny little-invalid racked with the pains of Rheumatism. The mother thanks Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the fact that her little girl can run and play like other children.

To a reporter who interviewed her Mrs. Allport said:---"May was little better than a helpless invalid for years. She is now a very bright and active girl in her fourteenth year, but when she was seven she was attacked with Rheumatism and muscular wasting. So severe was the attack and so helpless did she become that she was known and spoken of as "the little girl with the Ricketts." One doctor examined her and treated her for Rheumatism. His treatment benefitted her and gave relief for the time, but she did not gain strength and was frequently re-attacked. This continued for years, and my heart was sad as I saw my invalid child advancing in years, though not in muscle and physique. Happily about this time I read of some remarkable cures that appealed to me, which had been effected by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I resolved to try if they would benefit my child. Before she had taken the contents of one box I could see her gaining strength and her appetite which had previously been bad was returning. Her thin white cheeks and lips were growing a rosier hue which gave me new hope, and I continued to persevere with the pills. I really could not tell how many she had taken--quite a number I know--for her's was a very serious case, but thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and perseverance, she is now enjoying the best of health, and can attend her school (St. Kieran's Golden Grove) regularly."

Every claim for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is proved by cures, therefore don't be put with a substitute said to be "just as good." Price 2s. 9d. per box, six boxes 15s. 3d., of all dealers or from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. of Australasia, Ltd., Sydney.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK

The real estate market has been fairly active this week. The inquiries for suburban land for building purposes has been stronger than usual, and quite a number of blocks have been disposed of. At the Rosebery Model and Industrial Suburb the demand this week has been unusually large, principally for land, and Messrs. Stanton and Son disposed of nearly £3000 worth. The same firm sold a cottage at Haberfield for £1425, and a cottage at Belmore for £575. A block on the North Steyne, Manly, changed hands at £14 10s per foot, and a second lot at £13 per foot.

Mr. C. H. Crammond, on behalf of the Perpetual Trustee Company, Ltd., sold a house and grounds, known as Yandella, at Summer Hill, for £3350; a shop property in King-street, Newtown, for £2300; a residence on The Crescent, Manly, for £2800; a cottage and grounds at Springdale-road, Killara, for £1850; three cottages, Morgan-street, Petersham, for £1350; two allotments in Henson-street, Summer Hill, for £1130, and a block at Dobroyde, at £5 per foot.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman included in their sales this week three houses in Gurner-street, Paddington, £1600, and a house, Bourke-street, Surry Hills, £600. A lot in Centennial Park brought £4 10s per foot, while two blocks in Blenheim-street, Randwick were sold—one at £7, and the other £5 10s per foot. Two blocks, on the Athlingworth Estate, Meadowbank, realised 25s per foot.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench this week disposed of a block of land at Arncliffe, subject to the approval of the Court, for £1070. They also sold three cottages in Greenbank-street, Marrickville, for £1310, and two lots in the Austinlee Estate, Enfield, for £275. Land in Alexandria-parade, Coogee, brought £3 10s per foot.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Company had an exceptional busy week disposing of suburban land to the working classes on the easy payment system. The sales, which included 19 lots at Bankstown, totalled 63. The prices ranged from £7 per foot at Kensington, to £35 per acre at Bankstown. For the greater part of land, however, the prices obtained ranged from 10s to 25s per foot.

Some choice designs have been received for the Wentworth Falls Residential Golf Club house, and the directors will meet this morning at the office of the secretary, Mr. R. B. Paterson, Wentworth Falls, for the purpose of viewing and considering same. The plans will be on exhibition there for several days, and later it is hoped to have them transferred for view in the city.

Reports show a good demand for land on the Mountains. Messrs. Heriot and Co., Ltd., of Wentworth Falls, this week sold 10 blocks convenient to the golf links, at Wentworth Falls, for £400; a block close to the station, for £110; five blocks on the Government-road, £400, and six lots at from £50 to £70 per block. At Leura and Katoomba the demand is equally brisk.

A sale of western property took place this week, when Mr. J. P. Martin, stock and station agent, of Bourke, sold direct on account of B. C. Wright, the well-known western property Byrock station, with about 5000 sheep, 30 horses, 30 cattle, plant, etc., at a satisfactory figure. Messrs. R. H. Meares and Co., Proprietary, Ltd., were the purchasers. Messrs. Walton and Seton included in their sales this week three houses at St. Peters, for £1100. A pair of cottages at Marrickville, £720; another cottage in the same district £920, and one at £1150; also several others in the same suburb at lower figures.

There is a big inquiry respecting the old and historic property in Phillip-street, known as "Starkey's," which is to come under the hammer in the rooms of Messrs. Hardie and Gorman next Wednesday.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have a field day on Monday, when a special sale will take place in the rooms of the firm. Quite a list of city and suburban properties will be offered in order to close an estate. There are 13 lots in the catalogue.

SUBDIVISION WORK.

LAST SATURDAY'S RESULTS.

Last Saturday's sales were fairly successful. They were all well attended, and the bidding was good. Messrs. Hardie and Gorman sold several allotments in the Linsley's Estate, Gladesville, at prices which ranged from 27s to 39s 6d per foot.

Messrs. Raine and Horne had a very successful sale at Edgecliff, and disposed of the whole of the Wallaroi Crescent Estate, comprising 24 lots, at prices ranging from £5 17s 6d to £8 5s per foot. The sale totalled £8700. The attendance was a large one.

There was a big attendance at Mortlake on Saturday, when Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co. sold 66 allotments, part of the Grasmere Estate. The bidding was spirited. The prices ran from 8s 6d to 41s per foot, which produced a total of £3403.

A number of other sales took place, but were not quite so successful.

TO-DAY'S SALES.

Vaucluse.—Richardson and Wrench, Wentworth Estate.

Bankstown.—Clarke and Solomons, Carysfield Estate.

George's River—Richardson and Wrench, Williams' Estate.

Rydalmere—G. H. Mobbs and Co., Rydalmere Estate.

Lake Macquarie.—Raine and Horne, clearance sale of Boolaroo and Speer's Point townships.

Pymble—James G. Edwards and Co., Station View Estate.

Epping—W. H. Horning and Co., Orange Grove Estate.

Baulkham Hills.—Slack and Company, Moxham's subdivision.

Hurlstone Park—Barton and Ness, Hurlstone Park Estate.

NEXT SATURDAY'S SALES.

Medlow will provide a sale next Saturday, which ought to prove attractive to lovers of mountain blocks. Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co. will offer the Hydro View Estate, opposite the Hydro Hotel, and practically on the edge of the heights overlooking the Kanimbla Valley. There is no doubt that mountain property in good positions is meeting with a big demand this year.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have a sale next Saturday at Gladesville. They are main road business frontages in the heart of the town, next to the Gladesville post-office, on the main tram route to Ryde, and near the Parramatta River. There are altogether about 40 lots to select from. As this property is in the estate of the late H. M. Makinson, the well-known residence, Hillside House, will be included in one of the allotments. This estate was an early choice when a wide area was available for selection, and in both categories of business and residential sites there is room for those seeking land for shop uses, home occupancy, or speculation, to operate.

There is a good deal of settlement of late taking place in the direction of Fairfield, and subdivision sales held in that district of recent date have been very successful. Next Saturday Mr. W. F. Jago, of Parramatta, will offer the Bona Vista subdivision, which is regarded as the best of the Mark Lodge Estate, and is close to the station. There are 40 splendid lots, each 50 x 150, fronting good roads to come under the hammer, also the brick cottage home known as "Bona Vista." The city water will shortly be available to occupants of this estate.

The Miriam Hill Estate, right at the Ryde Railway Station, is to come under the hammer next Saturday, when Messrs. Raine and Horne will offer 47 splendid residential sites, having frontages to leading thoroughfares, including the main Parramatta-road. This land is on the route of the extension of the Ryde tramway, which is being carried out to the railway station. City gas and water are on the estate. This is a good opportunity for the home seeker and the speculator. Ryde has proved itself to be a popular residential suburb, it being next to impossible to secure a house there. It is but 12 miles by rail from Sydney.

Historic Watson's Bay will provide a sale next Saturday, when Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co., Ltd., will offer the Taylor Beach Estate. These are absolute water frontages to high water mark, there being no reservation. The areas are liberal, and the land slopes gradually to the water, while there is also a frontage to the Crescent. The land is in close proximity to the tram, the ferry, and the swimming baths.

The sale next Saturday of the unsold lots of the Addison Estate, at Marrickville, by Mr. C. H. Crammond, is sure to be attractive, for the first sale was highly successful. The land is at the corner of Addison and Illawarra roads. The sale is announced as an absolute clearance of the remaining blocks. This is a chance for speculators and others to obtain land on easy terms. It is a rapidly improving district, where values are not likely to get a set back. There has been a big demand for lithographs.

PROGRESS OF THE SUBURBS.

WAVERLEY.—I.

The Municipality of Waverley can lay claim to some of the finest of our marine scenery. It can be viewed from many centres of the district. Out from the dizzy cliffs of Bondi can be seen the Pacific, with its wide ocean front and its waves beating at times with great fury upon the rocky-bound coastline, or rolling in with force upon the magnificent beach, which for surf bathing purposes is among the finest around Sydney. From other points of vantage, picturesque views of the harbour and the valley of Edgecliff, and the flats of Rose Bay, now quickly being covered with houses, can be obtained. As a residential area few districts can surpass Waverley from a health standpoint. In consequence, it has become popular, and has grown by leaps and bounds in every direction. As a picnic ground, tourist resort, and sea bathing centre, Waverley ranks high. Indeed, it has an all round reputation of being a very fine marine suburb. It lies as far east as man can tread; consequently, it cannot spread but within the four corners of its boundaries. A settlement has taken place during the last 10 years which places Waverley in a leading position in respect to the number of houses built in any one suburb in a given year.

But Waverley had a small beginning. Extensive sandhills, covered with scrub, which included the geebung and the five-corner. Deep quarries, from which free stone, that now adorns many of the palatial buildings of the city, was taken. Creeks, ravines, and gullies abounding with ferns and native flora of every description, including the golden wattle, the crimson Christmas bush, and the soft tints of the flannel flower, were the characteristics of Waverley in its wild, but natural, state. There was little habitation at Waverley prior to the 'Fifties. A number of early grantees had been registered, but until the early 'Sixties settlement was indeed small. A few scattered houses amongst the scrub and the sandhills was all that could be seen in the way of habitation. At that time there was little means of transit to and from the city, except by one's own horse and trap. In the 'Fifties the 'buses only ran to Paddington, but early in the 'Sixties the residents managed to secure an extension of the route to the Tea Gardens at Waverley, now called Bondi Junction, and finally the 'bus stand was fixed at Charing Cross. The fare to Waverley was then 1s each way, and 6d each way to Paddington. Waverley was famous for its windmill, which stood on a hill near the tram sheds, almost on the western boundary of the present municipality, which is known to this day as Mill Hill. It was owned and worked by Henry Hough, who had five acres of land, which at his death in the early 'Eighties was sold for £1200. The same land to-day is worth, on an average, £5 per foot. It was not until the death of Mr. Hough that the mill got into disuse, and was pulled down.

In the early 'Sixties the Hough family were not, by reason of a windmill, the only conspicuous people in Waverley. There were many other well-known residents. There was Scotch Mary, whose healing powers were known far and wide. People who had been given up by doctors found their way to Scotch Mary, and received benefit from the herbs she had turned into medicine. Scotch Mary lived on what is now Bondi-road and Flood-street, opposite the Waverley Park. She was the keeper of quite a herd of goats, and had visitors galore. But Mary and her little cottage by the seaside have long since disappeared, and the land upon which the goats grazed is now covered with a fine house facing well-made roads.

Another well-known resident of Waverley in the 'Sixties was Francis O'Brien, who had 50 acres of land at Bondi Beach. In fact, the estate stretched from the beach to Old South Head-road. Mr. O'Brien was a colliery proprietor. He also was the owner of a white metal quarry at the end of Bondi Beach, and along those sandy shores he laid a tramway, of his own, and trucked the metal to the South Head-road, from which point it was carted into the city and suburbs for road making purposes. This early enterprising settler of Waverley lived in a large house within his land, known as "The Homestead." A feature about the home was the erection of a splendid mausoleum in the centre of the estate. At his death the estate was subdivided, with the exceptions of the old homestead, surrounded by an acre or so of land, and which is still occupied by the widow. The remainder was sold, and is now entirely built upon.

Granny Coyle was an old identity of Waverley. Her small lolly shop was the happy hunting-ground of the children, who all stood by granny because of her kindness and the good measure she gave when serving out the lollies to her little customers.

Adjoining granny's shop was the Tea Gardens Hotel. Old South Head-road was largely used by tourists and residents of the city, who loved to visit the ocean front, and view the expansive stretch of blue waters which brought home to them memories of dear old England on the other side. The tea gardens was then a popular hotel. It is still standing, at what is now Bondi Junction. It was almost at the turn of the road to South Head. It had pretty gardens in front, in which tea was served all day to visitors. Hence the name tea gardens. It was the great place of call to those out for a pleasure drive in the early 'Sixties, and afterwards to 'bus passengers. Mr. and Mrs. Webb, who kept the hotel at that time, were very popular, but the tea gardens and Granny Coyle's shop have given way to modern buildings, except the hotel building, which is still in use. The land at that corner to-day is worth about £100 per foot, and leading business houses adorn the site.

Another hostelry which became popular in the 'Seventies was the Charing Cross Hotel, which stood on the angle where the five roads met. Hence the name Charing Cross. The 'bus stand was removed to this junction as settlement extended in that direction. At the same time a well-known 'bus driver, Michael Quinn, started a line of 'buses to Bondi, and brought the fare to 6d. He was regarded as quite a benefactor to the residents, for the Waverley and Paddington 'bus proprietors had to follow suit, and lower the fares all round.

Waverley House was another landmark of the district. After it had been occupied in the early 'Sixties by Mr. E. J. Bailey and others, it became a leading private school, conducted by Miss Hall, and many of the old residents of Waverley received their early education within the four walls of this house. The number included Mr. Massie, the famous cricketer. The late Mr. Ebenezer Vickery, M.L.C., and other leading citizens, had their homes at Waverley at this time. Mr. Vickery owned a large tract of land in the direction of Bondi, which was afterwards sold and built upon. It realised good prices. Mr. Joseph Dickson, one of the early settlers of Bondi, had 10 acres of land at Tamarama Bay, which he bought for £150, and afterwards sold it to Mr. Fletcher, the dentist, who subdivided, and resold in allotments, at 30/ per foot. The land to-day is worth £4 to £5 per foot.

In the 'Fifties and early 'Sixties residents of Waverley depended upon underground wells and tanks for their water supply. It was a never-failing stream. In fact, there were quite a number of famous springs near the Edgecliff-road, where one had only to push a pipe into the side of a sandhill, and a beautiful stream of clear water would flow, but with the advent of the municipal council the city water supply found its way to Waverley. Mr. E. L. Clarke did much to bring this about. He was a dairyman at Bondi, yet he was by profession a barrister, but he loved animals, and was noted for a half-dozen very handsome ponies, which he used to ride and drive. When mounted Clarke with his long beard was a figure for admiration, and in this direction he scored largely.

But Waverley was destined to make great progress, and the incorporation of the borough in 1859 largely assisted in bringing this about. The first council had as its chairman Mr. James Vickery, who is still in the land of the living at Lawson, on the Mountains. He is a brother to the late Ebenezer Vickery. The second chairman—or Mayor, as they are now called—was Mr. Charles St. Julian. The first council clerk was Mr. William Mortimer, and he was followed by Mr. Jonathan Wiley, who still carries on business as an estate agent in the city, and who can give a very interesting account of Waverley, the scene of his boyhood days. The income of the council in those days was so small that it was not until 1874 that arrangements were made with the gas company to erect and maintain 20 gas lamps in the main roads at more than double the amount of what similar lamps cost to-day. The same year the council secured its first loan of £1000, which it borrowed from the local school mistress—Miss Hall—on debentures. From that day the progress of the borough was assured, and it has gone on increasing at such a rate that the capital value of the property of this municipality of 2970 acres is estimated at £3,348,517. The capital value of the land alone for assessment purposes is £1,234,000. The council in its first years of operation had an annual income of several hundred pounds. To-day the council's annual income reaches £33,000. There are 6000 houses in existence, and a population of about 30,000 reside in the municipality. At the outset one of the great difficulties the council had to contend with was the boundaries, which, like those of Paddington and Randwick, were not very clear from the city standpoint. Centennial Park, which had been vested in the City Council as a water-shed, was responsible for the trouble of fixing boundaries, and the city authorities decided that Newland-street was not to exist. So they put up a fence to stop traffic, but the Waverley aldermen quickly got an axe and chopped the fence down, levelling it to the ground. The city council re-erected the fence, but the Waverley men pulled it down again, proclaiming that it was a street. They won, and Newland-street is a main thoroughfare to-day.

PADDINGTON.

Mr. R. W. Joyner, one of the old residents of Paddington, writing in reference to the recent articles on that suburb, points out that he was born at Glenmore-road in 1858, and at that time he states the site of Hampden Park was a swamp, where flourished beds of watercress and peppermint, but it was never a market garden (they were all between Glenmore-road and the old bridge at Bayswater-road), and, as for the Rushcutter Bay Oval, it was simply a tidal mud flat covered at high-water, and no vegetables would have flourished there.

A PROGRESSIVE SUBURB.

There are few suburban municipalities which can boast of more rapid progress than Bankstown. The advancement has taken place chiefly within the four years of railway service to the district. One has only to take a stroll through the heart of the municipality, and witness the number of houses which are now nestled among the gum trees, that for years was the only growth visible. The bush-like appearance is fast disappearing, and the district is opening up well. In fact, habitation is spreading fast on all sides, and applications and plans are being lodged daily with the council for permission to build. An idea of the growth cannot be better stated than to say that eight years ago the council had an annual income of £500. This year the income will reach £5000, an increase of 1000 per cent. in eight years. The fresh country air of Bankstown, together with the easy terms upon which the toilers of the city have been able to purchase a block of land upon which to erect their future homes has helped many to invest, and year by year land values are rising, while new-comers have to go further afield to secure a block. One of the first estates opened up in central Bankstown, around the station, was the Greenacre Park, sold by Mr. Arthur Rickard. The next was the Greenacre Extension. Both these estates sold rapidly, and are as rapidly being built upon. There are very few blocks, if any, to be obtained in Greenacre, and so the Condell Park, Heart of Bankstown, and other estates have since been subdivided and sold, and they, too, are being built upon. Saturday subdivision sales now take place quite a mile from the station, and as much as £2 per foot was paid a month ago for land on the road to the river, a mile from the station. The member for the district is putting forward a strenuous effort to have a line of tramway constructed from the railway station to the river bank. This will further open up the district. There is likely to be a half-hourly train service, throughout the day, established shortly between Sydney and Bankstown. The growth of the district warrants this being done. There is too much overcrowding on the trains at present. It is stated also that the Rookwood to Bankstown railway will, as far as the section opened is concerned, be utilised for carrying passengers, and the logic of that is that it must, in the near future, be extended to the Bankstown station. The agitation for the extension of the line from Bankstown to Liverpool continues, and there is every prospect of an early development in that direction. Between Bankstown and Enfield, back of the Liverpool-road, over 400 men are at work, levelling and draining a large tract of country, which has come into possession of the Railway Commissioners, and which is likely to be used for the building of the railway workshops, washing sheds, etc., now located at Redfern, where 2000 men are constantly employed. The accomplishment of such a project should wonderfully help Bankstown, and the surrounding district. In fact, it is hard to say what may happen at Bankstown in the way of progress during the next five years. It has a great possibility. At the recent municipal elections one of the questions which agitated the public mind was the building of a new Town Hall, but the Mayor and several of the candidates wisely answered all inquiries as to a Town Hall, by stating that it would be better to wait for three years longer, as the district might, in the meantime, make greater strides than most people were aware of. Over £9000 is likely to be borrowed at once by the council to put the streets in order, and carry out other permanent works. The Gas Company has notified the council that it will be opening up the streets in a week or two in order to lay the gas mains to light up the municipality at night. It will thus be seen that "Progress" is the watchword for Bankstown, which evidently has a great future as a residential suburb, for the toilers of the city, many of whom have already built some very fine cottage homes, prettily designed, and tastefully finished.

MR. PERCY SPENCE'S PAINTINGS.

An interesting collection of water colour drawings and oil paintings by the well-known Australian artist, Mr. Percy F. S. Spence, was placed on view at James R. Lawson and Little's room yesterday. The collection is wide in range of subjects. Possibly the artist's best efforts are directed towards mythological and fanciful studies. "Endymion" (No. 5) is a painting, beautiful and exotic in its treatment of the charming old myth of the moon kissing the youth Endymion. Mr. Spence has chosen to portray the nude figure of the moon in an exceedingly difficult position, so as to create the impression of the figure having floated down till the lips met. The charm of the painting is entranced by moon-reflected waters in the left background. Another fascinating study was "Evensong of the Sea" (No. 80), in which a beautiful girl is seen rising out of the sea amidst iridescent bubbles.

A charming painting was the "The Reckless Driver," a study in delicate pearl-grey tints, of cupid driving an automobile, with two lovers seated in the back compartment. Other fanciful paintings of note were "The Moon" (No. 98), "Three Roses" (No. 89), "He Loves Me, he Loves Me Not" (No. 7), and "Wood Nymphs" (No. 2).

Of more material interest was an excellent painting of H.M.A.S. Australia, and a view from Kosciusko.

Mr. Spence is leaving for London shortly, and is taking over his large painting "The Arrival of the Australian Fleet," which has had the honour of being accepted by his Majesty the King.

The collection on view at Lawson and Little's will be sold by auction on Tuesday.

THE FORMETTES WAY TO GET RID OF FAT.

What way is that you ask? Well, the process is so simple, safe, and sure that we print it here for the benefit of every Fat Man or Woman who has tried every [illegible] Cure without success. Just go to the nearest Chemist or Drapers, and for 5/3 buy a carton [illegible] little tablets called Formettes, one of which should be taken before each meal for a month. Then carefully note the difference in your figure and general appearance. If you decide you have reduced enough, you can with the help of just an occasional Formette retain your figure just as it then is. If you wish to still further reduce buy a second carton and continue taking one before each meal until the desired degree of slenderness is attained, always remembering that at whatever stage you cease the improved conditions will be quite permanent. There are, however, a few "don'ts" to this treatment. Don't diet. Formettes are a tonic; they stimulate the appetite, and you should eat all you want of everything. Don't exercise more than you ordinarily do; in fact, don't exercise at all unless you wish. Don't be afraid Formettes will cause wrinkles. They will not; on the contrary, they will make the skin beautifully firm, cool, and velvety, and the [illegible] of youth will replace the sallowness the fat has caused. An astonishing and gratifying part of the Formettes method of Fat reduction is that such ailments as [illegible] palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, [illegible] gestion, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Sick Headache, and many other corpulency complaints all disappear along with the fat, never—no never—to return again.

BABY IS NOURISHED

ONLY BY WHAT HE DIGESTS,

NOT NECESSARILY BY ALL THE FOOD HE SWALLOWS.

For instance, the curd of unmodified cow's milk forms, in baby's stomach a solid, indigestible mass which often causes him acute pain and gives both baby and his mother many a sleepless night.

The stomach of a baby two weeks old holds only two ounces—no room for experiments—hence his food must be in a form that will enable him to quickly obtain all the nourishment from every drop he swallows.

Such a food is mother's milk—but if this is absent or deficient in quality or quantity the safe alternative is Glaxo.

Glaxo is simply the solids of pure milk with extra cream and milk-sugar added. The Glaxo process breaks down the nourishing milk-curd into minute soft particles easily digested and assimilated by even a very weak baby.

"I am recommending all my patients to put all their children on it. When the mother's milk is insufficient or unsuitable I consider Glaxo a very valuable [illegible].

SOME EARLY HISTORY.

The recent celebrations held at Maclean to honour the pioneers of the Clarence River naturally aroused great interest locally and revived some narratives of the early settlement on the river, which are interesting viewed from the standpoint of to-day. The first discovery and survey of the lower reaches of the Clarence and Richmond rivers was made in 1838 by Captain Rous, of H.M.S. Rainbow. He named the rivers after the Dukes of Clarence and Richmond. Apparently nothing was done by the Government of the time to follow up Captain Rous's discoveries by settlement of these rivers. But after that a convict named Craig escaped from Moreton Bay, and, making his way to the Clarence watershed, lived with the blacks. During his sojourn with them he saw much of the district. That he was greatly impressed with its potentialities may be gathered from the fact that he decided voluntarily to return to the authorities, relying upon the report of his discoveries to secure him a pardon. With this object in view, he made his way south to the convict settlement of Port Macquarie and reported himself. From there he was sent to Sydney, and his hope was realised, for in view of the information he furnished of the country, he secured a pardon for his original offence and also his escape from Moreton Bay. Another report of his adventure says he added to his claim upon the goodwill of the authorities by the location of some working bullocks which had strayed from Port Macquarie.

After his release Craig got into touch with Messrs. Thomas Small and Henry Gillet, of Parramatta, who were influenced by his reports of the fine pastures and cedar scrubs of the "Big River"—as he described it—to send an expedition there. Mr. Small's father had come out with the first fleet from England, and Mr. Gillet was a native of Cork, Ireland, and reached Australia under adventurous circumstances. He embarked, with his wife and two children, as carpenter on the emigrant ship Hibernia, with 550 souls aboard, for Sydney. When 60 days out, the ship took fire. The boats, which could carry only a small proportion of the people on board, were quickly filled with as many as could be crowded into them, and the rest were, necessarily, left to perish with the rapidly-burning ship. Gillet had been ordered into the captain's boat, but was unable to take his wife and children with him. After they had cast off the captain discovered that he had left the ship's papers in the cabin. Gillet volunteered to return and get them, on condition that he should be allowed to take his wife and children into the already overcrowded boat. He secured the papers, but was again unable to save his wife and children, who, with others, were forced to escape the flames by jumping overboard to meet a more merciful death by drowning. The boats, after drifting eight days, were picked up by a ship, and their occupants landed in South America. Gillet subsequently made his way to Sydney, and settled as a shipbuilder on the Parramatta River.

Lured by the reports of Craig, he and Thomas Small, in 1836, fitted out the schooner Susan, which Gillet had built, and, taking a number of sawyers, with Captain Thorne and a crew, they and Craig set sail to exploit the cedar of the "Big River," or Clarence, to the entrance of which they were guided by Captain Rous's reports. The entrance presented unexpected difficulties, and the little vessel ran first to Moreton Bay and then back to Sydney to replenish supplies, before finally entering the river. The Susan waited while a cargo of cedar was being cut, which she took to Sydney. A regular trade in timber was quickly established, other vessels and parties soon following the Susan. The latter on her subsequent trips brought back some cows and a few other cattle for Mr. Small, these being the first cattle that reached the river. Subsequently, Mr. Small and others realised the value of the grazing lands of the Clarence, and larger numbers of stock were brought overland. Timber cutting and grazing formed the staple industries until about 1858, when farmers secured from the Crown holdings of some of the rich alluvial lands about Ulmarra and Grafton, and cleared them for cultivation. From the beginning of free selection in 1862, settlement quickly extended. Messrs. Small and Gillet settled and died on the river, and there are still a large number of their descendants, especially of the Small family, residing in the district.

A SUMMER DAWN.

Below the ridge the western town sleeps silently, mist-shrouded, its street lamps winking softly through the haze. Pale starlight fills the summer night, and a thin crescent moon just clears the hills in the swiftly-lighting east. Behind the sleeping town frail mist-wraiths drift over the Macquarie, veiling the ancient weeping willows, and further out, lit faintly by the coming dawn, the long crests of the far Blue Mountains rise majestically. In the darkness at the ridges' foot a curlew calls mournfully, and from the hidden river-flats comes the shrill chattering of wild spur-winged plover. Suddenly a wag-tail calls cheerily from a shadowy gum, and down in the drowsy town a score of cocks crow lustily. Paler grows the rising moon and the dawn wind blows cool and soft on the ridges' crest. Dark leaden clouds along the eastern mountains turn slowly into deepening gold, and the far western sky fills with a billowy mass of fleecy, pale-rose cloud. High above the ridge top sounds suddenly the rush and whirr of unseen wings, and a flight of wood duck pass swiftly out of ear-shot to the southward.

Away in the west a great lone star hangs low, fading slowly into the growing day behind a pale-rose cloud bank. Blue wrens, ever early risers, begin to twitter in the sweet briars on the ridge. Rabbits flit softly round among the shadowy gums by the lagoons, and a lank, lean hare climbs slowly up a gravelly rise, nibbling as he goes. Dark-wooded spurs, green apple orchards, and pale yellow paddocks light up dreamily far to south and westward, and high above the river-flats, where the dim forms of grazing cattle show faintly through the mist, high-hovering skylarks carol deliciously in the morning air. Now a long strip of golden cloud blazes fiercely along the mountains' crest, and all the bushland birds awake. Yellow-gilled soldier birds begin to squabble in the low box saplings, a brown thrush calls clearly from a high, dead gum, and joyous magpies warble loudly out across the ridge-land. In the leafy boughs of curling apple trees wild honey-suckers hang and away, a red-tailed diamond sparrow calls sorrowfully to his mate, and to and fro among the stumps flit sprightly jacky-winters. Blue wedge-tailed wood-swallows wake noisily and skim merrily through the tree tops, and in the long dead grass about the tangled briars little yellow-breasted tomtits flit happily, and care not if the greedy blue-wrens were up an hour before.

Swiftly the long gold cloud blazes to blinding splendour, and from a deep gap where the high bold hills dip down, the great red summer sun climbs slowly clear of the ranges' rim and hangs in a burnished veil of filmy vaporous cloud. Far away to westward rich, rosy cloud-wraiths fade swiftly into dull, grey shapes that vanish mistily into space, save for a long low billowy mass that drifts away towards the northern hills. From among the trailing town smokes, that drift riverward, a flock of pigeons wing swiftly out across the yellow ridges, and, with a whirring rush, dip far down to the green river flats. Across the bare, brown common land a great mob of travelling sheep feed restlessly, watchful kelpies trotting here and there, and from the drovers' camp by a shady creek comes the sound of a falling axe. Down in the red-brick town the streets rouse to the sounds of waking life. In the leafy elms and drooping pepper-trees a thousand sparrows twitter noisily; fluffy starlings sit along the spoutings, warbling in soft undertones, and with the loud clang of a towered clock the town wakes to a long, hot, summer's day.

THE WOOL TRADE.

CLOSING AUCTIONS NEXT WEEK.

Auctions in the Sydney market next week will bring to a close the weekly selling series for the 1913-14 statistical wool season. The offerings will be largely of a clearing-up character, comprising some 33,000 to 34,000 bales. There was an adjournment this week, to admit of the fifth series being held in Brisbane on Tuesday last. The vast bulk of the clip has now been disposed of in the Commonwealth. On Saturday last small clearing-up auctions were held in Adelaide; on Monday last Melbourne entered upon its last of the weekly series, which were brought to a conclusion on Wednesday, while on Thursday the Geelong season was practically brought to a close. Thus the offerings in Sydney next week will be the only wool available in any quantity for six or seven weeks. All the interstate markets reported a strong demand at values well above the rates ruling prior to the holiday recess. The easier money market, the necessity for Yorkshire to secure supplies, stronger buying power of late by the Continent, with some good orders on American account, all contributed to a maintenance of very firm values. These features should be in evidence next week, and, with all the buying power concentrated in this centre, large clearances should be effected at rates well up to the best point of the season. Although the offerings in the grease will be largely of an end-of-the-season character, there will be a fair proportion of well-grown wools from the tablelands and slopes. On one or two days the display of scoureds will be large and attractive, drawn principally from the north-west and west of this State, with one or two lines from Queensland.

The date is not yet fixed for the next sales in Melbourne; but after next week there will be only three more series of auctions in Sydney during the current statistical year; they will commence on Monday, March 30, May 18, and June 22. The offerings at these sales should include autumn-shorn wools from this State and some new clip wools from Central and Northern Queensland. What the quantities will be like is difficult to say; weather conditions play such an important part in shearing. Good, frequent rains mean more wool on the sheep's backs than in the bales, and make the selling season an early or late one accordingly. From present prospects, the outlook is very good for future autumn and winter sales. In fact, the tendency all the time is for wool to keep within the demand; and defy all onslaughts to drag values down to materially lower levels. The persistency with which Yorkshire attempted to influence the Australian markets favourably to themselves and adversely to growers, was a reliance on old methods to deal with newer conditions. While the Bradford trade is spending energy on "bearing" the raw wool markets its competitors are scooping the pool in other directions. In Jacomb, Son, and Company's annual report to hand allusion is made to inquiries going past Yorkshire, saying:—"No fear need be felt that the check to wool business which has lately been in evidence, is anything but temporary; after the splendid returns made by topmakers, spinners and manufacturers here for some years past it was only to be expected that a lull should take place. The dyers' strike in Bradford early in the year caused a certain amount of dislocation, but, by general consent, the cause of most of the depression in home manufacturing circles has been the number of inquiries from America that have gone past Yorkshire, and this has been reflected in London during the December series, when Continental buyers dominated the market for fine wools to the almost exclusion of the home trade, who had to be content with a second position, and confined themselves mostly to crossbred sorts."

There has been an awakening on the part of Yorkshire of late, and, doubtless, operators on U.K. account will be well in evidence next week. The Continent has been, with slight exceptions, strongly to the front; Japan has been active; good orders have been in hand for America; and the local mills have played no small part in this season's operations. Altogether the demand is quite equal to all available supplies.

Rates current for the principal descriptions of the staple may be given as follows:—

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

On Saturday last the seventh series of auctions for the 1913-14 season in Adelaide were held, when 3012 bales were offered, and 2662 bales sold. The wools were drawn chiefly from the south-east of the State, with some lines from the Barrier and Darling River districts. Values were par to 5 per cent. above December rates; inferior and faulty sorts showing no improvement; good merino and crossbred securing the improvement. Greasy fleece sold to 12½d, and super lambs to 14½d. The total sales for the season were 140,714 bales, as compared with 148,101 for the corresponding period last season. One firm of brokers found the average weight per bale this season 331lb, as compared with 327lb last year, and the price per bale £11 7s 1d, as against £11 12s 6d last year.

The Melbourne series closed on Wednesday and Geelong on Thursday. The offerings in Melbourne, while being of a miscellaneous character, have maintained a very fair standard. Crossbreds have been well in evidence, and a number in excellent condition. With few exceptions strong markets have ruled; Yorkshire buyers were prominent, Continental operators took a good showing of crossbreds, and Japan a fair proportion of good merino and comebacks. Passed-in lots figured considerably in the catalogues; and, incidentally, with the offering, prices bid, and prices paid for previously offered wools, the "Argus," of Wednesday last said.—"In the great majority of cases substantial advances on previous best offers have been secured. In very few cases less money has been accepted, and occasionally repeat bids, but for the most part anything up to a penny, and often a penny half-penny or more, has represented the advance. Strong as the market undoubtedly is, such a condition of affairs in no way reflects the relative position of the market on the day such advances have been obtained, as compared with that on the occasion they were previously offered. The plain fact is, that, during the height of the season, catalogues under the present system of two brokers selling on one day attain unwieldy proportions, and buyers find it an almost physical impossibility to devote that attention to them necessary to assure results equitable to either themselves, selling brokers, or growers. Owing to the cutting up of estates and distribution of flocks, the trouble becomes more acute each year, and the problem brokers are faced with is a grave one. Only this morning one selling broker reports having sold wool on account of some 605 clients on Monday last. This, however, is by no means a record, 700 odd growers having occasionally been represented by an individual broker. Indeed, were it not for the system of interlotting—which, by the way, owing to the limited time at the brokers' disposal, often leaves much to be desired—business could not be continued under existing conditions. The remedy lies in the establishment of a roster of sales, when brokers will only sell once, in, say, eight or nine days, and those whose catalogues warrant it will have a day to themselves. The idea of a roster is by no means a new one, and when one is propounded that will include Geelong the interests of growers, buyers, and selling brokers alike will be best served, and such irregularities of the market as have been referred to will be largely eliminated."

On Tuesday the fifth series of sales was held in Brisbane, when the offerings totalled about 19,426 bales; the wools catalogued were generally of a medium character, the bulk, while being well grown, were generous in condition. Competition was keen for all descriptions, and values 2½ to 5 per cent. higher, compared to December rulings, for all but lower quality scoureds, which were in sellers' favour.

THE IRRIGATION AREA.

FORTNIGHTLY OFFICIAL REPORT.

The Irrigation Commissioner reports:—The growth of the leading township in a district is generally a good indication as to the growth of the district itself, the increase in the one generally corresponding with the increase in the other. It is some time since the growth of Leeton township was referred to in the official report. Business places continue to spring up, the latest additions being a large skating rink and a private hospital. The new premises for the Bank of New South Wales are about to be commenced, and several additional business premises are just under way. It is also announced that six new rooms are to be added to the Leeton School, the staff of which now numbers six.

As far as settlers are concerned, it may be said without hesitation that the orchards are looking extremely well. The trees have now made the major part of their season's growth, and, hereafter, there will not be so much necessity for irrigating at frequent intervals. The irrigation experts strongly advise settlers to lengthen the period between waterings, so as to allow the wood to harden off before the cold weather comes on. Generally speaking, the young orchards have been well cultivated, and the growth in many cases has been simply phenomenal. Settlers with sufficient capital to sit back and wait until their fruit trees come into bearing seem well pleased with their prospects. During the coming planting season there is every indication that further large areas will be planted out. Heavy orders have been booked at the Commissioner's Nursery, Leeton, and outside nurserymen, whose travellers visit the area, have also been well patronised.

It is gratifying to note that dairymen who have had the foresight to plant summer fodder ahead, so as to keep their cattle in good condition, still continue to receive large cheques from the Leeton factory. In many instances there has been no diminution in the returns per cow during the months of November, December, or January. There are at present over 70 suppliers to the Leeton Butter Factory, and considerable areas of maize, barley, cow peas, sorghum, etc., are being planted by other settlers, with a view to making a start in the dairying industry in the near future. The commissioner is doing everything in his power to assist settlers to obtain milking herds on easy terms. Not only are purchases being made by the manager for sale at the periodical auctions which are held at Leeton, but settlers who can make arrangements privately to purchase a good herd at a reasonable rate are allowed to do so, the amount being paid by the commissioner to the vendor, and debited to the settlers' "terms" account, a bond being signed that repayment will be made at the rate of 10/ per month per cow, as in the case of cattle sold by auction.

The settlers who are on Sir Samuel M'Caughey's old lucerne country, and those who put in this permanent crop last year, are now harvesting, and some good yields are being obtained, in spite of the dryness of the weather. Practically no rain has fallen on the area since August last, but, in spite of this, men who have well cultivated their lucerne, and watered it scientifically, are getting as much as a ton to the acre in some places. The writer saw a crop of lucerne being cut on Saturday last which was 3ft 6in in height, and would go probably a good ton to the acre. Most of the settlers who have lucerne are stacking for hay, but some are having it cut for chaff. The preparation of the land for the planting of lucerne is proceeding apace, and it is anticipated that a large area will be put down during the coming autumn.

Lucerne is the standby of Mr. T. J. Herbert, who is conducting a large ostrich farm at Yanco. During the summer the birds have been depastured on small plots of lucerne a few acres in extent. During the winter months they run on Mr. Herbert's dry area, which is then luxuriously covered with grass. Mr. Herbert expresses himself as well pleased with the season's work. The health of the birds has been good; the number of eggs laid has been large, and the proportion hatched out extremely satisfactory. The ostrich farm at present is dotted all over with large beautiful birds, and is one of the sights of the district.

A number of settlers are turning their attention to sheep fattening, and it is anticipated that when the dry areas are finally cut up, the lamb and sheep fattening industry will assume large proportions. The dry area is at present being surveyed, and as soon as the information can be plotted and plans made, the gazettal will be pushed on as speedily as possible.

All the hay crops on the area were harvested some time ago, and five chaffcutters are busily engaged turning the stacks into chaff. Several agents for Sydney firms are at present on the area, and there is no doubt that a good deal of the Yanco chaff will find its way to the Sydney market eventually. Several settlers have broom millet looking very well. This is a crop which should do particularly well under irrigation, as it has been proved that sorghum and other allied plants flourish exceedingly when properly watered and cultivated. In this regard an enormous amount of experimental work will have to be done before the best results can be obtained from any crop under the conditions obtaining on the area. The Agricultural Department is fully seized with the importance of this matter, and not only is work on sound lines being carried out at the experiment farm, but arrangements have been made with a number of settlers to plant experimental plots of maize, potatoes, and lucerne for experimental purposes. The various experimental plots of maize have already been put in. The grain has been planted in different ways at varying distances, and numerous varieties are being tried. Some have been planted with manure and some without. It will be interesting to watch the results of these various experiments, which will be properly tabulated by the official in charge.

The canning plant which the commissioner has purchased for the purpose of demonstrating the possibilities of the industry on the area, has been installed at the experiment farm, where it is doing excellent work. Already a quantity of apricots has been processed, and the work of putting through the peaches is in hand. The commissioner's idea is to can a sufficient quantity of stuff this year to demonstrate the weight of fruit per acre of an orchard in its fifth year. It will, of course, be some years yet before there will be any serious competition from this area with other canneries, but in the course of time, the canning and dried fruit industry must assume very large proportions.

After the experiment at the farm has been completed in March next, it is the commissioner's intention to have the plant put up in a suitable building at Leeton, and, in view of this fact, settlers are turning their attention to the growing of vegetables. Large quantities of tomatoes, cabbages, cauliflowers, and some of the root crops are being put in.

It is gratifying to note that the best of the small batch of farms recently made available on the Yanco area have gone off with surprising rapidity. The first week after they were made available, no fewer than 16 applications were received. An additional section of 89 first-class farms is available for application at Mirrool from to-day, and intending settlers cannot do better than visit the Mirrool area early, since there is a big prospect of the best of these blocks also going off very rapidly.

THE BEEF TRUST.

"Grazier" writes:—A friend of mine, who knows Queensland well, told me last month very much what Mr. Sharpe is reported to have said in last Wednesday's "Sydney Morning Herald." He also said that he knew a young American, now a landowner in Queensland, who had expressed great fears about the presence of the meat trust. He gave my friend to understand that the operation of the trust in different parts of America had sent the value of stock down to nothing, bullocks that used to bring £10 now even selling for about 30s. I hope, Sir, you will keep your eye on this matter; keep it before the public—don't let it rest.

THE TRAPPERS' DEMANDS.

The manager of the Country Freezing Company, Ltd., resents the rabbit-trappers' dispute being called a strike. He points out that where men are not employees there can be no "strike."

"As a matter of fact," he said, "we cannot afford to pay more for rabbits than we are paying. There is absolutely no market in England from April to August, and the price has always dropped at this time of year. Rabbits sent in from now on will have to be stored till August. Another thing is that the skins are poor on February and March rabbits. This trouble is not dignified enough for a strike, and has been caused by one two agitators. The pack for January this year was twice as big as that of last year. Rabbits are very plentiful just now."

COLD STORAGE AT MANILA.

The Minister of Agriculture is in receipt of a communication from Mr. Suttor, the Commercial Commissioner for New South Wales in the East, saying he has heard that there is every prospect of the large Government cold storage works at Manila, Philippine Islands, being offered for sale about three months after the necessary Parliamentary approval is obtained, and it is likely that the works will be sold about March or April, 1914. The works were erected by the United States Government at the time of the American occupation of the Philippines, and cost a large sum of money.

SHOW POSTPONED.

BOWRAVILLE.—Owing to the presence of pleuro in the district many stockowners decline to exhibit at the Bowraville Show. The committee has decided to postpone the exhibition indefinitely.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

NARRANDERA.—At the monthly meeting of the Narandera Pastures Protection Board, the chairman (Mr. Austin), in moving the adoption of the auditor's report a balance-sheet referred to the proposed abolition of the P.P. board. He remarked on the recent proposal to have a ballot of shire ratepayers, as to whether the boards should be abolished, and the duties taken over by the shire councils, and he considered that any such ballot should be amongst the P.P. board ratepayers as being the persons most interested. The revenue of the boards was received from the stockowners, and surely they should have the right to handle same. If the present Government intentions were carried out, it would mean that a person owning no stock, and having no interest whatsoever, would be able to dictate as to what rates stockowners would pay and how their affairs were to be conducted.

Mr. Newson, in seconding the motion, said he considered the movement to abolish the board was a dangerous one in the interests of stockowners. What the board wanted was more power to deal with unoccupied Crown lands, which at the present time were a menace to adjoining holders.

CITY CLEANING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—My attention has been directed to a letter in the "Sydney Morning Herald" of Wednesday, relative to the cleaning of Sydney streets. As the representative of the Melbourne firm making the offer, might I say that, in many respects, Mr. Laman hits the nail on the head? I ask your readers, many of whom are bona fide ratepayers, a few simple questions:—

1.—Are Sydney streets in the creditable condition they ought to be?—The answer obviously, must be no.

2.—Have they been in a fair condition for 20 years past?—Again the answer must be no.

3.—And, taking the past and present as an indication of what the future may bring, I may ask—can we look for an improvement under the present method?—And once more the reply must be no.

What, then, is the remedy? First, to remove a condition of affairs that allows aldermen to exercise influence to the detriment of the service, and to give a new scheme at least a trial. If the old order has failed, why not introduce the new?

I submit that, if a contract were let for this work, we could show a saving of thousands of pounds, and give an infinitely better service. In doing this we would not displace the working men of the council service. We would take them over ourselves, making our own profits in the avenues along which the money is now wasted. We offer a bank guarantee for the satisfactory performance of the work. What more can be asked?

In view of this statement, are the aldermen justified in brushing aside our offer and spending money in vacuum cleaners, and other speculative appliances?

Here is our proposition to the ratepayers. —We will save thousands per annum to the city. We will give a vastly improved service. We will give a guarantee that the work will be properly done. Where are the reformers?

I am, etc.,
JOHN GEO. WHITE.

DRUMMOND'S LATHES SET A FAST PACE, AND KEEP IT GOING.

You can't judge a man by the shape of his nose—nor a lathe by the height of its centres. But you can judge it by what it will do, and how it will do it.
Judged on this basis Drummond's Lathes will fully satisfy you. That is if you want good work and plenty of it. We have these famous lathes from 3½in to 12½in, and while the scope of their work is necessarily different, they ALL are exceptionally fast and reliable. You certainly should call and see them. Meanwhile note the brief description of the 7½in and 9in Drummond.
7½in and 9in Drummond Lathes—Self acting, sliding surfacing, boring, and screw cutting. Exceptionally powerful, and designed for the use of high-speed tool steels. The head stock has a single belt drive on an unusually large pulley, carrying a wide belt. The belt pulley runs on its own bearings, and does not touch the mandrel, thus relieving the latter of all belt pull. The head stock has 14 spindle speeds in approximately geometrical progression. Two direct speeds and 12 through a choice of back gear. Although designed for heavy work, this lathe will be found as light to run and handle as any lighter lathe on smaller and more precise work. It gives better service and more accurate results.
Why not write our expert about the Drummond Lathes. He'll gladly give full details of any of them. We also stock:—

DRILLING MACHINES, MILLING MACHINES, RADIAL DRILLS, HACK SAW MACHINES, SHAPING MACHINES, PUNCHING AND BLOWERS, and SHEARING MACHINES, POWER HAMMERS, ALL SUNDRIES.

STRENGTH, SAFETY, POWER

PLUS

LOW COST FOR FUEL

The qualities you most desire in a boiler you find in the Goodall—either Colonial or Vertical types. They are built for the hardest service—made to stand a much bigger pressure than they are ever called on to meet.

Practical men appreciate the Goodall Boilers because they know that the first cost is by no means the last with any boiler. Even if you saved a few pounds on the initial cost, your "bargain" would be dear if the fuel bill hit you up every month.

With the Goodall Boilers you can be certain that you will get the maximum results out of every pound of coal. The boilers are scientifically as well as soundly built.

Perhaps the best way to prove this is to let you inspect the Goodall Boilers in actual use in and around Sydney. Our expert will gladly give you details of where they may be found; also any other facts you want to know about them. We guarantee quick delivery, and carry a heavy stock in the regular sizes.

WUNDERLICH CEILINGS.

WUNDERLICH CEILINGS are permanently beautiful, and permanently cheap. They cost comparatively little at the outset, and as THEY NEED NEITHER UPKEEP NOR REPAIR, the first cost is the last. They pack flat, in small compass; therefore transport costs little.

WUNDERLICH METAL withstands strains, shocks, and vibrations. No cracks appear to offend the eye and spoil the whole effect of the room. If you are thinking of building or installing new ceilings in your present house or business premises, send for our Catalogue. It will be a revelation to you of what can be done in WUNDERLICH ART METAL.

FILL IN AND MAIL THE ATTACHED COUPON, and a copy of our Illustrated Art Catalogue, showing Photographic Reproductions of Wunderlich Materials, and with full instructions for fixing, will be sent post free.

ROSEBERY.—
"THE MODEL AND INDUSTRIAL SUBURB."

STANDS BY ITSELF AS A PERMANENT CHEAP HOME

FOR THE WORKING-MAN.

Not cheap in appearance nor in the quality of materials used, but unquestionably cheap from A RENTAL POINT OF VIEW, are these magnificent Rosebery Cottages. Artistically designed, honestly constructed, light, airy and roomy, and standing amidst surroundings only equalled by our Haberfield Estate, the ambitious man must be impressed favourably with Rosebery as his future Home Site.

HOW DOES THE RENT WORK OUT?

If you decide to pay down say £50 as Deposit, the weekly rental would work out at from £1 to 25s, which is remarkably low for a brand new Cottage and land in this locality. Remember, too, that every penny of it is being paid to your advantage and not the Landlord's.

HITCH UP YOUR DESIRE WITH PROMPT ACTION.

Don't let week after week go by and still find you bearing the burden of excessive Rental. Come at once to Rosebery, select your Site, select your own design, and our skilled staff of workmen will have ready for you promptly just the ideal Home desired.

Here is a brief outline of the kind of Home we are building for residents who desire to pay

NO MORE THAN £750.

Standing on land 40 x 160 feet, built of brick with tile roof, contains 4 rooms, kitchen, laundry, pantry, bathroom (finished in modern style), with all art furniture, fibrous ceilings, picture rails, art mantels, gas stove, fixed tubs, copper, etc, in fact what would, a few years ago, be considered a rich man's mansion.

WE HAVE OTHER COTTAGES FROM £695 to £900.

HOME SITES AT ROSEBERY ARE ALSO SELLING VERY RAPIDLY.
They are in picked positions, with frontages from 40 to 50 feet by 140 to 150 feet depths.

This is the Estate which at the inaugural section sale passed the high-water mark of record sales, and ever since has been in popular favour, as indicated by the continuous demand for Residential Sites on this beautiful estate.

FAIRLIGHT EXTENSION, FIVE DOCK—

Is a fine, level, park-like property, extending from Five Dock Park with a lawn-like slope, right to the edge of the pretty Parramatta River. All the roads are well-made, carefully laid out, under Council supervision, and only five minutes' walk from tram, and the shops, post-office, school, etc., at Five Dock, are close at hand. Five Dock adjoins Haberfield, and is a nice, quiet, select, home-like Residential Suburb. A few years hence the land here will be very considerably enhanced in value. Building restriction of £400 is a further guarantee that good class residences only will be built. Plans may be obtained from our local agents, Messrs. Myler and Cashman, Five Dock; or direct from this office.

HABERFIELD,
"SYDNEY'S LOVELY GARDEN SUBURB,"
WILL NEVER BE OVERCROWDED.
There will never be for Haberfield dwellers that feeling of stuffiness and oppressive closeness to one's neighbours which invariably characterises most "Near to City" areas. There is "elbow-room" here to spare; the streets are broad and shady, the gardens well laid out and of ample size, while the wide sleeping-out verandahs, the lofty rooms, and passages of Haberfield Cottages balance perfectly the scale of quiet enjoyment. Haberfield is restful; its very atmosphere breathes home and contentment.
WHY NOT RUN OUT TO HABERFIELD THIS AFTERNOON?
How better could the afternoon be spent than in viewing what could, and should, be your own home—ACTUALLY YOUR VERY OWN?
Haberfield is reached either by Abbotsford or Haberfield Electric Cars in George-street, or by train, alighting at Summer Hill or Ashfield stations; a pleasant, inexpensive trip either way.
WHEN YOU REACH THE GARDEN SUBURB,
call at our Offices, on the Corner of Kingston and Ramsay streets. Here the fullest information will be supplied, and an opportunity afforded to inspect thoroughly the many lovely homes, either completed or in course of construction.
Just to show how complete in every detail are these charming Residences, we describe two typical examples.

ARGYLL CARS
serve their owners well and faithfully. An owner of a 12-h.p. Argyll writes:—"I was a perfect novice in car-driving when I started with my car in January, 1912, and to date I have run 3500 miles, with one blowout just after learning to drive. A few adjustments have been made, but not a Penny Piece in repairs. My mileage works out on Walcha's hilly and uneven-surfaced roads at 27-29 miles per gallon. I am about the only car owner in my district who has not had a broken spring. There is nothing to find fault with about the car, and I could with every confidence advise a purchaser to buy an Argyll."

We have received advice from Argyll's, Limited, that the prices of Argyll Cars have been reduced.

CAR LOGIC.
A good make of Second-hand Car is a better investment than a new cheap car. A new car depreciates from 20 to 50 per cent. the first year, a second-hand car, bought at the right price, is always a saleable asset.
We have cars and lorries that have had very little use going for half or less than half their original cost, and we are authorised by the Owners to guarantee their condition. We have sold hundreds of cars, and can refer you to satisfied clients throughout the country.
Among the Cars we have for sale are Single and Double-seated Cars that have been left with us for sale by Owners who have gone to Europe, or are going during the next few months.
Just let us know the class of car you want, and we will forward particulars of the Car we would recommend for your purpose, if we have one that would suit you.
Assistance given to purchasers, who are also taught to drive gratis.

MELBOURNE TO SYDNEY.

METZ "22," £190 NET.

PROOF—sound and solid facts are what you want—practical proof of what a car can do under absolutely normal conditions. Cut out theory, cut out catalogue specifications, cut out the exaggerated arguments of the over-ambitious salesman, and ask for the simple facts and truths. We have them for you—the latest proof of the reliability and economy of the popular METZ Runabout, coming from the 4-day, 627-mile, Melbourne to Sydney Reliability Run, just completed. A regular and standard METZ Car (privately owned and driven) averaged 157 miles per day through some atrocious country and over-bearing heat, consuming only one gallon of benzine (Retail price 1/10) for every 51.5 miles covered.

THERE'S ECONOMY FOR YOU.

No other Car in the competition came anywhere near this record.
And, as to RELIABILITY—well, 598 points were scored from a possible 600.

BUICKS FOR HARD SERVICE.

THE CAR THAT GLIDES.

"NOT ONLY A GOOD CAR, BUT ONE OF THE VERY BEST."

COOMA AND MT. KOSCIUSKO.	A Buick Car is being used by a Motorist of experience for this hard service, and is going regularly.
SINGLETON.	Twelve months ago a Bicycle Firm in Singleton entered the Motor Hiring Business with a Buick. Now there are five Buicks for hire—even the opposition firms bought Buicks.
URALLA.	Twelve months ago the same occurred as in Singleton, and now there are four Buicks for hire, and the opposition firms have had to buy Buicks.
QUIRINDI.	An old 1908 warrior of a Buick is running to-day for hire without any trouble.
MUSWELLBROOK.	A second-hand Buick, after being used by a City Doctor, has now done 30,000 miles of hire work, and is considered the BEST CAR in the district.
BINGARA.	A year ago, Mr. Finkernagel bought a Buick for hire, and the business has grown so much he has had to buy another car, and said he could not buy better than a Buick. Both cars are going night and day.

When opposition Firms buy Buicks, it is certain they could not find better.

BUICKS

are also used in all parts of the country by Hiring Men, Stock and Station Agents, Doctors, etc.

NEARLY 400 BUICKS IN N.S.W. ALONE.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

It simply means by our spending only £10 per car (2½ per cent.), we can carry a stock of £4000 worth of spares. Any agents representing, say, six different makes, could not afford to do this, nor can the agents of a make that alters its models each year.

IN THE COUNTRY OF THE BLIND

THE ONE-EYED MAN IS KING.

Car buyers who have never really investigated will accept any inferior make. Like the blind, they bow to half value. Some men think they are getting more, when they are merely paying more. Regrets are very unsatisfactory affairs. In this connection we wish to remind you that have set up a high standard for strength, reliability, and service, unequalled by any car on the road. Motor car buyers who have purchased higher-priced cars know this. The Overland Factory is so splendidly equipped with time-saving, labour-saving, waste-saving, automatic machinery; the business is so vast they can afford to make the best car.

You owe it to yourself to see these 1914 models, to examine the wonderful strength of the rear axle and brakes, to test the sweet and silent motor, with its 5 bearing crank shaft, to see the new self-starter electric equipments, and the general high-class quality of the fittings. The 1914 Overland is a better car in every way than you would expect for twice the price.

ENGLAND v. AMERICA.

Two Midland enthusiasts recently had an argument as to the respective hill-climbing capabilities of their machines. One owned a cheap American two-seater, and the other a light car of well-known make. The result was that the owner of the American car bet the light car enthusiast £30 to his £1 that he would beat him on a named hill near Birmingham. The test took place in due course. The light car took 1 min. to do the distance, whilst the American-car's time was 1 min. 20 secs.—Vide "The Light Car and Cyclecar," 15-12-'13.

And why make a mystery of it—it was "the little car with a lot of luxury"—the that put up that performance—won for its owner the £30, and—incidentally proved its infinite superiority over the 20-h.p. American Car with which it was competing.

AND WITH SUCH A REPRESENTATIVE ENGLAND WILL WIN JUST EVERY TIME.

LABOUR DISPUTES.

THE ROCKCHOPPERS.

CASE FOR THE EMPLOYERS.

Mr. N. Phelps Richards, secretary of the Public Works Contractors' Association yesterday replied to statements made by Mr. J. Everleigh, secretary of the Rockchoppers' Union in connection with the strike at Manly.

"The actual facts," Mr. Richards said, "are that the Water and Sewerage Board, in letting contracts for sewerage construction and similar works, do not accept a lump-sum tender, but insist on paying for the actual work done at certain schedule rates. The only opportunity the contractors are allowed in the way of profit-making is that they are allowed to tender at a percentage above or below schedule rates, in competition with one another: the lowest, of course, being usually accepted.

"The schedule rates are fixed by the board, and vary according to the means adopted for excavating the rock. If the contractor is allowed to blast the rock he only gets paid a lower rate, and if he pays the men at the rates fixed in the award for guttering, he is on a losing proposition. In connection with the contract where the strike occurred, the contractor had been allowing the men to do the hammer and drill work at the rockchoppers' rates, but found that he was losing very heavily. Other contractors were paying the award rates of 1s 3d per hour for eight hours for hammer and drill work, as against the rate he was paying of 2s 3d per hour for six hours. He, therefore, resolved to adhere to the award rate of 1s 3d for eight hours. As a result, the men went out on strike."

THE A.W.U.

ATTITUDE OF ORGANISERS.

The reports of trouble between the farmers and chaff-cutters at various places, were referred to by Mr. T. I. Campbell, general secretary Farmers and Settlers' Association, yesterday.

"While Mr. Grayndler says that his union's one desire is to bring about a peaceful settlement of whatever trouble does exist, it appears that organisers of the union in wheat and chaff centres are setting this policy at naught. At Coolamon, for instance, the chaff-cutters decided to resume work on Monday morning last under the old rates and conditions. The union gave it out that they would allow them to do so, and immediately picketed the roads, and endeavoured to get the men working chaff-cutters to join the union camp. At Allen's, near Coolamon, it was necessary to have a guard at the entrance to the paddock where the chaff-cutting was going on to keep the union camp men away. While the guard was away for lunch, an endeavour was made to get the men out, but failed. They threatened force, but a number of farmers present went to the protection of the men. After this, the local police remained on hand, and the work has gone on ever since, the men who are doing the work being perfectly satisfied with their conditions and rates of pay."

VICTORIAN BUTCHERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Unless increased wages and shorter hours are granted to butchers serious trouble is likely in the butchering trade. The men have a demand before the Commonwealth Arbitration Court, but are reported to be exasperated at the delays. The rates set out in the log are:—£3 10s per week for tradesmen; £3 per week for carters, for 48 hours. A special meeting of the union has been called for Monday week. "Although we have not had a general strike in the butchering trade for 23 years, unless we obtain certain concessions direct action will be necessary," said one union official to-day.

INTERSTATE CRICKET.

N.S.W. V. TASMANIA.

POOR SCORE BY THE VISITORS.

The seventh interstate match between New South Wales and Tasmania was commenced at the Sydney Cricket Ground yesterday. The weather was fine, but warm. The wicket was perfect.

Tasmania won the toss and decided to bat, opening with Myers and Robinson. The former is an ex-Yorkshire player, who is now coach for the Tasmanian team. He is a splendid all-round player. In his batting he showed that he had a variety of strokes. His driving was good, but his best strokes were on the leg side. He repeatedly glanced the ball away on that side, his footwork being excellent. Certainly the visitors can learn much from the ex-Englishman. His was the first wicket to go, Massie beating him with a ball that kept low, when he was 31. Robinson is an ex-Burwood player. Though he made 33, his cricket was not of the kind to enthuse over. He was painfully slow in scoring, contenting himself with playing a straight bat to almost every ball. He was over half an hour in getting double figures, and occupied the creases for two hours and a half. Paton was lively, knocking up 19 'ere he was caught almost on the boundary. Eltham proved himself to be the hero of the side. He has a free style of batting, and is capable of making runs. He appreciated the fast bowlers, but steadied down to Andrews, whose slow bowling was just the kind to entice a hard hitter, and this proved his downfall. When he was 46, Eltham attempted to pull him to the on, and misjudging the pace of the ball was clean bowled. He was at the creases for an hour, and was warmly applauded for his effort. The batting of the rest of the team was poor, the innings concluding for 163, which occupied three hours and 44 minutes.

The bowling honours fell to Andrews and Berrie, who each secured three wickets. Berrie is from Moree, and was given plenty of opportunity to show his skill. He is a medium-pace left-hand bowler, who gets in a fair amount of work from the off. The fielding of the New South Welshmen was good. Ratcliffe behind the stumps did good work.

New South Wales opened badly, Davis being caught off Myers when he was one. Myers bowls with some pace, but gets very little work on the ball. When stumps were drawn, the home team had lost one wicket for 37.

The match will be continued to-day, when his Excellency the Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, will be present.

EXCITING CHASE.

ALLEGED HOUSEBREAKING.

The story of an exciting chase in the early hours of the morning was told at the Water Police Court yesterday, when Stanley William Ellis, 17, Albert M'Kivett, 15, and William Edward Regan, 19, were charged with breaking and entering the warehouse of Sayers, Allport Proprietary, Ltd., with intent to steal therein, on February 1.

Sergeant Duncan conducted the prosecution, and Mr. E. H. Gardner appeared for the defence.

Constable R. J. Maher said that at about 1.30 a.m. on the 1st inst., in Macquarie-street North, he saw Regan come out of premises, No. 55, occupied by Sayers, Allport Proprietary, Ltd. Regan looked towards witness, then turned to the doorway. The two other accused came out of the doorway, and ran away. Witness ran after them and called on them to stop. As he passed the door of Sayers, Allport, he noticed it was open. He followed the accused, who ran towards Circular Quay, and down Moore Steps. Regan threw something away, that had a metallic sound. As he went down the steps witness fired two shots from his revolver. They ran along Circular Quay, past Phillip-street. Witness blew his whistle as he ran. The accused turned up Young-street. At this point witness was joined by Senior-constable Fewster. He could not see accused, and ran into Mort's-lane. Not seeing anyone there, he came back to Young-street and saw accused Ellis run from Loftus-lane into Bridge-street. Witness fired another shot from his revolver, and continued to blow his whistle. Constables Marshall and Dege ran along Bridge-street. When witness ran into Loftus-street, he saw Ellis in the custody of these two constables. They all went back to the Quay. Constable Finn and Nightwatchman Yates had the other two accused in custody. Witness subsequently went back to Sayers, Allport's. He found that a pane of glass had been broken and a door opened. Several drawers had been ransacked and their contents littered about the floor. He produced a chisel, handed to him at Circular Quay, another handed to him at Sayers Allport's and a third, which was handed to him at No. 4 Police Station by Senior-constable Macarthur. These chisels fitted in the impressions on the woodwork of the doors at Sayers, Allport's premises.

Constable Thornley stated that he took Ellis to the Finger-print Department. He told witness that he saw Regan and M'Kivett in a billiard-room in Oxford-street, and they told him they were going to do a job in Macquarie-street. "They asked me to go," he said, "and, like a fool, I went." He further said that he did not use a chisel, but stood in front.

Several constables gave evidence.

Each defendant reserved his defence, and was committed for trial at the March Quarter Sessions. Bail in £80 was allowed.

WAVERLEY TRAGEDY.

DEATH OF A WOMAN.

HUSBAND COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Yesterday the City Coroner (Mr. Hawkins) conducted an inquiry as to the death of Elizabeth A. E. Mullan, 38, who was battered to death at a house in Waverley on January 27. James Mullan, a vanman, was present in police charge. Mr. Bathgate appeared on behalf of the Police Department.

Dr. Stratford Sheldon, who conducted a post-mortem examination said that deceased probably bled to death.

George Mullan, one of deceased's sons, said that he last saw his mother at Charing Cross, Waverley, on January 27, at 8 p.m. She was going to Bondi Junction. He went home and played cards. At about 9 p.m. his father came in. He seemed wild, and looked peculiar. Witness could never tell when his father was sober or drunk. Without speaking, his father went upstairs. Presently he came down again, and stood leaning against the shop door. When witness went to bed at 10.15 p.m., his father was still there.

During the night no sound was heard; but at about 5.30 the next morning witness was wakened by his brother Siddy calling out "Mother is covered with blood." His father often quarrelled with deceased, and used awful language to her. He had a very bad temper.

Witness then identified the handwriting of his father on a sporting newspaper dated January 28, which had been found with certain clothes in the Coogee baths. In pencil, the following was written, among many rambling phrases: "——, and his flash turnout can catch all married ladies. —— was my downfall. I do not take things as you. I want you to look after —— and ——. She has got herself to blame.—James Mullan."

Harold A. Wylie, bath assistant at Coogee, said that as he went to open up the baths at 6.30 a.m. on January 28, he saw James Mullan walking along the sea wall of the baths. Mullan threw himself into five or six feet of water, making no effort to swim. Witness dived in and brought him out in a semi-conscious state. On being shaken, he seemed suddenly to regain consciousness. Mullan stretched his hand towards something which bulged in the leg of his trousers. Witness then pulled out a large pair of tongs, and said, "What have you got these for?" "Never you mind," replied Mullan. He then walked towards the baths' entrance, and turning round, said, "I've murdered one, I'll murder you, too." Witness threw down the tongs, and took Mullan to the Coogee Ambulance room. On the way there, Mullan said something about murdering his wife.

William James Mullan, another son, said that during the evening his father had seemed slightly under the influence of liquor.

The Coroner here addressed James Mullan: "Do you wish to give evidence?"

"I don't remember a thing I have done," said Mullan, in a loud, tensely-strung voice.

He was then committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court next March 16, on a charge of having wilfully murdered deceased.

BEDDING FACTORY FIRE.

A block of new three-storied brick buildings, known as Hordern's-buildings, in Sussex-street, were threatened by fire yesterday.

On the top floor of Bruton and Wheeler's bedding manufactory, at No. 307, a small electric motor is installed. It is thought that a spark from this motor lighted on a heap of kapok, which was being teased at the front of the floor. A flaring blaze followed, and the workers quickly got to work with the fire extinguishers, a number of which were fortunately handy.

When the fire brigade arrived the flames were almost subdued. Not ten minutes after, however, a fresh outbreak occurred, and concentrated hosing was found necessary.

The three floors were drenched with water, and a fair stock of kapok and flock was damaged. Mr. Wheeler estimates the damage at from £50 to £100.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Judge Edmunds.)

BOILERMAKERS AND SHIPWRIGHTS.

The application was again before the Court in which the United Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders' Union of New South Wales asked for a special demarcation board to determine whether boilermakers and iron shipbuilders should be employed on certain work to the exclusion of shipwrights and engineers.

The matter was further adjourned till Friday next.

DEMARCATION BOARD REFUSED.

The hearing was concluded of the application by the Pastrycooks' Employees' Union for a special demarcation board to determine whether work performed by cake-makers, cake-bakers, icers, and pipers, in biscuit and cake factories, should not be done exclusively by pastrycooks.

Mr. F. Landon appeared for the applicant union; Mr. W. A. Windeyer, for Wm. Arnott, Ltd., and Hardman Bros., Ltd.; Mr. H. G. Wilson for the Hunter River District Factory Employees' Union; Mr. W. Curtis for the Phoenix Biscuit Company; and Mr. E. R. Cohen for Abel and Company.

The application was refused.

INDUSTRIAL MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

(Before Mr. G. C. Addison, Chief Industrial Magistrate.)

BREACHES OF AWARDS.

Thomas R. Kirkland, Illawarra-road, Marrickville, an employer in the industries regulated by the Baking (Metropolitan Hand Bakers) Board Award, was charged with allowing an employee to work on the board after he had made three doughs. A penalty of £1, with 17s costs, was imposed.

William Donaldson, of Gipps-street, Drummoyne, was fined 30s, with 6s costs, for not keeping time and pay sheets correctly. There were further charges against Donaldson of failing to allow Charles Love, a milker and carter, a holiday on one day from the time of completion of the morning delivery, and failing to allow J. Anderson, employed as a yardman, a whole day's holiday. A fine of £2, with 16s costs, was imposed in each case.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker and juries.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

ACQUITTED FOR HORSE STEALING.

John David Maundrell, a young man, was charged with stealing a horse, the property of Emil Ochlrich, at Annandale, on July 7.

Mr. P. K. White appeared for the accused, who pleaded not guilty.

The case for the Crown was that Maundrell had leased a milk run from Ochlrich, the horse in question being included in the inventory. The accused sold the horse in July last for £14, and upon being asked what had become of the animal he said that it had died.

The accused denied that he had stated that the horse had died. He sold the horse with the consent of the agent of the man from whom he was buying the business on the hiring system, and bought another to replace it.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and Maundrell was discharged.

SENTENCE DEFERRED.

Arthur Jenkins pleaded guilty to stealing 28 photograph frames, 18 manicure sets, and 125 hairbrushes, the property of Arthur Cocks and Company, Ltd., on December 1, at Sydney, and was bound over to appear for sentence when called upon.

THREW CHILD DOWN STAIRS.

Frederick Sydenham, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of maliciously inflicting grievous bodily harm upon Phyllis Constance Levee, 4 years of age, at Randwick, on December 30, was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment, with hard labour, in Goulburn Gaol, but if compensation in £20 be paid to the Clerk of the Peace for the benefit of the child, to be invested in the Savings Bank and disbursed at the direction of the Court, his release on license would be recommended.

Sydenham had had a dispute with Phyllis Levee's father, with whom he lodged, and he picked up the girl and threw her down some stairs, the child's nose being hurt. It was stated that the injury would probably be of a permanent character.

CONSPIRATORS SENTENCED.

Thomas Drury, 27, Michael Duck, 39, and Patrick Burke, 40, who had been convicted of a charge of conspiring together to cheat and defraud various bookmakers at Randwick racecourse on Boxing Day of sums of money by means of spurious coins, were each sentenced to 12 months' hard labour in Goulburn gaol.

His Honor said that in the face of the aspersions which had been cast on the detectives in the case by one of the solicitors for the defence, he would like to say that those officers had displayed intelligence, discretion, and skill in the working up of the case, and that their conduct had been wholly praiseworthy.

BREAKING AND ENTERING.

Robert James Tarlington, 17, who admitted having broken and entered the shop of Charles William Rogers, at Sydney, on October 29, and stole therein six coats, eight pairs of trousers, and five vests, was sentenced to imprisonment with hard labour in Goulburn gaol for six months.

FIVE YEARS' PENAL SERVITUDE.

William Charles Bruce, 21, who had pleaded guilty to four charges of breaking and entering and stealing, and to a charge of sacrilege, was sentenced to five years' penal servitude. A number of previous convictions was read out against the prisoner.

TWO YEARS' HARD LABOUR.

Bertie Drinkwater was sentenced to two years' hard labour in Goulburn gaol, he having been found guilty of indecency at Newtown on December 7.

HEARING OF APPEALS.

(Before Judge Murray.)

Mr. Harris appeared for the Crown.

CONVICTION CONFIRMED.

The appeal of Iris Nicholls against her conviction by Mr. Smithers, S.M., at the Central Police Court, on a charge of having insufficient lawful means of support, when she was sent to gaol for a month, was dismissed, the conviction being confirmed. Mr. P. K. White appeared for the appellant.

ORDER QUASHED.

Margaret M'Leod appealed against an order made by Mr. Love, S.M., at the Central Police Court on November 26, directing the return of certain furniture and effects, valued at £19 10s, with £2 15s 6d costs. The appeal was sustained, the order being quashed, with £5 5s costs against the respondent. His Honor said that clearly the order should not have been made, and evidence was wrongly rejected by the magistrate. Mr. Maddocks Cohen, for Mr. J. W. Abigail, appeared for the appellant; and Mr. W. Parker, for Mr. E. R. Abigail, for the respondent.

RESTRICTED WATER SUPPLY.

Some of the suburban councils have been requested to refrain from watering the streets till all the emergency reservoirs are up to their accustomed level, the bursting at Ashfield a few nights ago of the main trunk pipe from Pott's Hill to Crown-street having restricted supplies. Owing to the shortage of water in the northern suburbs, the Tramway Department has been asked to discontinue street watering operations there for the present. Nothing in the way of an actual water famine is feared by the board, but householders are being asked to see that no waste goes on, particularly in gardens, while this abnormal dry spell continues.

Following is an alphabetical list of examination passes at each centre:—Mines Inspection Act, 1901.—Pambula, winding: G. D. Cavell, L. E. Parker. Pambula, ordinary: G. T. Hiron, G. J. Kauter. JERILDERIE HELD UP.

A NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY.

All the deeds of daring accredited to Dick Turpin and other highwaymen of England, and all acts of lawlessness committed by Turpin's Australian prototypes, the members of the many bushranging gangs which have operated in the colonies in the 'Fifties, 'Sixties, and the 'Seventies, pale into insignificance beside the performance by the notorious Kelly gang, with which was associated the greatest amount of impudence and bluff imaginable—that of "holding up" a whole township. Jerilderie, in Riverina, enjoys the unenviable distinction of being that town, but it is improbable that there will be any local festivities in celebration of the thrilling series of events which opened in its midst 35 years ago to-morrow (Sunday, February 8).

Late at night on Saturday, February 8, 1879, the Kelly gang, composed of the brothers Ned and Dan, Byrne, and Steve Hart, reached Jerilderie. They announced their arrival to the police authorities in the most melodramatic fashion. They rode through the sound-asleep town to the police station, and the leader banged vigorously upon the verandah of the dwelling occupied by the officer in charge, Senior Constable Devine, lured that officer and his one assistant out by declaring that there was fighting going on up at Davidson's Hotel, that it looked likely that murder would occur, and that both officers of the station should hasten to the hotel. Devine and Constable Richards tumbled out of bed, dressed, and went out, to immediately fall into the hands of the Kellys. The two officers were then disarmed, and locked up in the log-cells of their own watchhouse, while Mrs. Devine and her children were shut up in another part of the dwelling. Throughout the succeeding day, Sunday, the four outlaws lay low. With the idea of allaying any suspicion, Dan Kelly, Byrne, and Hart put on police uniforms, but only once was it necessary for any one of them to leave the station quarters that day. This was when it was learned that it was Mrs. Devine's custom to go into town early on the Sabbath morning to prepare the church for service. Ned Kelly decided that she must do this as usual, so the lady went about her duties as usual, with Byrne in attendance to prevent her giving any alarm, returning in due course to the station where her children were held as security for her reappearance, without having raised any alarm. Afterwards, during the Sunday afternoon, Byrne and Hart, in police uniforms, took a walk through the town with Constable Richards. The object was to learn the position of the principal buildings, etc. It was agreed that if they were accosted, the constable was to introduce them as new men sent from head-quarters.

The actual raid upon the business places was planned for the following day, Monday. At about 10 a.m. the gang set out for the town, all dressed as troopers, and accompanied by Constable Richards, Senior-constable Devine having been left locked up in the cells. They passed down the main street, Hart and Byrne alone being on horseback, and, strange to say, excited little attention. It was assumed by many that Richards was showing some friends of his around the town. Mr. Samuel Gill, the editor of the "Jerilderie Herald and Urana Gazette," met the party as he was actually on his way to the police-station. The pressman got to the police-station, found it shut and all quiet, but his knocking and calling brought Mrs. Devine, looking haggard, to a window, wherefrom she called out to Mr. Gill, "I cannot tell you anything. Run, for your life is in danger. You will hear all about it when you go down the town." Thus the newspaper man was probably the first to scent any danger. He thereupon took counsel with Mr. James D. Rankin, a local magistrate and merchant, and the two, with another man, made their way towards the bank. But they were too late. The Kellys were already in possession, and of the three only Mr. Gill managed to escape. Mr. Rankin and another were held as prisoners in the big room of the adjoining hotel, the while the pressman was streaking across country on horseback to give the alarm concerning the Kellys' presence in the town.

Mr. Edwin R. Living, the accountant of the bank, told how the "sticking up" was effected. The gang had taken possession of the Royal Mail Hotel (then kept by Mr. Charles Cox), which was in the same block of premises as the bank, and backed on to it, and made use of it to enter the bank from the rear. Mr. Living turned round on his stool at the sound of footsteps in the passage, and found himself looking into the barrel of a revolver. "I'm Ned Kelly" was the brief explanatory exclamation, "keep quiet if you value your life." As a matter of fact the intruder was Byrne, but the effect was the same. Under the bushranger's order, Mr. Living yielded up what arms there were in the room, and then, with young James T. Mackie, his assistant, was escorted into the adjoining hotel, where Ned Kelly himself was guarding some six or eight other prisoners. As each customer of the hotel entered he was "shouted for" by Constable Richards, who introduced Ned Kelly by name to the astonished individuals, and each was compelled to remain in the big waiting room. The landlord, following instructions, continued serving at the bar, so that no one coming in should suspect that anything was wrong.

Ned Kelly now demanded Mr. John W. Tarleton, the bank manager, and the accountant was escorted away by Byrne to find him. The manager was located in the hotel bath (enjoying a shower after an early morning gallop), and was so incredulous at the announcement made by his accountant: "Ned Kelly and his gang have stuck up the bank, and want you to come out with your keys," that he scolded Mr. Living for his impertinence in attempting to play such a practical joke on his manager. "But it's anything but a joke," explained the accountant, "it's all too true." And a couple of minutes later the manager realised that it was no hoax. Ned Kelly had hitherto been walking round as a sort of director-general of the proceedings, giving orders. He now entered the hotel waiting-room, where the bewildered prisoners were, and ordered drinks to be served all round. Next he made a speech, in which he blamed Constable Fitzpatrick for all that had occurred. "I wasn't within a hundred miles of Greta when he was shot," he said, "and up till then I had never killed a man in my life." He took out a revolver, and exclaimed: "This was Lonergan's; I took it from him at Stringy Bark Creek. The gun I shot him with was a crooked, worn-out thing, not worth picking up. I shot him because he threatened my mother and my sister if they refused to tell where I was."

After this display Ned Kelly proceeded to get to business. From the bank safe and drawers were taken about £2150, the gold being thrown into a bag, which the local schoolmaster (Mr. Edwards) was made to hold open. The schoolmaster then wrote out a notice at Ned Kelly's direction giving the school-children a whole holiday in honour of the gang's visit to the town. In the same braggadocio spirit, the outlaws, after quitting the bank, the books and papers of which they piled into a bag, held open by Byrne, and did not burn (as has been so frequently printed), swaggered around the town, compelling several business people to cut the telegraph wires in the main street. Byrne had previously damaged and effectively thrown out of gear the telegraph connections at the post-office, and made prisoners of the postmaster (Mr. H. B. Jefferson) and his only assistant (Rankin) in the hotel. It was during their swagger round the town that Steve Hart robbed the local Anglican clergyman of his watch. The clergyman reported the theft to Ned Kelly, who made Hart return the watch.

As the telegraph wires had been cut, there was no means of communication with Conargo or Narrandera, the nearest townships. For the time, therefore, Jerilderie was completely isolated. It remained thus at the mercy of the gang until the afternoon of the same day as that on which they robbed the bank, the third day from their arrival. Then, with their booty packed on a police horse, the bushrangers rode off into the hills, leaving the township in pairs, each one taking a different route to render pursuit more difficult. En route out of the district they stuck up Mr. Mackie's station at Wannamurra, after which they made all haste across the Murray, and got back into the security of their Beechworth (Victoria) district retreat, wherein Sherritt, the traitor to theor ranks, was shot by the gang.

THE MEDICAL CONGRESS.

The army of doctors who set out for New Zealand on Wednesday are teaching by example what they and their colleagues have long been teaching by precept. In this rational age, and in this country, it has become recognised that the best insurance of health and energy is a holiday or a change of scene, especially if it can be taken at this season of the year. How much better it is "to seek in fields a health unbought than fee the doctor for a nauseous draught" has, indeed, been appreciated a good deal better by physicians than by some of their patients, among whom medicine still retains the charm of the unknown. But although to some of them the congress may be justified, because any excuse for a visit to New Zealand is better than none, yet the majority of its members will find that their holiday is over as soon as they have landed in Auckland. The last meeting in Sydney was a time of strenuous activity for the members who took their opportunities seriously. Reading or discussing papers was only a part of the day's work. As is always the case at such gatherings, more was gained by private discussions, by a comparison of experiences, and by the society of men of high attainments and of high professional ideals. The Auckland Congress is certain to be no less energetic than either of those held in Sydney or Adelaide. Since their last meeting the attention of the profession, as well as of the public, has been forcibly directed to a problem of perpetual interest to inhabitants of Australia and New Zealand—the prevention and treatment of smallpox and other disease endemic among some of the people with whom we trade. They have also had before them the vast record of work presented to the International Medical Congress in London. In every department of the enormous range of medicine some landmark was then set up to show the progress rendered possible by modern methods of investigation, and by the zeal of hundreds of disinterested and well-equipped students. Again, the attention of the leaders of the profession has been specially directed to the relationship of medicine to the State, and to the classes least able to pay the customary fees. There has, therefore, accumulated since the last Australian Congress sufficient material to occupy the whole of the members' time. But naturally members will not devote all their attention to new problems. The greater part of the time of the congress will be occupied in a study of the development of medicine since it began to approach the conditions of an exact science, since, in fact, the three heroes of modern science—Lister, Pasteur, and Koch—made public the results of their work for the benefit of the human race.

One element of especial interest in this congress will be the appearance in his official capacity of the Premier of New South Wales. The statement which Mr. Holman is announced to make will be awaited with considerable anxiety. Laymen, as well as physicians, can appreciate the danger of attempting to make of the medical profession a State department. They know that there is no other profession so well able to control itself, to punish men who abuse their opportunities or attempt to trade on the public without sufficient qualifications. They know, too, the danger of attempting to transfer this control to laymen who have had no experience to teach them the value of professional ideals. The present system of management is admittedly not ideal, but it is on the lines on which progress can most certainly be expected. It has placed hospitals under the direction of men who are most interested in them and are best fitted to understand them, and has protected the medical profession from demands which are likely to waste their time and to outrage their dignity. It is, however, reassuring to know from Mr. Holman's record that he is, of all Ministers, the least likely to under-rate the anxiety of a great profession to be of service to the public, or its ability to protect its own honour. Quite apart from the anxiety with which his statement must be awaited, his presence can be welcomed as a recognition of the interdependence of medicine and politics at the present time. At the International Congress numerous instances were given of work which was done, and could only have been done, by the co-operation of medical investigators with statesmen, and with engineers. It was only through the heroism of scientists that the Panama Canal could be built or Central Africa made habitable by white men. Their researches are gradually revealing the sources of, and the remedies for, the disease which has grown in power with the aggregation of men into cities, the dwelling sickness as Professor Koch called tuberculosis. They have now at last been asked by the British Government to advise them on the scourge which has destroyed the lives of thousands of Englishmen from one generation to another.

To all the instances that were given in London, a parallel could be found in the limited experience of Australasia. None of the many opinions which we get from time to time from the North on the ability of white men to live in the tropics can have the same authority as the reports of Dr. Breinl and his assistants. It is only by their advice that the Governments concerned can properly be guided in the settlement of one of the most difficult questions before them. Mr. Holman himself will, no doubt, be more directly interested in whatever views may be expressed in the treatment of co. sumptive patients. On this subject one of the leading experts of Sydney is to read a paper which is sure to be followed by a vigorous discussion. It will deal with a problem in the solution of which the statesman, the municipal reformer, and the physician must co-operate if any real progress is to be made. Happily, each of these three parties will have a favourable report to make. Each of them can quote the words of the English commissioners, who anticipate that within a reasonable time the disease may be stamped out altogether. There will be other subjects discussed on which it will be impossible to adopt so hopeful a tone. In some cases the only progress recorded will be the abandonment of unfounded hopes and of lines of research that led only to waste of time. There are still many instances in which physicians must confess that their treatment is not based on scientific knowledge. But there is no department of medicine in which investigators are not enthusiastic and full of hope. They are full of enthusiasm because they are conscious of the nobility of their calling, and of the greatness of the men who have shown them their path. They are full of hope, because they know the zeal and the skill of the men who are working out the same problems as themselves, and because every day some fresh discovery is announced to reward them. Since the physician became armed with the microscope there is no problem so obscure that it can be regarded as permanently beyond the reach of investigation.

OUR BOYS.

It was once told of a certain very wealthy Australian that he complained he could find nothing to spend his money upon in Australia. Whatever he did in the way of extravagance locally barely used up the income which rolled in whilst he was doing it. It was almost necessary for him to get to London or America before he could catch up with his yearly profits. Whether that story is true or not, if such a man existed to-day, there could be found plenty of occupation for his surplus income. To have the chance of seeing a nation growing under his eye, and to have a hand—a large hand—in moulding the nation during his own lifetime would be an interest sufficient to absorb an unlimited quantity of spare money and time. There is one work which has not even been begun, and that is the paying off of the debt which Australians owe to the Australian boy. We are throwing almost the entire responsibility for the defence of Australia on to our boys. Before the scheme was undertaken, the ubiquitous critic used to say that such a scheme was impossible because the boys of Australia would not stand the discipline required of them. And it is true that discipline and the necessity for doing things smartly and to order did cut straight across the ingrained inclination of the Australian boy. But the boys, as the event has proved, have stood it. They are coming out of the trial very well, and not at all behind the boys of other countries, as was foretold of them. The scheme is working well, as far as the boys have anything to do with it. And now it does behove the rest of the people of Australia, and especially those that are more able to do so, to turn round and do something for the boys in return.

For the Australian boy is not attended to by the rest of the people in the same way as the British boy is. Although most Australians have probably not awakened to the fact, the Australian boy is not provided with the advantages which thousands of private subscribers and many philanthropists have provided for the boys of Great Britain. In almost all the greater cities of Britain now, the boys have been provided with clubs, gymnasiums, polytechnics, and social institutions in which they spend their spare time. There are boarding houses for them—as there are for girls, with gymnasiums, and sometimes tennis courts, and similar means of occupation—and no boy, however lonely he may be in London, need now spend an evening at the street corners or sitting on the kerb. That is not the case with the Sydney boy. Prosperous though he may be, the citizens have not provided for him the advantages which have been provided for the London boy. With one or two outstanding exceptions, no clubs or centres of gymnasiums have been organised for him, although he is doing more for the community than the English boy. The community does not recognise the debt, probably because it has not thought about it. Sydney people, although they often see something lacking in their boys, probably do not know what their boys are lacking. It comes as a shock to them to be told what has been said by a well-known worker amongst London boys: "If I could place 1000 London boys in positions in Sydney, I would not bring them here, because in Sydney you give a boy nothing to do in his spare time."

There is one obvious scheme open to Australians who have called on their boys to take up the work of defence. The boys, as has been said, have answered well. Their part of the work is, on the whole, all that could have been wished. But we, the rest of us, can hardly claim that we have yet performed our part. They give up their half holidays to drill. We leave them to drill in any odd block of unoccupied land in the dark, in any sort of weather, under officers sometimes only half competent. Of course, neither the drill-hall nor the fully-trained officer could be provided at an instant's notice when the scheme was started. But are we determined to provide them as soon as possible? Highly trained officers will shortly be available from our military college, and an enormous amount—perhaps everything—hangs on them. But are the authorities determined at whatever cost, and in spite of any opposition from the old regime, to see that Lord Kitchener's scheme is carried out in letter and spirit, and that none but competent officers and instructors shall be permitted to have charge of our boys? As for the drill-halls, everything cannot be done at once by the Government. But are private citizens taking the care they ought to take to see that the boys who are doing their work are doing it under conditions as healthy and decent as they have a right to expect? Do all those who are most interested in football and cricket recognise that they owe any duty at all to the youngsters who are deprived of half their games for the sake of their country's defence? Have the Cricket Association and the football organisations ever really thought about the matter? We should like to see leading footballers and cricketers meet together and see what cricket and football could do for the country by reorganising the games of the country according to the military areas; so that each battalion should have its recognised football and cricket team, and its part in a competition officially encouraged. That is what the sporting circles of Australia might do for defence. And as for the rest we can surely see that the cadets in our respective areas are provided with a drill hall—a drill-hall furnished with a gymnasium and perhaps a reading room, so that it may be also a club and a headquarters both of games and of social intercourse, such as the Londoners have provided for their boys, even in most of the poorest districts. Such a plan has already been broached in certain areas, and it is impossible to place a limit upon the good which might be expected from the extension of it, as part of our defence system, right through the Commonwealth. It is worth the efforts of any man, however great or rich or capable, even if he were to give a whole lifetime to it. It might well exercise an influence upon the character of the Australian nation more powerful than any other influence existing, or in prospect to-day. All that is needed is for an energetic nucleus of citizens to give such a project its start. Once a start is made, we believe that the citizens in each respective area would be quite sufficiently alive to their duty to the youngsters who are shouldering the country's burden in that area to see the project through to its completion.

Income Tax Returns.—To-day is the last day on which income tax returns may be furnished without taxpayers incurring a penalty of £20, and yesterday a large number of returns were received by the department. The Taxation Commissioners expect that the aggregate results for the year 1913 will be very satisfactory in view of the well-known general prosperity. The Commissioners explain with regard to the exemptions for children under 18 years of age maintained by taxpayers that it is not required that these should have been born in the State, and that the section is worded in such a way that adopted children come within the category entitling the taxpayer to exemption. As stated by the ex-Treasurer, Mr. Cann, it is the intention of the Government during the coming session to amend the Income Tax Act so as to make companies liable in respect of dividends instead of shareholders individually, the object being to minimise the cost of collection.

More Industrial Magistrates.—The Minister for Labour and Industry (Mr. Estell) stated yesterday that, to relieve temporarily the congestion in the hearing of cases under the Arbitration Act, provision was being made to appoint stipendiary magistrates to assist the industrial magistrates by taking cases in the country districts. It was intended, however, to bring in amending legislation, by which he hoped to secure the cheap and speedy determination of all cases arising under the Act.

AFRICAN CRISIS.

THE INDEMNITY BILL.

MINISTER'S GREAT SPEECH.

THE BLACK MENACE.

CAPETOWN, Feb. 5.

When the Legislative Assembly met to-day General Smuth, Minister for Defence, resumed his speech on the motion for the second reading of the Indemnity Bill, and spoke for another two hours.

He declared that the incident at the Jagersfontein mines was a providential deadlight, showing what a general conflagration would mean. The strike leaders contemplated civil war. When they were no longer able to hold mass meetings where they might inflame the minds of the workers, they employed small bodies of men with dynamite in their pockets, and the Trades Hall simultaneously instructed them to form commandoes. Dynamite was found freely along the railways and in other places.

In the background was always the terrible menace of the black population of the Rand.

The Government was the best judge of the situation. It saw that the time was ripe for drastic action, and took its courage in both hands, determined to face the criticisms that would inevitably be voiced over the deportations. It had not, however, acted hastily in regard to the deportations, but, on the contrary, had given the matter the most mature consideration.

He added that no responsibility rested upon the Governor-General, Lord Gladstone, and he regretted the attempts that had been made to censure him in regard to the affair.

The Transvaal Peace Preservaion Ordinance of 1903, gave the Government power to expel summarily persons dangerous to the country's peace. The criminal law did not cope with such cases—he instanced the acquittal of Crawford and Mrs. Fitzgerald in July.

The Government was not prepared to risk a repetition of those acquittals.

He also cited the deportation in 1911 of the Hon. Galbraith Lowry Coles from British East Africa, which was ordered by the Colonial Office upon a warrant issued by the Government, charging him with inciting racial enmity in the colony. That deportation was endorsed by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, the leader of the British Parliamentary Labour Party. And if it was justifiable, then the deportation of the strike leaders from South Africa was assuredly so.

The Minister scathingly condemned General Hertzog's "patriotism" in harassing the Government at a critical time, and said he preferred to reserve the term "patriot" for Mr. J. X. Merriman and Sir Thomas Smartt, who, although politically opposed to the Government, proffered their services as special constables during the strike.

When the Trades Hall surrendered, the authorities found that everything incriminating had been burned. He declared that the Government's only alternative had been to proclaim martial law, and he added impressively that the public did not know that after the July strike tons of lethal weapons and assegais were collected in the native compounds.

In conclusion, the Minister paid a tribute to the magnificent response that had been made to the mobilisation call, the high, the low, the rich, and the poor, all flocking to the colours as soon as the need was known.

The speech closed amid cheers from all parts of the House, except the Labour section.

CASE FOR THE DEPORTED.

CAPETOWN, Feb. 5.

The Legislative Assembly has agreed to hear counsel at the Bar of the House to-morrow for the men who were deported.

ALIEN IMMIGRATION.

UNITED STATES PROBLEM.

RESTRICTIVE BILLS POSTPONED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.

After a protracted conference between Mr. W. J. Bryan, Secretary of State, and the Immigration Committee of the House of Representatives, it has been announced as a practical certainty that no anti-Asiatic Legislation will be enacted during the present session of Congress.

It appears that Mr. Bryan discussed the whole course of the negotiations with Japan, and pleaded with the members of the committee not to take any action in regard to the Raker Bill (which is directly aimed at Japan), in order to leave the Government free to deal diplomatically with the immigration question.

The committee thereupon decided to postpone consideration of all Asiatic exclusion measures indefinitely.

EXCITEMENT OVER A PLAY.

SENSITIVE IRISH TOWNSPEOPLE.

LONDON, Feb. 5.

Exciting scenes followed the production of "George A. Birmingham's" play, "General John Regan," in Westport, County Mayo, where the Rev. James Owen Hannay, M.A., Canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, the author of the play, was rector for 20 years.

A crowd of people attacked the company. They broke the windows of their hotel, and then went to the theatre, where they stormed the stage and smashed the scenery.

The police eventually dispersed the crowd with their batons.

The demonstrations against the play were due to a belief that "Ballymoy," the scene of the play, was really Westport.

PERUVIAN REVOLUTION.

THE PRESIDENT BLAMED.

LIMA, Feb. 5.

President Billinghurst, who is about to be deported, is generally blamed for precipitating the crisis by issuing a decree enforcing a Budget which Congress had rejected.

An extraordinary session of Congress, which has been convened, nominated a governing board, with General Benavides as President, pending the new elections.

The navy has recognised the new Government.

It now transpires that the Premier, General Varela, was shot by the troops at the Santa Catalina arsenal while trying to assert his authority.

UNITED STATES NAVY.

THE CANAL FACTOR.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.

It is understood that President Wilson has agreed to the two-battleship standard, and the Administration will endeavour to carry the ship-building programme on this basis through the House.

Rear-Admiral Sigsbee, the former commander of the battleship Maine, declared that the Panama Canal has made it inevitable that the United States should have a strong navy, lest another country with whom the United States might be warring should get control of that waterway, and thereby inflict a crushing blow on this country.

HAYTIAN REVOLT.

PROTECTION OF FOREIGNERS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.

News is to hand that the British and French warships have landed detachments to protect the lives and property of foreigners in Port-au-Prince, Hayti, where the situation in connection with the revolt is reported to be grave.

PANAMA TOLLS.

THE PRESIDENT'S VIEWS.

EQUAL TREATMENT.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.

President Wilson has announced that he will use every legitimate influence at his disposal to secure the repeal of the provisions of the Panama Canal Act exempting United States coastwise vessels from payment of tolls.

The President has made it clear that he is unalterably opposed to the exemption, and has emphasised his determination to endeavour to have the clause repealed during the present session of Congress.

He believes that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty guarantees equality of treatment for all nations regarding the use of the canal, and that the United States is bound in honour to charge United States' vessels the same tolls as those imposed on foreign ships.

It is understood that the House of Representatives will adopt the President's view, but some difficulty may arise among the Senators.

Senator O'Gorman, for instance, has asserted that he intends to fight against President Wilson's contention; but other Senators have pointed out that the Foreign Relations Committee of their House recently recommended a general arbitration treaty with Britain, thus indicating that they are ready to rescind their previous action upon the tolls question.

President Wilson's decision has been arrived at after a year's study of the whole question.

It is understood that Britain has not pressed the question since a private assurance was given some months ago as to the friendly attitude of the President.

ANTARCTICA.

THE SHACKLETON SHIPS.

FURTHER APPLICATIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

Sir Ernest Shackleton has decided to purchase the recently-built Norwegian ice vessel Polaris.

She will be altered with a view to the use of oil fuel, and will be renamed the Endurance. She will be employed, under the command of Captain J. K. Davis, in the Weddell Sea. The Aurora will probably be selected for the work on the Ross Sea, side, but failing her Peary's Roosevelt, which is under offer, will be used.

The Endurance will be manned by navy men, and the Ross Sea ship by men of the merchant service.

Captain Orde Lees, of the Royal Marines, has joined the expedition. Several of the members of the Scott and Mawson expeditions have also applied, and two of the latter have been accepted for the scientific staff.

IN MEMORY OF SCOTT.

PARIS, Feb. 6.

A monument to Captain Scott's memory, in the form of a polar explorer's cairn, was inaugurated in the Lautaret Pass in the Alps, where Scott in 1908 carried out a series of experiments with motor sledges. The monument is due to the initiative of Dr. Charcot, the well-known explorer. The Minister of Marine attended the ceremony.

VIENNA, Feb. 6.

The Geographical Society has conferred the posthumous award of the Bauer medal, the society's highest distinction, on the late Captain Scott.

IMMIGRATION.

MEDICAL INSPECTION.

COMMONWEALTH REGULATIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

The Agents-General have discussed the Commonwealth's drastic regulations which are to come into force at the end of March regarding the medical inspection of all classes of passengers prior to embarkation, and they have suggested to their Governments that the Commonwealth should submit the whole matter for the consideration of the Agents-General, as their experience in connection with emigration would be valuable.

Sir T. A. Coghlan, Agent-General for New South Wales, considers that the inspection of first-class passengers will greatly affect the traffic.

Shipping people think that the necessity for emigrants to visit a doctor possibly several miles away and pay a fee of 5s will be likely to divert them to other countries.

Dr. W. P. Norris, Commonwealth Health Officer, is appointing 2000 doctors experienced in industrial insurance and similar work, and he does not expect any difficulty in enforcing the Act.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE THREATENED.

LONDON, Feb. 5.

Mr. Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, while in Glasgow, received a letter threatening that the train he travelled by would be wrecked.

The officials of the Caledonian Railway Company advised him to travel by another train, but Mr. Lloyd George insisted on making the return journey to England by the Flying Scotchman.

The authorities adopted special precautions to secure the safety of the train.

AN OFFER ACCEPTED.

LORD DERBY'S ESTATES.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

Baron De Forest mentioned in the Liberal land report that Lord Derby held land valued at between £3,000,000 and £4,000,000, and later, in writing to Lord Derby, he remarked that the site of Bootle, in Lancashire, had been bought by the Derby family in 1724 for £7000, and the annual income from it to-day was not less than £100,000.

Subsequently, in view of these statements, Lord Derby offered Baron de Forest the whole of his Bootle estates for £1,500,000.

It is now announced that this offer has been accepted.

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

EFFORT THIS YEAR.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

An attempt to cross the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland in an aeroplane for the "Daily Mail" prize will probably be made in August or September.

A hydro-aeroplane has been constructed on the Curtiss flying-boat principle, and Lieutenant Porter, a British naval officer, will be one of the pilots, and the second will be an American, who has yet to be chosen. The machine weighs a ton, and will carry 400 gallons of petrol. It will be fitted with wireless telegraphic apparatus.

Mr. Lodman Wanamaker, an American, is financing the scheme.

LADY HOCKEY PLAYERS.

TO VISIT AUSTRALIA.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

A team of lady hockey players will leave in June to play a series of matches in New South Wales and New Zealand.

Wolfe's Schnapps acts directly and pleasantly upon the bladder and kidneys.—Advt.

WORLD PEACE.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

QUEEN WILHELMINA ASKS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.

The Government of the United States has issued a call for the holding of a Peace Conference at the Hague next year.

This action has been taken as the result of a request made by Queen Wilhelmina.

LIVERPOOL MURDER.

ACCUSED FOUND GUILTY.

SUMNER SENTENCED TO DEATH.

LONDON, Feb. 5.

The trial of George Sumner and Samuel Eltoft for the murder of Miss Bradfield was concluded to-day.

The jury, after an hour's retirement, found Sumner (whose real name is George Ball) guilty of murder, and Eltoft guilty of being an accessory after the fact. The latter was recommended to mercy owing to his youth and because he was influenced by Sumner.

Sumner was sentenced to death. The prisoner was quite unmoved throughout.

Eltoft was sentenced to four years' imprisonment.

IMPERIAL QUESTIONS.

GREATER CO-ORDINATION URGED.

MR. MACKENZIE'S APPEAL.

LONDON, Feb. 5.

Mr. Thomas Mackenzie, High Commissioner for New Zealand, in the course of an address at the Anglo-Saxon Club, pleaded for greater co-ordination of effort in dealing with Imperial questions.

He complained that too great a toll was levied on the Dominions in the raising of loans. He contended that oversea transit and mail services required recasting, because preferences granted by the Dominions to the trade of the mother country were nullified by the shipping subsidies granted to foreign competitors.

COLONIAL TITLES.

SUGGESTED ABOLITION.

ABORTIVE CANADIAN MOVE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.

In the House of Commons last night, Mr. Burnham introduced a bill which had for its object the abolition of titles granted through the Government of Canada.

In moving the second reading of the measure, he said he did not object to the King exercising his prerogative, but he did object to the Canadian Cabinet recommending people for titles, a proceeding which was contrary to the present-day spirit of democracy, and tended to perpetuate class distinctions.

He declared that a regular system of barter and sale of honours existed in England, and he did not wish the introduction of any such system into a democratic country like Canada.

Mr. G. Foster, Minister for Trade and Commerce, explained that the Canadian Parliament had no authority to abolish any titles. However, he thought that people who served the State well were entitled to some recognition for their services.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Opposition, pointed out how, even in the United States, the tendency to seek titles was growing.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was negatived.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

FORTUNE-TELLER'S STORY.

DISCOVERY OF THE BODY.

PARIS, Feb. 5.

Paul Cadiou, manager of an engineering factory, disappeared from Brest a month ago, and his brother, after an unsuccessful search, received a letter stating that a fortune teller had informed the writer that a tall dark, bearded man, 35 years of age, had murdered Paul and had hidden the body in a ditch near the factory.

The brother was incredulous, but a search was instituted and the body was found.

Pierre, a partner of the murdered man, has been arrested, but he protests his innocence.

GREAT FIRE IN BOMBAY.

EIGHT LIVES LOST.

BOMBAY, Feb. 6, 12.25 p.m.

A great fire broke out in the bazaar this morning.

Eight persons have been burned to death.

THE SUTHERLAND ESTATES.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

In his speech at Glasgow on Wednesday, the Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that the late Duke of Sutherland had asked £479,000 for a portion of his estate, whereas his executors had valued the whole estate for probate purposes at £400,000.

The Duke of Sutherland's solicitor now protests that Mr. Lloyd George implied perjury against the executors, and explains that the latter in fixing the £400,000 deducted heavy mortgages, as they were entitled to do.

AUSTRALIAN MEAT TRADE.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

Mr. Denham, Premier of Queensland, in an interview last night, said that there was nothing to warrant the thought that the American meat combine was attempting to capture the Australian meat trade. Queensland, he declared, would not tolerate any interference with her interests in regard to this matter. He did not credit the suggestion that the trust had raised prices. The increase had been due to the increased number of consumers caused by the diversion of the Australasian shipments to America and the Continent.

TENNIS EXPENSES.

NEW UNITED STATES' RULE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.

The proposed rule prohibiting United States tennis players from accepting expenses money, except for State, national, or world tournaments, has been approved by the committee of the National Tennis Association, and will be submitted for ratification at the next general meeting.

The rule places United States amateurs on the same basis as in other countries, and is important in view of the Davis Cup matches.

ENGLISH BILLIARDS.

NEWMAN V GRAY.

LONDON, Feb. 5.

Scores in the match between Newman and Gray at the close of to-night's session were—

Newman (rec. 4000) 15,669
Gray 12,345

Play was even during the afternoon session. Gray increased his unfinished break to 394, and made a further break of 264, mostly off the red.

The Australian, however, went to pieces in his play during the evening, scoring only 64 against Newman's sparkling 688.

NO OVERTIME.

MEN DECIDE.

LIMITED WORK ON THE WHARFS.

CEASE WORK MEETING.

The strike of wharf labourers against overtime, which was decided upon in Melbourne, is to be applied to Sydney, commencing on Monday evening.

This decision was arrived at last night at a cease-work meeting, which was attended by 3500 members of the Sydney Wharf Labourers' Union—a branch of the Waterside Workers' Federation—held in the basement of the Town Hall, under the presidency of Mr. E. H. Hillyer.

The vote was described by the union secretary, Mr. J. Woods, to have been practically unanimous. He ventured the opinion that what had now been done by Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle would extend to all the ports controlled by the federation. The council's policy would be carried out.

Mr. Hillyer, the president, stated that the resolution agreed to was couched in terms of the following message from the council of the federation:—

"Council having carefully considered the position created by the refusal of the shipowners to grant any concessions, has decided upon a policy, and call upon branches to adhere loyally thereto; that in pursuance of this policy the council had decided that until further instructions on and after Monday, February 9, no overtime is to be worked by any member of the federation, and that hours of labour be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday; that we recommend branches to make provision to ensure a fairer distribution of work amongst their members."

When this had been agreed to the question was asked if men could resume work that night completing the loading of vessels which are due to leave to-day. The president replied that those who desired to could resume forthwith, but that all work next week, and "until further notice," would have to cease, as far as union labour was concerned, at 5 p.m. each day.

A good many men did resume work after the meeting.

EMPLOYERS' POSITION.

Captain T. Langley Webb, ex-president of the Australasian Steamship Owners' Federation, Sydney, when apprised of the decision of the meeting, said the employers had no occasion to feel surprised after the events of the past few days. He could not indicate what action the owners would now take to counteract this development. The next move would, he said, "be decided by Melbourne."

BRISBANE WORKERS.

BRISBANE, Friday.

Mr. Fenwick, secretary of the Brisbane Workers' Union, was asked to communicate the result of this morning's meeting, but said he could not say anything at the present. From other sources, it was ascertained that the meeting had decided to fall into line with the southern branches, and abstain from working overtime from Monday next. It is understood that the decision arrived at has been communicated to all northern branches of the union.

Late this afternoon advice was received from Cairns, Townsville, and other ports, to the effect that the wharf-labourers had decided not to work overtime after Monday. It was also unofficially stated that the men would work from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays, starting from Monday. A man would be allowed to work eight hours and would then have to stand down 16 hours, so as to give other unionists a chance to obtain work. Under the present agreement preference is given to unionists, but no restrictions are placed upon the number of hours or number of days the men shall work. A foreman can select a gang of 20 men to work at a steamer, and when that particular work is finished the 20 men can go along with other unionists to obtain work at another vessel.

It was stated along the water-front to-day that the decision to fall into line with the southern branches in abstaining from working overtime was not carried unanimously.

LABOUR WOMEN.

DEMAND RIGHTS.

SEAT IN THE UPPER HOUSE.

A lady delegate to the conference of the Political Labour League took charge of its proceedings for some time last night, and while she spoke affairs were always exhilarating.

The lady (Mrs. Seery) had a number of grievances to expound. She began by informing the conference that Labour was in power solely on account of the support the party had received in the past from women. "We are as strong from a voting point of view as you men," she went on, "and don't get it into your heads that we women are in the Labour movement for fun. We're not. It's for the improvement of our position in various spheres that we take the trouble to give our support to Labour. Now, there is a movement on foot in the ranks to send up some more members to the Legislative Council. Why should not the new nominees be women? (Cheers and laughter.) I will go further, and say that had Labour had a single woman representative in the Council when the bill concerning domestic servants was received, it would have received a different fate. We could have pointed out the awful conditions under which many domestics work, and in face of that the Council could not have turned the measure down as they did. We women demand recognition, and I say it's an insult and a humiliation to us to be treated as we are being treated at present. Look out; I warn you, for if things are not altered you will have a split in your ranks just as serious as they have in Victoria. Women want solidarity in the Labour movement. I therefore move that a deputation be appointed to wait upon the Government, urging the fuller recognition of women's rights." (Cheers and dissent.)

Miss Matthews seconded the motion. Several male delegates opposed the motion, and their speeches were punctuated by shrill shouts from the women. Great excitement prevailed, but when the vote was taken it was decided by 53 votes to 26 that a deputation wait upon the Government for the purpose explained by Mrs. Seery.

MR. CARR, M.P.

LABOUR LEAGUE AT WORK.

LITHGOW, Friday.

At a meeting of the local branch of the Labour League, included in the correspondence was a circular from the Mount Victoria League, complaining of Mr. Carr's inattention to business, and expressing the conviction that he was losing favour with the electors.

The meeting declined to fall in with this view, and, on the motion of the secretary, a resolution was unanimously passed to the effect that, though it was the duty of a member to attend the House, yet the explanation given by Mr. Carr was perfectly satisfactory; furthermore, in the opinion of the league, the Mount Victoria organisation should have written to Mr. Carr on the matter before circularising leagues in the electorate.

BABY FARMING.

STRONG REMARKS FROM THE BENCH.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At the Children's Court this morning the case against Sarah Jane Naylor, alias Williams, for wilfully and without reasonable excuse neglecting to provide adequate and proper foods, nursing, medical aid, and lodging for four children in her care, and for wilfully illtreating such children, was concluded before Mr. Adrian, S.M. Mr. d'Apice appeared for the Crown Law Office, and Mr. J. D. Reid defended accused.

Mr. Reid contended that any neglect that took place was not wilful, but through pure ignorance. There was no evidence that accused was in receipt of large sums of money. It could not be said that his client intended to make money out of the children.

The magistrate remarked that there was nothing to restrain him from convicting on the evidence.

The second case, which was laid last Tuesday, was withdrawn, and accused pleaded guilty to a third charge of being a person in charge of a house in Smedmore on December 16 last for the reception of five children under the age of seven years, without being registered under the Children's Protection Act.

There was wilful neglect in the matter, otherwise he would not convict. It seemed to him that absolute carelessness had been shown in regard to human life. The doctor seemed to have been called in very late. He had a very strong impression that the doctor was only called in, in order that there might be a certificate of death given to relieve the guardian from responsibility. To allow a child to die in that way might be a greater crime than being killed outright. It would be more merciful to be killed outright. He felt that the defendant had committed a very serious offence.

Mr. Reid interceded that his Worship might take into consideration the fact that accused had never previously been before the Court, and that she was 49 years of age.

The magistrate replied that he was taking that into consideration, and added that in view of all the circumstances of the case he could not inflict a less sentence than nine months' imprisonment. The offence was too serious. He did not think he had ever had a case of baby farming on such a scale. Accused seemed to have dealt in babies as if they were goods and chattels. That was what the evidence disclosed. He would, therefore, sentence the accused to nine months' imprisonment in the first case, and fine her £10 or two months' imprisonment with hard labour in the other case, the sentences to be cumulative.

MINISTER CITED.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL NOT RETAINED.

The State Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, who has attended a good many of the current sittings of the P.L.L. Conference, was asked yesterday if he had been professionally retained to appear for his cited colleague, Mr. Griffith, the Minister for Works.

Mr. Hall said that his services had not yet been retained by Mr. Griffith, but he was willing to appear for him "at the current union rate of fees."

There has been a good deal of speculation during the week whether Mr. Griffith will appear in response to the P.L.L. summons to show cause before the assembled delegates. Since the early part of the week Mr. Griffith has been absent from Sydney on the Blue Mountains. In Parliamentary Labour circles it was thought yesterday that the cited Minister would furnish the P.L.L. with a written statement to the effect that all he employees in the service of the Government were well treated as regarded the hours they worked and the wages they received; and, as the responsible Ministerial head of the Works Department, he could not take upon himself to prescribe anything beyond the regulation conditions, because in some aspects the department was in competition with private enterprise. But the general feeling among Labour members was that the Minister would not appear this evening before the P.L.L. Conference in propria persona.

PANAMA.

AUSTRALIA TAKES PART.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. Glynn sent a cable message to-day to the authorities of the Panama Canal Fair to be held in San Francisco in February, 1915, that the Commonwealth had decided to participate in the exhibition.

The authorities were asked by the Minister to reserve 50,000 square feet for exhibition purposes and 27,000 feet for a national display.

So far only the Governments of New South Wales and Victoria have agreed to participate, but Mr. Glynn still hopes that the other States will also decide to be represented.

JAYS' FIRE.

CORONER HOLDS INQUIRY.

INSURANCE ASPECT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At the instance of the Crown Law Office, an inquiry was opened by the coroner (Dr. R. H. Cole) to-day, into the cause and origin of a fire which occurred on December 19 at the drapery shop of Jacob Epstein, trading as "Jays," of 190 Bridge-street, Richmond, and also of Prahran and Collingwood.

Mr. M'Arthur, who appeared for the Mercantile Mutual Fire Insurance Co., said that Epstein had come about two years ago from England, where he had had a failure. He opened the business of "Jays" in Richmond, and similar businesses in Prahran and Collingwood. Mr. Cohen, the manager, was a relative. In one room at the Richmond establishment there was an electric iron. The iron appeared to have been the cause of the fire, but there were suspicious circumstances surrounding the outbreak. Epstein was in hopeless difficulties, and had gone insolvent. He had liabilities to the amount of £6300, and assets approximately worth £2500, exclusive of any insurance. His books had been very badly kept. There had been two fires, the first, which had not done much damage, on December 1. The electric iron had been left on the table on each occasion, and had burnt a hole in it. He was insured for £2650, but at the time of the second fire there were very few goods in the shop.

Anthony John Loughnan, inspector for the Mercantile Mutual Fire Insurance Company, said the goods in "Jays" were originally insured in May, and on October 1 a new policy had been taken out. The old policy had been for £450 in all, and the new one for £2650 on stock in drapery, £50 on stock in electroplate, £50 on plateglass, and £250 on fixtures and fittings. He did not inspect the stock in detail, but he was satisfied from the books that there was sufficient cover for £2000.

Madge Buckley, saleswoman, employed by Epstein, said from the time she went to the shop in September until the fire the stock had been greatly reduced. Miss Epstein took goods away from her side of the shop hundreds of times. Two days before the fire she took 30 or 40 pairs of gloves, two dozen pairs of hose, and corsets, and perfumes. On other occasions she took dozens of parcels and costumes.

Violet May Collins, another saleswoman, said she had seen Miss Epstein take goods away every day. She did not know where the parcels she and Epstein and his sons took went to.

The further hearing was adjourned until a day to be fixed.

STATE BAKERY.

TO SUPPLY GOVERNMENT INSTITUTIONS.

BREAD A PENNY A POUND

The New South Wales Government has decided to start a State bakery in the metropolitan area.

An announcement to this effect was made last night by Mr. Hall, Minister for Justice, who stated that the Premier would probably make a similar announcement contemporaneously in New Zealand. It is well known that not long ago Mr. Holman, at Cobar, expressed himself strongly in favour of State bakeries and butcheries.

The statement made by Mr. Hall last night was as follows:—

"With the steadily-increased cost of living, the Government finds itself in the position of having to pay more each year for the upkeep of Government institutions than previous years, and the question of keeping down the cost is fast becoming an acute one. In the matter of the supply of stores to the various Government institutions, the tendency of contractors has been to put the prices up. A little over a week ago tenders closed for the supply of bread for these institutions. I, as the head of the department dealing with this matter, was somewhat alarmed to find that the bakers contracting for the different gaols were asking this year what appeared to be exorbitant prices. I determined to go fully into the matter.

"Last year we were asked to pay 9s for every 100lb of bread delivered at Darlinghurst Gaol—this year the lowest tender was 11s 6d, an increase of just on 28 per cent. For the State Reformatory the price was increased from 8s 6d to 10s 6d per 100lb; for Parramatta Gaol the increase was from 10s 1½d to 12s, and the prices for other Government institutions were similarly raised. I soon became convinced, upon inquiry, that there was no real justification for this immense increase. At the time the tenders were called the price of flour was, if anything, slightly lower than it was a year ago, and the wages of bakers and of carters were the same.

A RING.

"The methods of tendering employed by the master bakers clearly indicated," said Mr. Hall, "in spite of an appearance of competition, in reality there was in existence a ring, which had determined to make the Government pay these increased prices. The Tender Board refused to accept the lowest prices offered, and called for fresh tenders.

"The master bakers seem to have guessed inquiries were on foot to start a Government establishment, for there was a large drop in the prices quoted by comparison with the tenders of seven days before. We were offered, for Darlinghurst Gaol, under the second tenders, bread at the same price as last year, viz., 9s; for Parramatta Gaol they came down by 1s 7d per 100lb; for the State Reformatory by 1s per 100lb, while at some other institutions they actually offered to supply this year for less than they charged last year—notably in the case of the Hospital for the Insane, Gladesville, where 9s was paid last year, 11s 3d asked under the first tender this year, and an offer of 8s 10d has now been made by a contractor who asked 11s 6d in the last instance.

"Whilst the combine of the master bakers failed this year, if the supply of bread to Government institutions were to continue as formerly, at some later date it might be more successful. The Government institutions between Sydney and Parramatta purchase over 3000 2lb loaves per day, and it will at once be seen that if a few gentlemen can unite without reason to increase their charges by 25 per cent., no protection is offered to the taxpayers so long as they are at the mercy of private suppliers. If these gentlemen would increase their price at a time when flour is selling as cheaply as it did last year, the question presents itself, what would they do if the cost of flour and labour were to go up?

PURCHASE OF BAKERY.

"After careful consideration, the Government has determined to acquire a bakery, and proceed at the end of this month to bake its own bread for its own institutions. Negotiations have to-day been completed, by which the Government purchased the establishment of Messrs. J. Boss and Son, of Stanmore. Here there is an up-to-date building, centrally situated, less than three years old, containing the latest designs of ovens, and equipped with modern machinery, and with a capacity of turning out a great deal more bread than the Government is likely to require for many years to come. Under competent management it is expected that, with a comparatively small staff, the establishment will be able to meet the requirements of the various departments. In spite of the fact that delivery to the more distant places, such as Parramatta and Long Bay, will be a little expensive, it is expected that, with the aid of motor lorries, bread will be delivered to every institution within the metropolitan area at approximately 1d per lb, after making full allowance for interest on purchase, depreciation of plant, and every other charge which should properly be made against a Government undertaking of the kind.

Apart from the cost of bread, the Government has in the past paid the bakers about £2 per ton more for the flour used in the various institutions than the ruling market rate. Having supplies at our own bakery will no doubt result in a substantial saving in this direction."

Replying to an inquiry whether it was intended to supply the public, Mr. Hall said: "There is no such intention at present, though no doubt a state of affairs may possibly arise when that proposition would have to be considered. In the meantime, it will be interesting for the Government to know just what it does cost to produce and deliver a loaf of bread, in and around Sydney."

RAILWAY BUILDING.

TWO MILES A DAY.

A CONTRACTOR'S OFFER.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Giving evidence before the Federal Royal Commission on Powellised Timber at Parliament House on Wednesday, Joseph Timms, a railway contractor, stated that he was prepared to complete the remaining 1000 miles of the trans-Australian railway for £2,000,000, and would put up a deposit of £50,000 to complete the line for traffic in two years.

As the small amount of work already done had cost during two years £2,000,000 sterling, Mr. Timms' announcement was treated with derisive laughter. The Commission was not prepared to take him seriously.

Interviewed on Thursday, Mr. Timms stated that he was prepared to build a mile a day at each end, and if the Government paid him £2,000,000 for the work, he would hand it over for public traffic in two years' time. He was prepared to put up £50,000 as a deposit, and allow the Government to retain 10 per cent. of his progress payments until another £50,000 was reached, making in all a guarantee of £100,000. He would take as a sample of the line to be constructed the two portions now laid at Port Augusta and Kalgoorlie. The Government would provide the sleepers, rails, and fastenings, and he would do the rest. If the Government failed to supply the material in time, a suitable extension would have to be allowed. He would also be prepared to take over all suitable plant at a valuation and undertake to carry out any contracts the Government had entered into. He would pay the same rates of wages at Port Augusta as the Government is now paying at the Kalgoorlie end, and the usual rates for skilled labour, mechanics, platelayers, etc.

NORTHCOTE CUP.

RAWHITI WINS FIRST RACE.

A MARRED CONTEST.

THE RIP LOSES HER MAST.

"Her mast is gone!"

Such was the exclamation which rose from those following the incidents in the duel between the Rawhiti and the Rip yesterday in the first of the races for the Northcote Cup.

The accident happened on board the Rip, just at the critical point of the race, when she was making a game effort to get on even terms with her speedy opponent.

As a race, the fight between the yachts was a disappointment. It is the first time in the brief history of the contest that the struggle for the cup has taken place in Sydney Harbour, and the fact that a Victorian yacht, The Rip, specially built to wrest the trophy from the holders, was competing, gave it additional interest.

In 1913 Rawhiti II. visited Victoria, and brought the cup to Sydney after beating the Killara, the holder of the trophy. On this occasion the Victorians went one better, and a boat representing the last word in the boat-builder's art was put into the water in the hope of beating Rawhiti in her own waters, and bringing the cup back to Melbourne. Killara, last year's defender, was also competing, but she had to take second place to the new and untried boat.

Everything pointed to a keen race. The weather was as if made for the occasion. A moderate north-easter was blowing at the start of the race, and it brought up with it a choppy sea. The Victorians carried their big suits, but the Rawhiti's crew, knowing what to expect, were content with their second suit, and their judgment was correct.

From the start the Rawhiti's skipper outgeneralled and out-sailed his opponents. At the line, while taking a risk, he beat Killara's helmsman pointless, and as a result the champion of two years ago had to put about and shoot for the line again. Rawhiti, however, had the Victorian surprise packet, the Rip, to deal with. The defender had the best of things across the line, and in the beat to the light off Watson's Bay, she outsailed the new boat, and rounded it a good two minutes ahead of her. In the run up to Clark Island, the Rip gained on her in spite of the fact that she seemed to take charge on a couple of occasions, and jibed in an ugly fashion. The finish of the duel, as far as the Rawhiti and the Rip were concerned, came after rounding the buoy off Taylor's Bay. The Victorians' gear evidently got a severe straining in the run to the island and, shortly after coming on to the weather on the beat down, her forestay broke, and away went her mast. This left the race an easy thing for Rawhiti, provided her gear stood the test. Killara, after losing time at the start was a long way astern throughout the race. On the wind the first time up, her skipper reduced her sail, and later on stripped the big jib off her, and replaced it with a smaller one. After that she went considerably better, but she was eight minutes and 15 seconds behind the home boat in finishing.

The Rip during the brief time she was in the race showed herself to be a very speedy boat. In stays and on the weather she is slower than the Rawhiti, but running she is faster. Had she come out with her second suit on, things might have been different. As it was, her skipper's judgment was astray, and he paid the penalty. It will be of interest to yachting men to know that she has brought a second "stick" with her, and will be ready for to-day's race.

The boats were followed by a large number of yachts and motor boats. The Royal Yacht Club had the steamer Woollahra under charter to follow the race. She carried a large number of club members and their friends. Among those present were Mr. Arthur J. Milson (vice-commodore), Mr. T. W. Bremner (rear-commodore), and Mr. W. J. Creagh. Mr. S. W. Church, commodore of the Royal Yacht Club of Victoria, Mr. S. E. Holroyd, secretary of the Royal Yacht Club of Victoria, and Mr. C. Marshall, commodore of the St. Kilda Yacht Club, were also present. Among the boats following the race were the steam yacht Bronzewing, in charge of the commodore of the Prince Alfred Yacht Club, the Revonah, in charge of Mr. F. Albert, commodore of the Motor Boat Club, and the yachts Culwulla and Ranee.

THE RACE.

A magnificent start was made by Rawhiti II., whose skipper outmanoeuvred the Victorian yachtsmen. Mr. Sayer placed his boat on Killara's weather, and the two came to the western end of the line, when Rawhiti's skipper pulled her away, and, passing under the stern of the white boat, immediately hauled a wind. Killara, being then unable to pull away, went past the starter's boat on the worng side, and lost almost two minutes returning to cross. The Rip, in the meantime, had selected the centre of the line, which she crossed to leeward, and two seconds astern of the New South Wales yacht. All were close hauled on the port tack, but were soon in stays, when it was easy to see that both the Victorian representatives were carrying too much canvas in the fresh nor'-easter. Rawhiti stood close in to Chowder Head, and was making much better weather of it than her rivals. The Rip and Rawhiti worked tack for tack for some time, but the latter was gradually opening out from the former. The black boat left the local boat, and tried a long port stretch across the flood tide, while Rawhiti continued to work short boards across Chowder Bay to George's Head, escaping a good deal of the tide, until able to lay her course for the pile light off Watson's Bay. Killara meanwhile had been sailing the same course as The Rip, and both the challengers, after the short leg, fetched a long way to leeward of pile light. The times rounding the pile light, which were:—Rawhiti II., 3h 31m 27s; The Rip; 3h 33m 19s; Killara, 3h 35m 10s—show how the three were separated after the first beat to windward.

TOO MUCH CANVAS.

After rounding the pile light, Rawhiti was running by the lee, and rolling considerably, but was steadied somewhat by a smartly-set spinnaker. The Rip appeared to take charge when off the wind, and jibed twice, all standing, and a spinnaker was not added until crossing Shark Beach. Killara, on the run, partially lowered her mainsail, in order to put down a reef, and was 4½ minutes astern of Rawhiti at the Shark Island mark.

On the close haul to Taylor Bay, Rawhiti continued to sail well, but The Rip was staggering under her big sail, with sheets flattened, and Killara's jib was spoiling her pace, being far too big.

Rounding Taylor Bay mark Rawhiti was 1m 52s ahead of The Rip, with Killara 3m 17s further astern.

MAST ADRIFT.

On a wind for the second time Rawhiti stood in close to Chowder Head, and then well across Chowder Bay, towards George's Head. The Rip sailed the same course as far as Chowder Head, when to the dismay of the yachtsmen of both States, her mast went over the side, and robbed the race of a good deal of interest. Mr. F. Albert, who was following the race in his motor yacht Revonah, immediately offered the visitors Rawhiti's spare mast so that The Rip may be got ready for to-morrow's race.

Killara again sailed the wrong course to windward with the tide flooding, and continued to drop astern.

On the second run Rawhiti jibbed off Bottle and Glass and added a spinnaker. Killara jibbed shortly after rounding, and shifted jibs, but on the close haul to Taylor Bay failed to hold her own with the green boat.

The race had now become a procession, and it was not until the final run to Shark Island that a spinnaker was set on Killara, when she gained one minute and ten seconds on Rawhiti, but part of this was due to the latter throwing up into the wind and staying, instead of jibbing, which Mr. Sayer could afford to do with a comfortable lead of over eight minutes.

There were only a few seconds difference in the time taken on the close haul to the finish where the official times were recorded:—Rawhiti, 5h 29m 7s; Killara, 5h 37m 23s, which gives the first of the series to the N.S.W. representative by 8m 16s. Both boats were cheered by the patrons of the club steamer, and occupants of numerous other craft cruising about.

TO-DAY'S RACE.

To-day's race will be to windward and back, for which alternate courses have been provided as follows:—From line off Clark Island, round mark off Flagstaff Point, and back to Clark Island, twice round; or from Neutral Bay, round flagmark between Point Piper and Shark Island, and back to Neutral Bay, three times round.

The course to be sailed will be decided by the sailing committee and signalled to competitors from the club house.

Should Rawhiti secure another win to-day the cup will remain in Sydney, but in the event of The Rip or Killara being successful a third race will be necessary on Monday next.

A PROMINENT BANKER.

PRESENTATION TO MR. J. S. CARROLL.

Mr. J. S. Carroll, on the eve of his retirement from the Australian Bank of Commerce, Ltd., after a service of half a century, was presented with an address and purse of sovereigns by his fellow-officers. Mr. B. B. Rodd presided. Mr. Carroll, in returning thanks, referred to his experiences in the Araluen goldfield in the early 'Sixties. At that time he was manager of the local branch, and used to buy gold each Saturday from 12 noon to 12 midnight, and then take it—anything up to 2000oz.—on a dray to Braidwood, 17 miles away, "dodging Hall and the other bushrangers."

He impressed upon young men taking up the profession of banking the importance of continuous study of the Bills of Exchange Act, and the ever-changing laws of banking, as laid down by the Courts, so as to fit them for the higher positions.

During the last quarter of a century Mr. Carroll has been doing special work at the head office of the bank, in the management and realisation of properties, which largely as an aftermath of 1893 fell into the hands of the bank, and, having completed his task, now retires, and though ripe in age, is still mentally and physically robust, and is possessed of a unique knowledge of city and suburban property values.

BURGLARS FAIL.

Burglars removed the glass of a window in the building of the Chiswick Polish Company of Australia, Limited, in Mitchell-road, Alexandria, during Wednesday night. They attempted to open the safe. The brass cap was levered off the keyhole, though the lock remained intact. Nothing was stolen.

FEDERAL FINANCE.

FALL IN REVENUE.

INCREASED EXPENDITURE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Figures made available yesterday by the Federal Treasury for the half-year ended December 31, 1913, show that the total Commonwealth receipts from all sources amounted to £10,131,027, as against £10,223,5.. for the corresponding period of 1912. The decrease in revenue, therefore, was £92,547.

Taking the various items of revenue, Customs and excise receipts show, as was anticipated, a very serious falling off, amounting only to £7,471,624, as against £7,950,239 for the same half-year of 1912. The decrease was consequently £478,615. The Treasurer anticipated a falling off in Customs and excise revenue for the current financial year of £653,000. As in the first six months the decrease has already reached the amount of £478,615, it is evident that during the last six months of the financial year Sir John Forrest's estimate will have to be exceeded.

Judging by the Customs and Excise revenue for January the imports would seem to be improving, and it is not impossible that Sir John Forrest's estimate may not prove to be far off the mark. Postal revenue shows a very satisfactory increase, being £2,202,964, compared with £2,051,799. The expenditure, including the surplus revenue paid to the States, and special payment made to Tasmania, was £10,897,434, as against £9,612,124, or £1,285,310 more than for the corresponding half-year of 1912. Invalid and old-age pensions cost £156,637 more than before, and the maternity allowance £253,935 more. Defence also accounts for a considerable additional outlay, the exact excess being £213,698; whilst new works represent an additional expenditure of £248,653. The construction of the fleet cost £209,590 more than for the corresponding half-year of 1912; whilst the Post Office also shows an increase in expenditure, this being £200,110.

BETTING SHOPS.

CRUSADE BY THE POLICE.

It is an open secret that an enormous amount of betting is carried on by persons unable to attend the racecourses.

Numbers of bookmakers give publicity to the fact that they do business on current races, either "straight out" or on "doubles," places, or starting prices. The modus operandi is either by personal call at the office of the layer of odds, by telegram, telephone, or by post.

The "shop" bookmakers' offices are in central positions in the city. The vocations of the occupants are usually described on the door plate as "cigar merchants," "importers," or some other ordinary business designation.

Betting is illegal, except on registered racecourses, or at clubs, such as Tattersall's or City Tattersall's (for members only). Recognising this, the police authorities have just verbally notified the occupants of the alleged betting "shops" that they must forthwith "close down" under penalty of prosecution.

This notification has naturally caused a fluttering in the sporting dovecotes, as many of the "shop" bookmakers do a huge business with city and country clients.

The authorities say that betting, except at authorised places, must cease. The betting men, on the other hand, argue that they cater for a very large section of the speculative public, and, as one of them stated yesterday, "You might just as well try to stop the flow of the tide as to attempt to prevent the public betting."

It is anticipated that the result of the police ukase will be that the betting "shops" will be transferred from one place to another. But, it is claimed, that all efforts to stamp out betting in the city will fail.

AMATEUR CREW.

SIGN OFF AT SAN FRANCISCO

AORANGI'S FIREMEN.

The steamer Aorangi, which arrived from San Francisco, via Wellington, last night, had trouble with her firemen on the last outward voyage.

The vessel left Sydney on November 30 with a scratch crew of firemen, who had been signed on during the wharf strike in New Zealand. The men were practically all new to the work, having come forward from various callings of a less strenuous nature than firing and trimming.

At first they worked with a will, but as the novelty of the situation wore off the "amateurs" exhibited signs of discontent. The Aorangi left Wellington on December 7, and by this time the work had become irksome and monotonous, the engineers having to hustle the men to get anything like satisfactory results.

At Papeete the discontent amongst the firemen became more serious, and most of the men left the vessel for a day ashore. Many had not returned when the vessel was due to sail, and some trouble was experienced in finding them and inducing them to return and start work again. Before the vessel reached San Francisco several of the men made no secret of the fact that they were utterly tired of the work, and when the Aorangi eventually reached that port many of them were glad to sign off. The vessel had no difficulty in filling their places, and she returned with practically a new crew of firemen and trimmers.

TIDAL WAVE.

THE MAKATEA HURRICANE.

The steamer Detmold, which took the news of the devastating hurricane at Makatea Island to Auckland, has since come across from New Zealand, and arrived at Newcastle recently.

Details of the hurricane show that it was of a terrific nature, and resulted in extensive damage on the island. Makatea is a French possession, situated about 125 miles from Tahiti, and about 120 natives are engaged there in the phosphate deposits. When the Detmold arrived there from Australia, on December 30, she kept a full head of steam on. This proved a satisfactory precaution, as, on January 4, a terrific cyclone struck the island, and brought up a heavy sea. The Detmold put out to sea, and was hove-to for eight days, until the storm abated. The storm reached its height on the seventh day, when a strange sight was witnessed. A huge tidal wave appeared to sweep in from the ocean, and this struck the island.

When the Detmold returned to the island a scene of devastation was witnessed. A long wooden pier on the north-west side of the island, built of heavy piles, was swept away for a distance of 180ft. A crane for loading phosphates into vessels, and two boats at the end of the pier, had also disappeared. Native huts on the island had also been demolished, but as far as could be ascertained on the steamer no lives had been lost. As it was impossible for the steamer to load phosphates, she steamed away, and, after calling at Papeete and Auckland, came on to Newcastle. After taking in bunker coal there she will leave for Ocean Island.

MATCHES.

CONTROLLING THE TRADE.

ALLEGED COMBINE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Further evidence in support of the application for increased duties on matches was heard to-day by the Interstate Commission.

Edwin Lionel Bell, managing director of E. L. Bell and Co. Proprietary, Limited, said that the increased duty should be fixed at 2s and 1s 8d per gross boxes containing 50 matches.

George Lorimer, of the firm of Reynard, Lorimer, and Co., buying and selling agents, said they had purchased matches from Marriott and Co., of Brussels.

Mr. Lockyer: How did you buy your matches?—Through the combine.

Is there a combine in matches, then?—They call it so in my correspondence.

Could you approach Marriott's, then, except through Bryant and May?—Yes; through my London agents, but they would have to deal through Bryant and May. In 1906 an arrangement was made in which Bryant and May controlled foreign factory output as far as Australia was concerned.

Did they fix the selling price for Australia?—Yes.

Was there an increase?—Yes; about 5½d a gross. In January, 1912, there was an advance of 1d.

Is it profitable for these firms to exploit the Australian market?—Undoubtedly; they can manufacture at 1/7, and with charges 4d. and the duty at 1/, the cost price is only 2/11. Matches are selling at 3/5. That is profitable.

Mr. Lockyer: Any matches imported into Australia must be subject to the approval and the conditions laid down by Bryant and May?—That is only as far as Roche's, Marriott's, and a Milan firm are concerned.

CRICKET TOUR.

MAYNE LIBEL ACTION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The action which Edgar Richard Mayne, manager of the Australian Cricket Team which visited America recently, is bringing against David Syme and Co., proprietors of "The Age," was mentioned before the Chief Justice to-day.

Plaintiff claims £1000 damages for alleged libels contained in articles published under the headings, "Stranded Cricketers," and "Unprofitable Cricket Tour." The trial was ordered to take place in Melbourne before a Judge and jury.

Mr. Starke, for defendants, said it might be necessary for the purposes of the defence to see the books of the tour.

An order for discovery was made available to both parties.

Dr. Kaufmann, for plaintiff, said it might be necessary to send to America.

The Chief Justice said that a commission could be asked for specifically when it was wanted.

STATE SOCIALISM.

ANOTHER VENTURE.

BOILING-DOWN WORKS.

A definite statement on the Government's intentions in regard to the new abattoirs at Homebush Bay, was made at the conference between the Meat Industry Board and the representatives of the various industries affected. It was to the effect that the Government intends to run a State Boiling Down Works in conjunction with the new abattoirs.

Although not included in the original scheme, the Labour Government has gone ahead with the erection of a building, and the ordering of machinery for a large boiling-down works adjacent to the new slaughtering establishments. In view of this fact, the question was put direct to Mr. Davis, Director General of Public Works, who presided over the conference on Wednesday last, and his reply was: "Well, the building is going up, and we are not building it for fun."

This departure from the original proposal was alluded to yesterday by Mr. Loxley Meggitt, manager of the Australian branch of the Co-operative Wholesale Society of Manchester, England, with works at Botany.

It was explained that the number of tallow and fertiliser works in the metropolitan area totals 25. Nearly £90,000 capital is invested in the industry, which turns out about £500,000 worth of product annually. The carrying out of the Government's intention will mean that all but two or three of these 25 manufactories will have to close down. The public abattoirs are the chief source of supply of the by-products which is the raw material for the manufacture of tallow and fertilisers. If this supply is taken by the Government, the quantities available from butchers' shops could easily be dealt with by two boiling-down works. The works in course of erection by the Government are on a large scale, and will cost at least £100,000.

"There is no doubt," said Mr. Meggitt, "that a deliberate effort has been made behind the backs of Parliament and the Public Works Committee, and despite repeated assurances to the contrary, to push out private enterprise. And why? The Government does not want the tallow. It cannot use it as it can bricks and stone and joinery work from the various State enterprises for the production of those commodities, and there has never been any demand made for such a venture.

"The abattoirs were sanctioned for establishment at Homebush, on the distinct promise and understanding that noxious trades would not be allowed in the vicinity. Speaking in the Legislative Council in December, 1906, on the Sydney Abattoir Construction Bill, Mr. F. Flowers, now Vice-President of the Executive Council, and Chairman of the Meat Industry Board, drew attention to the absence of proper safeguards to prevent the establishment of noxious trades in close proximity to the abattoirs at Homebush, and indicated that he objected to noxious trades being established at Homebush."

"It is perfectly plain," continued Mr. Meggitt, "that the Homebush Abattoir Bill would not have been passed but for these definite promises that noxious trades would not be allowed in the vicinity."

Mr. Meggitt went on to say that a serious loss and waste of the taxpayers' money was inevitable. The works will cost a million sterling before they were finished. If they were capitalised on a 5 per cent. basis there would have to be a return of £50,000 to meet interest. Allowing only 5 per cent. for depreciation, etc, would require another £50,000. That meant a return of £2000 per week was necessary before allowing for wages and all the other expenses of running the business. "When it is noted that the total return at present from the Glebe Island abattoirs is about £13,050 per annum, it will be seen that the inevitable loss will run into appalling figures. Then it has been decided by the union that no work shall be done at night. This means that the slaughtering establishments will only be worked for eight hours per day. That will only be sufficient to provide the local trade, whereas the export trade is already quite as large as the local trade. Therefore, if our export trade is to be kept going, another huge slaughtering establishment will have to be put up, and it follows that a similar calculation will show a proportionate loss. There can be no other result from this but dearer meat, and that is exactly the experience of the Adelaide public abattoirs fiasco, which attempted the same thing. The Government will have no alternative but to increase the charges and fees at the slaughtering-houses in an endeavour to make the scheme pay."

THE CAMBEWARRA.

CREW'S SORRY PLIGHT.

PERTH, Friday.

A police telegram from Dongarra states that the mate of the Cambewarra and his companions who reached there safely last night had a trying time.

The men approaching the land near Green Point thought they saw a fire some distance from the shore. Concluding that there was a homestead in the neighbourhood they left the boat. They, however, failed to discover any indications of habitation. Upon returning to the beach, they found to their dismay that the boat had disappeared. Abandoning all hopes of recovering the lifeboat, they walked along the beach, finally reaching Dongarra, after covering a distance of about 20 miles.

When they arrived at that township they were suffering severely from sore feet and scarcity of water. The men are absolutely penniless.

A Geraldton telegram states that the mate and his companions, after landing, became so exhausted trudging over the rocks with torn, bleeding feet, and three of them decided to rest and sleep, while the mate, engineer, and a seaman pushed on. They reached the hut of a fisherman just outside Dongarra thoroughly worn out, and lurched along with the aid of sticks. They were only able to gasp "Water," but they were speedily cared for, and given brandy and beef tea. On recovering a little they told their story, and the lighthouse-keeper (Mr. Hughes) and his son and two other residents set out on horseback to find the three others. The latter, who resumed their tramp after several hours' sleep, were met seven miles down the coast. They were conveyed to Dongarra.

NOVEL COUNCIL MEETING.

NARROMINE, Friday.

The result of the elections becoming known on Saturday night, notices were issued by the clerk calling a general meeting of the council for last Monday night, to be preceded by a special meeting for the election of Mayor. The clerk, on Monday, cancelled the notice for the Mayor's meeting, as he doubted its strict regularity. However, the general meeting was not cancelled, and at the appointed time a quorum of the council was present at the Town Hall, which was locked up and in darkness. Neither the clerk nor Mayor put in an appearance. The aldermen gained entrance to the council room by a back door of the hall, obtained a hurricane lamp, and proceeded to business, appointing a newspaper reporter acting-clerk for the purpose of recording and entering the minutes.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

Since 9 a.m. on Thursday the high pressure over eastern Australia has undergone considerable expansion, so that now it occupies all the eastern half of the continent and the Tasman Sea.

That portion resting over Australia has very little character, the barometer readings being all "flat" (or of almost equal values) over that large area.

The centre of the "high" is now a little to the south of Lord Howe Island.

Data from Western Australia is absent, but from available reports it is seen that the huge Tropical depression resting yesterday over the interior of the continent has ... southwards to the Great Bight.

Temperatures all over this area are warm to hot, and many of the registrations ... 105 deg. Very little rain, however, is reported. The tendencies mostly favouring ...

A Tropical disturbance lies over the sea, to the east of the Queensland coast, ... portion of it runs through New Caledonia. The only indication so far of its presence is a rather rough sea at Sandy Cape, and it is cloudy to overcast and showery on the coast of the northern State, north from Cairns.

A high pressure also covers the ocean between Leeuwin and Tasmania.

With this distribution of pressure, the weather should be hot and sultry generally, with northerly winds. Some scattered thunderstorms also likely, and isolated strong ... squalls.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally on parts of the Queensland coast; no data from Western Australia.

NEW ZEALAND LOANS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

Mr. Allen, Minister for Finance, states that the whole of the recent loan has now been converted. The term of the loan was for 3 years. A convertible loan issued in 4 per cent. debenture bonds, which were convertible into 4 per cent. stock at 102, maturing in 1943-63, was subscribed at once with applications to convert. This practically means that debenture bonds were not issued, but the whole loan taken up under provisions for conversion. The loan is, therefore, ... dated, but a long-dated loan for a similar period to the last loan floated by the Government.

FINANCIAL.

THE INCOME TAX.

THE POSITION OF COMPANIES.

REGISTRATION HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

One of the most important questions raised under the Income Tax Act of 1912 was as to the real intention of the Legislature in regard to the taxation of companies. We all know that that body had no particular intentions at all, except to make the tax as far-reaching as possible, and it allowed the Act to be added to the statute book in an incomplete and self-contradictory manner. This, however, did not absolve the Courts, on whose shoulders the duty rested of saying what the Legislature really ought to have meant, in view of how it had expressed itself. One of the troubles arose as to the treatment to be meted out to companies registered in Sydney under the local Companies Act, and companies registered in another State or abroad. The Income Tax Commissioners assessed the shareholders of both, and representative shareholders of both appealed to the Courts. It was quickly realised that the two cases were antitheses, that if it was fair to tax the shareholders of a company registered locally, which carried on business abroad on the whole of its profits, wherever earned, then it was unfair to tax a company registered abroad on its profits locally made. To do so would have been to introduce a wholesale system of double taxation. Take the case of Farmer and Co., Ltd. If the shareholders of this company were taxable under the New South Wales Act, in view of the fact that the company was already being charged income tax in England, where it is registered, the shareholders and the company, between them, would have to pay two sets of income tax upon the same income, which is manifestly unjust. Now consider a converse case. Take the Bank of New South Wales. It is registered in Sydney, and most of its shareholders are domiciled in this State, where a large portion of its profits are made. It, however, carries on business in Victoria, in Queensland, in New Zealand, and elsewhere, making profits in each of these places. How should its shareholders be treated? Of course, if the bank elected to pay on their behalf, which it would probably consider it had no power to do, no difficulty would arise, for it would only pay on the New South Wales portion of the profits, arrived at by the rule of thumb method, provided by the Act. The only difficulty in this case would be the fact that in all probability the amount of tax that the bank would be called upon to pay on the New South Wales portion of its profits would not be nearly so great as the amount that the shareholders could demand back under the Act by way of refunds. So something would break. But we can put this aspect of the case on one side and assume that the bank claims as a deduction the amount of dividends it pays to its shareholders, that is, in other words, that it elects not to pay on their behalf, which is precisely what it has done. On what basis, then, should shareholders be taxed? Should they be called upon to pay income tax upon the whole of the dividends they receive, less the statutory deductions, despite the fact that it is well recognised that a large portion of the profits they represent was earned outside the State; or should they merely be taxed upon that proportion of the dividends that was actually earned in New South Wales? It comes to this—where did the income arise? Did it arise for the purposes of the income tax in New South Wales, where the bank is registered, irrespective of where it was actually earned, or did it arise where it was earned? So, in Farmer's case (that is, Chalmers' case) where did the income of that company arise, in New South Wales, where the bulk of the business is carried on, or in London, where the company is registered, and where its head office is and its chief directors are domiciled? These were the points that came up for review before the Supreme Court recently in Chalmers', Forsyth's, and Lethbridge's cases.

Chalmers' case raises the question whether a shareholder (Chalmers) in a company (Farmer's) which is incorporated under the English law and which has its registered office in England, but which transacts its business in this State and keeps a branch register here, is liable to pay income tax in respect of dividends on his shares. Several points must be noted. First of all, it is not a question as to whether the company is liable, but whether the shareholder is liable. Secondly, registration in England might have been registration in Victoria or anywhere else out of N. S. Wales without affecting the decision. Mr. Justice Street, in his judgment, said: "It is manifest that the intention of the Legislature was to confine the operation of the Act to incomes derived from sources within the State; and, in considering whether dividends received by a shareholder in a company are taxable as part of his income within the meaning of the Act, the first question which has to be determined is whether his shares are to be regarded as the source of his income within the meaning of the Act, or whether the Legislature has shown an intention to look beyond the shares to the business carried on by the company as the source from which the income is derived. In one sense, and in a loose way of speaking, no doubt it may be said that the source of the dividends received by a shareholder is the business carried on by the company in which he has embarked his capital, just in the same way as it may be said that the earnings of the business carried on by a company are the source from which the salaries of its staff are paid. An incorporated company is, however, a separate entity, distinct from its individual members. It has a distinct legal personality of its own entirely different from that of co-partners or persons carrying on a business in common. . . . . A shareholder's right to share in the profits of the company depends upon its constitution and upon the contract contained in the Articles of Association. Shares in a company are a well-known and well-recognised form of property at the present day, and the rights and liabilities attaching to the ownership of shares are well understood. People speak with perfect propriety of investing money in the shares of a company, but the shareholders in the numerous trading companies now in existence would be surprised to be told that they were carrying on the business of the company in whose shares they had invested their capital. If in determining whether dividends on shares are taxable income. . . . one is to look beyond the shares to the business carried on by the company, and is to regard that as the source of income, it seems to follow that in the case of a company carrying on business in this State the dividends payable to its shareholders must be taxable at the lower rate on the footing of income derivable from personal exertion. Income derived from personal exertion means, as I have pointed out, income consisting of the proceeds of any business, and if the business of the company is to be regarded as the source from which the shareholders' income is derived, I cannot see why he should not be entitled to the benefit of the lower rate. It cannot be supposed that this was ever intended by the Legislature, but this result must follow if dividends received by a shareholder are to be regarded as proceeds of the business carried on by the company, and they must be so regarded if the business is looked to as the source of the shareholder's income. . . If the shares are to be regarded as the source of income the result is that in the case of a company incorporated elsewhere, but carrying on business in this State, whose shareholders reside outside the jurisdiction, no tax is leviable on the profits earned in this State. If, however, that is a casus omissus, this is a matter for the Legislature to rectify. This is a Taxing Act, and if a case is not brought clearly and unambiguously within the scope of its provisions, we are not entitled to depart from a strict construction of the language used in order to close what may appear to us to be an overlooked loophole. In determining the source of a shareholder's income the natural and obvious view is that it is derived from his ownership of shares as a form of property, and in departing from this view in the absence of very clear words, showing that the Legislature intended something different, I feel that we should be entering into the dangerous realm of speculation. The income, then, being, in my opinion, derived from the ownership of the shares, there still remains for consideration the question whether the source of the income is, or is not, in New South Wales. So far as a company can be said to have a residence, it may be said in most cases to reside in the country in which it is registered, but this is not necessarily or universally the case, and the place of registration is not the real test for determining the place of business." In the De Beers Consolidated Company case it was held that the test of residence is not where a company is registered, but where it really keeps house and does its real business, and, that the real business is carried on where the central management and control actually abide. On the facts, the Court decided that Farmer's had its residence in London, where the chief board was to be found; where the financial arrangements of the company were controlled; and, though it had a branch register of shareholders here, that was merely part of the principal register, and a mere matter of administration, which could be discontinued at any time.

So it was decided that shareholders of companies domiciled abroad were not taxable, while shareholders of companies domiciled locally were liable to income tax under the local Act.

DOUBLE TAXATION.

A large number of local manufacturers feel keenly the unfairness of the system by which they are compelled to pay income tax in this State on profits made on goods sold in other States, where they also have to pay income tax, thus being charged a double income tax on the same profits. The manifest injustice of this was strongly referred to at Thursday's meeting of the New South Wales Chamber of Manufactures, and it was unanimously decided to take immediate steps to try to have the anomaly rectified. The president, Mr. H. E. Pratten, Mr. O. C. Beale, and Mr. S. F. Newlands, were appointed a committee, to obtain the fullest information on the subject, and to take such action as may be deemed necessary in the matter.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

There was a strong demand for tea yesterday, and although prices realised at the auction were high, especially for common kinds, buyers were not prepared in some instances to follow vendors all the way. Of the 580 chests of India and Ceylons offered, 400 were sold, prices ranging up to 10d. Privately a fair amount of business was done, 675 packages of Ceylons and Indians changing hands up to 11d.

In Eastern produce the item of moment was canary seed, large sales of which were made, some at £26/10/, and later at £26/15/. The market closed firm and strong.

The metal market was quiet. Wires continued easy. Everything out of the Pommern was cleared up, and now the market went on to shipments on the Elsass at the same rates. Tinplates had a strong inquiry at 16/6 to 16/9, according to the size of the parcel. Wire-nettings imported were strong, the prices on the other side of the world continuing firm at late rates.

A fair business was done in oils at full rates. Thistle oil was cabled at 1/10½ net. naked, f.o.b., for March-April shipment. Blundell, Spence's oil was 2/0½ f.o.b., at an advance of ½d on the week. Whitelead on spot had eased a shade, Champions, in cwt packages, being worth £41. Copra was neglected, though there was very little offering. Sun-dried, in bags, was quoted at £24/15/ per ton, f.o.b. export steamer.

The jute market was quiet, though Calcutta all round was stronger. The strike was still operating against any extensive dealings in branbags on spot, though the price was well maintained at 6/5¼ net. For January shipment, buyers wanted to procure bags at 5/10½ slings, but the lowest on offer was 6/. February to March shipments were available at 5/9 slings. Cornsacks were neglected. Calcutta quoted shipments, August to October, at 5/11½ c.i.f. There were a few orders for woolpacks, and these were filled at 3/9 less discount. The forward market was firmer, sellers asking not less than 2/10, less discount, for season's shipment. Quotations from Calcutta for May-June shipment varied from 2/7¾ to 2/8¼, c.i.f.

Operations in lumber have been quieter during the week. Buyers, having fairly well filled their requirements for the near future, are reluctant to speculate for the latter half of the year. Both American and Swedish markets are without change. Locally business is particularly brisk. All the yards are working quite up to their output.

PRICES OF DRIED PEACHES.

The Australian Dried Fruits Association yesterday announced the prices of dried peaches as follows:—

Four Crown /10½, Three Crown /9½, Two Crown /8, One Crown /5½; plains, /4 per lb for single box lots.

Ten-ton lots are a halfpenny below these prices.

The quotations are the same as the opening prices of last year, except that Two Crown peaches are now ½d higher.

BREADSTUFFS.

PRICES HIGHER.

Higher prices were paid for wheat yesterday both for growers' lots and for parcels on spot and forward. And this, although London was dull. Further fall in freights to 26/ per ton was the cause. Shippers paid 3/2 to 3/2½ for growers' lots at country stations, equal to 3/6¼ to 3/6½ ex trucks Sydney. Parcels for immediate delivery had sales at 3/7¼, and spot parcels at 3/7. A little business for delivery April to June was also done at 3/8¼.

The flour market was active, but it was expected that quietness would again reign next week. Most of the bakers yesterday completed buying their requirements for some time ahead, prices ranging from £8 to £8/5/ delivered. The association quoted £8/10/. Bran was advanced 5/ to £4/15/ per ton, and both bran and pollard were quoted at the same figure.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 2878 tons of wheat and 225 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

EGG MARKET AGAIN SETTLED.

The egg market was again settled yesterday. All the agents had decided upon a definite price. There was no movement in duck eggs.

The bacon market was firm, and it was impossible to secure supplies under the published levels. Stocks were light, owing to the fact that this week corresponds with the Christmas killing. In another few days the supplies coming forward will again be normal.

Butter and cheese were featureless.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

SHARP DECLINE IN FIREWOOD VALUES.

A heavy catalogue of 46 truckloads of firewood was submitted at auction yesterday. The sale, which was the second last of the week, was poorly attended by buyers, and sellers had to be content with prices fully 3/ a ton lower than those ruling on the previous day. A parcel of 128 bags of the new season's Clarence River maize was to hand. The grain was of average quality, and was quoted at 4/7 a bushel. Victorian maize was sold at from 4/6 to 4/7.

A shipment of 300 bags of onions and 200 bags of potatoes was received from Victoria. The onions were in good demand and moved out freely—the Brown Spanish at £9, and the Globes at from £8 to £8/10/ a ton. The potatoes, which were of the Pinkeye variety, realised from £4/10/ to £5 a ton.

RAILWAY MARKET.

EASIER TENDENCY.

Yesterday an all-round easier feeling was noticeable, for the buyers did not bid with any alacrity, nor were prices high. Not even that favourite commodity, wheaten chaff, escaped being penalised; some nine or ten passes were made—5/4 per cwt was obtained, and in one instance part of a Blayney truckload realised 5/9. Oaten chaff sold fairly well; 4/8 per cwt was obtained by auction and 5/ privately. Lucerne chaff—only a little of it in—sold up to 6/. The hay remained firm, also selling at 6/.

NORTH SHORE GAS COMPANY.

ADDITIONS TO WORKS.

FIXING THE STANDARD PRICE.

A general meeting of the shareholders in the North Shore Gas Company was held yesterday. Mr. P. T. Taylor, who presided, stated that there had been a most satisfactory increase in the consumption of gas. When compared with the corresponding half of last year the increase amounted to 17.05 per cent. He was sorry to tell them, however, that there had been a considerable addition to the working expenses. A large proportion of this was due to higher pay awarded to the workmen by various wages boards, while the larger prices paid for materials accounted for the balance. These extra outgoings had seriously reduced the profit, and this had been further diminished by the reduction of 3d per 1000 cubic feet in the price of gas, which the shareholders would remember took effect on January 1, 1913. In his remarks at the last general meeting, he said the board intended to apply for an increase in the standard price of gas, because of the additions to the cost of production due to wages boards' awards. They found that the cost had in this way been increased by a fraction over a penny per 1000 cubic feet, and they had, therefore, applied under the provisions of the Gas Act to have the standard price of gas raised by this latter sum, viz., from 3s 6d to 3s 7d per 1000 cubic feet. Officers from the Auditor General's Department had made an investigation of the company's books so as to be in a position to give evidence when the application was dealt with by the Judge appointed for this purpose. They had, however, received no notification as to when the matter would be heard.

A very large amount—in round figures, £68,000—had been spent on capital account during the half-year, chiefly on the new works at Oyster Cove. The trunk mains had been extended in various directions. In order to augment the supply of gas to the Mosman district, an 18-inch main was being laid from Falcon-street to the Spit-road. They had also reticulated, under agreement with the proprietors, the Northbridge Estate, an area of land lying to the north of the Suspension Bridge. At Neutral Bay works, with a view of meeting further demands for gas, a carburetted water-gas plant, with a capacity of half a million cubic feet per day, was being installed. A hot coke conveyor, with storage hoppers, was also being erected, and a telpher, for the purpose of more economically and expeditiously handling coal and coke, had been ordered, and was expected to arrive in Sydney shortly. When these additions to the Neutral Bay plant had been completed, they hoped to effect economies in the working expenses and thus, to some extent, recoup themselves for the higher manufacturing charges already referred to. The new works site at Oyster Cove was still being prepared. Some of the apparatus had already been fixed, and a wharf on the company's own water-frontage had been built. In a few weeks they hoped to complete the excavation and the foundations for the gas-holder and purifiers, which would then enable them to proceed with the erection of these portions of the new plant.

They were at present building a head office on the company's land adjoining the existing office. A first-class showroom where they would exhibit and sell all the most approved gas appliances, would be combined with the new office.

There had been an increase of 771 consumers during the half-year. The total number of consumers was now 15,744, and of these 12,461 were using gas through ordinary, and 3287 through prepayment meters. There had been an increase of 77 street lamps for the half-year, making the total number of lamps at present erected 2019. There had also been a satisfactory increase in the output of gas which, for the half-year was at the rate of 17.05 per cent., and for the year, at the rate of 15.66 per cent. The total output of gas, during 1913 was 608,420,068 cubic feet.

Mr. Taylor then moved that the report and balance-sheet, particulars of which have already been published, be adopted, and a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. on the "A" and "B" shares respectively be paid.

Mr. J. A. Minnett was re-elected a director, and Messrs. J. M. Dixon and W. B. Booth were re-elected as auditors.

At an extraordinary meeting following the general meeting, a resolution was carried to alter certain of the Articles of Association. This resolution, before it can take effect, must be confirmed at a subsequent meeting, which is to be held on Friday, the 27th instant.

TRADE AND CUSTOMS ASSOCIATION.

The question of separate registration under the Federal Arbitration Act of members of the Trade and Customs Association of New South Wales, was brought up at a special meeting of that body held in Aaron's Exchange Hotel, last night.

The president (Mr. A. T. Molesworth) said that many members did not wish to join the Commonwealth Public Service Clerical Association, and an appeal was now pending from the Registrar's refusal to register the Trade and Customs Association as a separate organisation.

From a financial point of view, the other body wanted the Trade and Customs employees to join, as it would mean increased contributions by nearly £500 a year.

There was a long discussion, and it was moved—"That this association disband and throw in its lot with the Clerical Association."

An amendment was moved—"That this association approves of the action of the executive in lodging the appeal, and, that no further action be taken until the result of the appeal is known, and then a public meeting be called to decide on further action."

The amendment was carried.

The balance-sheet of the provident fund showed a credit balance of £236 9s 10d, and was adopted.

MOTOR CAR STOLEN.

A man of plausible manner succeeded in stealing a motor-car from a garage at 74 Oxford-street, on Thursday afternoon.

The garage proprietors, Englebert and Bourke, had a 10-12-h.p., single-seated, green-painted Belsize car, owned by Mr. Horatio V. Mackenzie, of Arncliffe, for sale. It was Mr. Mackenzie himself who introduced the thief as a prospective buyer. Finally Mr. Mackenzie and the stranger left the garage, and Mr. Englebert went into the city, leaving a man in charge.

Half an hour later the stranger, who was well experienced in the handling of cars, returned to the garage. He told the mechanic that he had arranged with Mr. Mackenzie to take the car away, he having bought it for £300. The mechanic said that he would have to telephone Mr. Englebert before allowing the car out. Being unable to raise the number, he put down the receiver and allowed the stranger to try.

Presently the thief pretended to have raised the number. He then carried on a sham conversation.

The upshot of his cunning was that the mechanic allowed him to drive away in the Belsize, having also provided him with some motor-spirit.

The stolen car is valued at £350. Its licensed number is 2337, the maker's number being 7562.

POLICE COURTS.

ALLEGED ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

John Dowsett, 21, and William Henry Goring, 21, were charged at the Water Police Court yesterday with assaulting George Ward, and robbing him of £1 15s and a gold ring. Ward stated that they had been drinking together, and he went aboard the steamer Hawkes Bay with accused, where the alleged offence was committed. Ward appeared in court with his left eye bandaged.

The defendants were committed for trial.

£3000 WORTH OF POSTAL NOTES.

Edwin Percy Liddle, 37, appeared before Mr. Love, S.M., at the Central Police Court yesterday, to answer four charges of having falsely pretended, in advertisements published in certain newspapers in the Commonwealth, that he carried on business as a silk merchant, under the name of the Ceylon Silk Company, at Central-chambers, 173 Pitt-street, Sydney, and that the said company had a stock of silk, and could and would sell 10 yards of it to a purchaser on receipt of a postal order of the value of 5s 6d, by means of which false pretence he unlawfully obtained from certain persons named postal notes of the value of 5s 6d.

In asking for a remand until Monday next, the police prosecutor (Sergeant Mankey) said that the police had received postal notes to the value of £3000, which had been sent to the address given in the advertisements, and others were still coming in.

Mr. Spear, for the accused, asked that the remand should be for a week, but the police prosecutor said that witnesses were on their way from South Australia, Tasmania, and probably Queensland, and as the police were ready to proceed the case should go on.

Mr. Love, S.M., granted the remand to Monday next, and fixed bail at £2000, with one surety in £2000 or two in £1500.

Mr. Spear said that his client had not received £3000, as most of the money had arrived after Liddle was arrested.

THE TURF.

Metropolitan sportsmen will this afternoon have the choice of horse racing at Canterbury Park or pony and galloway racing at Kensington; while those who care to go farther afield should be well catered for by the Newcastle Jockey Club. Victorian sporting folk assemble at Williamstown: the Tasmanian Racing Club brings its summer meeting to a close at Hobart: the Canning Park Racing Club holds a meeting near Perth (W.A.); and Brisbane racegoers will be provided with an outing at Sandgate.

The six-event programme framed for the Warwick Farm February Meeting demands attention on Monday next, when up to 4 p.m. entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. H. B. Dando. The prize money totals 550 sovs, of which 100 sovs each goes to the Flying Handicap, Farm Stakes, Juvenile Handicap, and Warwick Handicap, and 75 sovs each to the other events.

The Canterbury Park Race Club holds its February Reunion this afternoon, and an interesting programme promises good sport. Despite the continued drought, the track is reported to be good going, and the customary provision has been made for the requirements of visitors. The transit service by rail includes specials, starting from the Central Railway Station, at 11.25 a.m. (horses and attendants), 11.50 a.m., 12.34, 12.40, 12.45, 12.57, 1.12, and 1.23 p.m., while the ordinary service on the Belmore line will also be available. The sport commences at 2 p.m., with the Flying Handicap, in which the places may be filled by Miocene, Lady Denman, and Coondarrie Laddie; Work, Lord Castlereagh, and Miss Collar may divide the honours in the Three-years-old Handicap; Floating, Coolaburrahgundy, and Ennisbelle may get home as named in the Jumpers' Flat Race, the situations in the Park Stakes may go to Uralak, Vif, and Tympano; Blueberry, Haze, and Fugue may claim the attention of the judge as named in the Canterbury Handicap; and Guncar, Wild West, and Miss Mooltan may pass the post in order in the Welter Handicap.

The liberally-subsidised programme drafted for the Cup meeting of the Maitland Jockey Club at Rutherford on the 14th inst. needs attention on Monday next, and up to 9 p.m. the secretary, Mr. Allan Anderson, Maitland, invites entries, which will also be received up to the same hour by Mr. Edwin Woodbury, at the office of the Wyong Park Racing Club, Castlereagh-street. The prize money aggregates 437 sovs, of which 150 sovs endows the Maitland Cup, 100 sovs the Opening Handicap, and 80 sovs, the Final Handicap. The extension of the railway to the Rutherford racecourse, and which will be brought into use for the first time at the coming meeting, will enable visitors from Sydney to make the trip on the same day, arriving at Central Railway Station at 10.45 p.m. The track is reported to be in good order for the reunion, which promises to be most successful.

The gates at Kensington will be thrown open this afternoon, when pony and galloway racing will be the attraction, and the bill of fare to be discussed should be responsible for exciting sport. The track is excellent going, and visitors can reach the scene of operations by special and ordinary trams landing them at the racecourse gates. The first race is timed to start at 2 p.m., and the results of the racing may be anticipated as under:—Maiden Handicap: First division, Rose Tuck or Hollette; second division, Strixia or Rose Colour. Up to 4 p.m. on Monday next Mr. A. H. Hart, secretary, invites nominations for the half-dozen events on the card for the Kembla Grange Racing Club's February reunion, on the 17th inst. The prize money totals 300 sovs, of which 60 sovs goes to the Newton Handicap, 50 sovs each to the Juvenile Handicap, Grange Stakes, Jumpers' Flat Race, and Lake Welter, and 40 sovs to the Maiden Handicap.

The February reunion of the Newcastle Jockey Club takes place this afternoon, on the well-appointed Broadmeadows racecourse, and a highly interesting programme promises to furnish exciting sport. Metropolitan sportsmen can reach the rendezvous by the trains bound north from the Central Railway Station at 6.45, 8.15, and 9.15 a.m.; and a special tram service runs between the Newcastle Railway Station and the race course. The first race starts at 2 p.m., and metropolitan visitors can make the return trip in good time.

The Bega Jockey Club has provided £132 prize-money for the half-dozen events on the programme for its autumn meeting on March 6, and the best-endowed event is the Autumn Handicap of £35.

The blood stallion Murillo (imp.), by Velasquez from Balsam, has been sold, through the agency of Mr. A. J. Morton, to Mr. H. A. Taylor, of Wellington, for 1500gns. Mr. Taylor, who also owns Fortunatus (imp.), can be congratulated upon having two such successful and well-known sires.

In connection with next Tuesday's race meeting of the Wollongong Turf Club, an alteration has been made in the railway time-table. The return train for horses from Wollongong that used to start at 6.20 p.m. will in future leave at 6.30 p.m., but the special will be increased so as to reach Sydney as heretofore.

In addition to the annual sale of thoroughbred yearlings at the Newmarket stables, Randwick, during the currency of the A.J.C. autumn meeting, Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son will hold their annual sale of bloodstock on the Monday (April 20) after the meeting. The stock to be paraded include stallions, brood mares, untried stock, and racehorses in training. Intending vendors should send in particulars of stock at an early date so as to facilitate the issue of catalogue.

Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son announce that they have for private sale the imported stallion Bachelor's Ball, by Bachelor's Button, from Dame Agneta, by Cabin Boy, and who can be inspected at T. Payten's Newmarket stables, Randwick.

Links, the president of the local jockey club, was met by members of the club and representatives of the North and North-western Pony Association, and the local pony clubs, and presented with a gold stop-watch in recognition of his services as secretary and president.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that a conference will be held at the V.R.C. office on Monday afternoon, between the V.R.C. committee and representatives of the other metropolitan race clubs, to select a stipendiary steward in the place of Mr. S. The Australian cricketers commenced a match to-day against Auckland. The wicket was good, and the attendance fair. Auckland won the toss, and went in first, and scored 251. Hemus played beautiful cricket, and the remaining batsmen gave a fair display.

When stumps were drawn the tourists had scored 34 runs for no wicket—C. E. Dolling 9, C. M'Kenzie 20. The principal scores on the local side were:—Hemus, 112; Smith, 30; M'Cormick, no out, 28; Tattersall, 22.

SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

PADDON BOOKED FOR ENGLAND.

Messrs. George Seifert, James Paddon, and Sydney Kemp are booked to leave for London by the P. and O. R.M.S. Mooltan on May 2, having in view the race with Ernest Barry for the sculling championship of the world, to be rowed on the Thames championship course about September next. Mr. Seifert has subscribed very liberally to Paddon's stake and expenses, and will defray his own expenses.

Sid Kemp has been chosen to act as trainer and rowing companion, and as he is a rower of considerable experience, brought up under the clever tuition of his father, Peter Kemp, ex-champion, he can be relied upon to fill the position allotted to him with credit to himself, and the benefit of the truly representative sculler. The good sportsmen on the Northern rivers have promised to contribute about £300 towards stake and expenses, but it will still be necessary to collect a sum of about £300, as Barry, it is understood, is not prepared to allow any sum for expenses. James Paddon is expected to spend a few days in Sydney at an early date, and it is proposed that prospective backers and supporters should meet him to consider the financial outlook.

AQUATICS.

HENLEY-ON-LANE COVE.

The fifth annual regatta and Venetian carnival of the residents on the Lane Cove River takes place to-day. The programme provides great variety. There are rowing and sailing events, for both ladies and gentlemen, and power-boat racing. The principal rowing event is for all-comers in outriggers, for which 13 entries have been received. There is also a race for members of the Pioneer Ladies' Club. Much interest centres in the race for the championship of the river in Gladstone skiffs. Other events are:—Single and double sculls for residents, youth under 18 years, service whalers, Tingira boys, and two motor boat events.

In the evening the Venetian carnival takes place. The enthusiasts who have the matter in hand are working towards an eclipse of all previous efforts. A prize is offered for the best decorated residence, and competition will be very keen. There will be hundreds of decorated and illuminated craft, and at 9 o'clock there will be a grand parade past the flagship, from which the prize winners will be selected. Everything points to a most successful function.

SWIMMING.

MANLY CLUB'S GALA.

Manly club will hold its annual carnival this afternoon at the local baths, and the function promises to excel in point of success any of the previous gatherings held by the club. The star attraction is the 500 yards teams' championship of the northern suburbs clubs. Manly and North Sydney are expected to provide a very even and exciting race. Both clubs entered in the State championship when Manly club beat North Sydney by a small margin for second place. Since then the Shoremen have been strengthened by the inclusion of Marks, while Manly's team contains some promising men who should swim better than at the previous meeting of the two clubs. A 200 yards special handicap has attracted Harold Hardwick from retirement, and Albert Barry is also billed to attempt the 50 yards record. Displays of high diving, novelties, and handicaps, complete a very attractive programme.

LEICHHARDT LEAGUE OF SWIMMERS.

The above club will hold their third annual championship carnival at the Municipal baths, Leichhardt Park, on Tuesday evening, February 10, at 7.45. A fine programme has been arranged, and some excellent contests are promised. BOXING.

McGOORTY v BRADLEY.

Eddie McGoorty, middleweight champion of the world, will be opposed by Pat. Bradley at the Stadium to-night. Bradley has only once been beaten in Australia, by Dave Smith, and though Smith himself was beaten quickly enough by McGoorty, it does not follow that a tough, cool customer like Bradley will not do better. Bradley has never yet been stopped, and he is one of the hardest hitters in the game. He has not hitherto shown himself to be quite of the same class as McGoorty or Smith, but at the same time his style is likely to prove troublesome to the champion, and if McGoorty starts mixing matters anything may happen. A preliminary will be provided at 8 p.m. by Will Sayers and Stan Campion.

OLYMPIA A.C.

At the Olympia A.C., Newtown, a programme of five contests, ranging from six to ten rounds, will be staged to-night as follows:—Heavyweights: Sid Nielson v Sid Fitzsimmons. Middleweights: Les. Widders v Otto Frost. Lightweights: Peter Depena v Joe Conroy, and Jim Parry v Snowy Ross. Featherweights: Theo. Burns v Sailor Duffy.

JEFF SMITH'S ENGAGEMENT.

Jeff Smith, acting on Dr. Cedric Bowker's advice, will not meet Dave Smith on February 21, owing to the injury to his hand not having mended as quickly as was hoped. Smith may now meet McGoorty instead of Dave Smith for his first contest, which will be either the first or second week in March. Jeff did injured one of his hands during his contest with Carpentier.

McGOORTY v JEROME.

Jerry Jerome, the aborigine, has been matched to box Eddie McGoorty on March 14. Jerome is undergoing a thorough course of training, and on his best form should provide an interesting contest with the champion.

AMUSEMENTS.

MR. WALLER'S FAREWELL NIGHTS.

Mr. Lewis Waller will make the first of five farewell appearances at the Theatre Royal this evening in "A Royal Rival," a drama adapted from the French by Gerald Du Maurier, and now produced for the first time in Sydney. In the new play Mr. Lewis Waller will appear as Don Caesar De Bazan, with Miss Titheradge as Maritha. The support will include Mr. Charles Quartermaine as the King of Spain, Mr. Frank Woolfe as Don Jose de Santarem, Mr. Alec F. Thompson as the Marquis of Montefiore, Mr. Halliwell Hobbes as Captain of the Guard, Miss Marianne Caldwell as the Marchioness. Some reference to Mr. Waller's future movements will be found in our Music and Drama column.

JULIUS KNIGHT IN "DIPLOMACY."

Sardou's famous play, "Diplomacy" (known in the original French as "Dora") will be reproduced after a long interval of years at the Theatre Royal next Saturday, when Mr. Julius Knight will appear for the first time as Henry Beauclerc. Sardou's drama is just now one of the reigning attractions in London, where it has been running since last March, the revival being due to Sir Squire Bancroft's suggestion to Mr. Gerald Du Maurier that as twenty years had passed since the piece was acted in the West End, there was a new generation of playgoers awaiting it. Mr. George Pleydell was called upon to modernise the play, and his version has now been secured by J. C. Williamson, Limited. Originally "Diplomacy" was produced by the Bancrofts in 1878 at the old Prince of Wales's Theatre, and was brilliantly reproduced at the Haymarket in 1884. Finally, Sir John Hare drew large audiences with it at the Garrick in 1893. The late Clement Scott in "The Drama of Yesterday and To-day" gives a lengthy account of how he saw "Dora" in Paris with Bancroft and B. C. Stephenson, and realised that there was a little fortune in it. "I did all the writing, Bancroft did all the editing, act by act and scene by scene, in consultation with his brilliant and clever wife, and Stephenson helped the scheme with his Treasury and Foreign Office experiences." This is very characteristic; but the fact remains that Sardou wrote the play, and that the alterations in the various English versions are not of vital importance. In the present revival of this emotional and exciting comedy Miss Grace Noble will appear as Dora, Miss Irene Browne as Comtesse Zicka, and Mr. Martin Lewis as Julian Beauclerc. Mrs. Brough, Miss Emma Temple, Messrs. Leslie Victor and Arthur Greenaway, will be in the cast. All plan arrangements are duly notified.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

At Her Majesty's Theatre "Come Over Here" will enter this evening upon the eighth week of its prosperous run, due to a number of picturesque features, including the panoramic history of Circular Quay, the brilliant Soldiers' March, the Mystery of the Ladies of the Lake, the Flowers of Allah Ballet, the Spider's Web dance, the sensational Train v Motor race, and the dazzling Wedding Glide. Messrs. Jack Cannot, Leslie Holland, Fred. Leslie, Bantock, Sherras, Misses Olive Godwin, Ivy Schilling, and other favourite artists are in the cast. There will be a matinee on Wednesday.

Miss Daisy Jerome, who has been absent from the Revue throughout the week, will make a welcome reappearance to-night.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Officer 666" is another piece which is enjoying sustained popularity, and crowded houses are the rule at the Criterion Theatre. The novel idea of an absentee millionaire who returns to his mansion in New York to find it occupied by a "swell mobsman" who has appropriated his name, and on the strength of it has made love to a pretty heiress, is most amusingly developed, so that the central situation is that of a police-drama. Mr. Fred. Niblo, Mr. Sydney Stirling, and Miss Josephine Cohan play the central characters, with Mr. Robert Greig in the name-part.

LITTLE THEATRE.

At the Little Theatre, where Thursday is the matinee day instead of Wednesday, "His House in Order" is attracting large audiences. Mr. Hugh Buckler appears as the wise adviser of the persecuted and misunderstood wife (Miss Violet Paget), to whom Fate suddenly affords the means of a tremendous victory over her priggish husband, and his sanctimonious family. In the beautiful scene of the comedy, Pinero shows the uses to which she turns the triumph of her life.

On Monday evening some of the leading medical practitioners and the nurses from private and public hospitals will be the guests of the management. The visitors will be further entertained with tea and coffee in the lounge and on the stage, and there will be a brief programme of music.

PALACE THEATRE.

This afternoon at 2 there will be a matinee of "The Grafters" at the Palace Theatre. This laughable piece is being presented under Mr. William Anderson's management by the American Musical Burlesque Company. Messrs. Eugene Le Blanc, Paul Stanhope, and Dave Nowlin figure as the three tramps intent upon laying plausible hands upon the property of one Watts, deceased. Roars of laughter attend their misguided efforts, which are interrupted by a succession of songs, ballets, tango dances, and choruses. "The Speculators" will be staged next Saturday.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

This afternoon and next Wednesday's matinee will form the last two day performances of the popular Adelphi pantomime "Aladdin," when children under the half-price tariff will be presented with toys as mementos of Mr. George Willoughby's first Christmas extravaganza. Beautiful painted scenery, the wrestling ponies, the "Jag on Wheels," the sensational Rag-time Revue, and a smart Demon Act, are the special features in "Aladdin," as interpreted by Carrie Moore, Grace Palotta, Mabel Batchelor, Percy Clifton, and other well-known artists.

AID TO MOTHERS AND BABIES.

An elaborate matinee entertainment is being organised at Her Majesty's Theatre, lent free by J. C. Williamson, Ltd., in aid of the Royal Hospital for Women, and the Renwick Hospital for Infants, and will take place on Friday, February 20. Next Friday, between 1 and 2 o'clock, Mr. Jack Cannot will conduct an auction sale of some of the seats, but the great majority will be available to the public at ordinary prices. A comprehensive group of leading artists is assisting in this charitable movement, under Mr. Neville Mayman, and a committee representing the Benevolent Society, towards raising £12,000 for the institutions in question.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

The Fuller-Brennan vaudeville management notifies their £1000 programme for this afternoon and evening, introducing Henry Kubelick, wireless violin virtuoso; the Aerial Bartletts; Le Witte, Protean impersonations; Bevan and Flint in musical comedy; the Five Juggling Normans; Captain Brunswick and Company in a western cowboy sketch; Biff and De Armo, American knock-about acrobats; the Greater City Four, New York ragtimers; Dupre Brothers' musical act; Dare Norwood, athletes from the Orpheum Circuit; Elfie Fay, the girl with the wobbly face," and Jessie and Dollie Millar.

TOWN HALL ORGAN RECITAL.

The city organist will give an organ recital at the Town Hall this evening, which he will open with the tragic and beautiful third part of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." Mr. Ernest Truman will also play Bach's Fugue in D, Chopin's Berceuse in D flat, Mailly's Marche Solennelle in C, and the Adagio from Bruch's Concerto. The whole forms a particularly attractive programme of tuneful music.

SYDNEY CONSERVATORIUM.

At a meeting, held on Tuesday last, the council unanimously awarded the Conservatorium Silver Medal (1913) for pianoforte to Miss Connie Stuart, the similar medal for singing to Miss Charlotte Katie Rae, and the violin scholarship (1914) to Miss Una Black. The next conservatorium students' evening will be the 20th, and will be given towards the end of March.

FRL. JENSEN'S ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

An enjoyable vocal and orchestral programme was presented by the students from Fraulein Jensen's Academy of Music at Paling's concert hall last Wednesday evening, when Miss Violet Bishop, Mrs. J. Simmonds, Messrs. F. Willis and Arnold Robinson were heard to advantage in songs; whilst Schubert's "Serenade" for violin, by Mrs. W. B. Long, and Weber's "The Storm" for piano, by Master Shakespeare Jenson, were also appreciated. Mention should be made of Miss Stella Taylor (mandoline), Miss Elsie Titchen (piano), Mr. Arthur Smith (cornet), and Miss Norma M'Kittrick (violin).

ALLEGED ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

Before Mr. Payten, S.M., at the Glebe Court, yesterday, Peter John Mellrose, was charged with assaulting Minnie Fitzgerald and robbing her of a handbag containing 4s and certain articles, of a total value of 7s 6d.

Constable James Scott stated that shortly after midnight on the 1st inst., he was on duty in George-street West. He saw the accused push the prosetrix, who fell on to the ground. Accused snatched her handbag and ran away.

Accused was committed for trial, bail being allowed, self in £60, and two sureties in £30 each, or one in £60.

"THE TOREADOR."

This evening the Railway and Tramway Musical Society will close their season at the Railway Institute with a final performance of the popular musical comedy, "The Toreador," when Mr. Leo. Grouse will conduct, Mrs. Arthur Hunter will direct the stage, and Misses Ethel Lack, Hilda Trenbath, Messrs. Harry Perfect, and Tom Dugmore will be included in the cast.

THE WHITE CITY.

The popularity of the White City remains unabated. Recently a considerable addition has been made to the already large number of free shows, in the turn given by the great Calvert, an American aerial artist. Calvert performs his feats on a wire cable erected 60ft above the ground, at which height and with perfect ease he dances a cakewalk, impersonates a drunken man, and incidentally does a little sword manipulating. Other attractions are the turns provided by Gardner's Maniac Bulldogs, the exhibition of ju-jitsu by W. A. Hill and Miss Edna Davis, and the promenade concerts of the White City Military Band. The White City will be open to-day from 2 to 11 p.m.

ACTORS' DAY.

Further progress was made yesterday in the arrangement of the programme to be presented at the theatrical carnival to take place on Monday, February 16, at the White City, in aid of the funds of the benevolent and pension funds of the Actors' Association of Australia. The new items include a display of boxing given by Fred Leslie, the dancing comedian, and Harry Stone, the American lightweight. Bert La Blanc, Paul Stanhope, and other members of the American Burlesque Company, will appear in a sketch, "A Country Grocery Store." Mr. Frank Dix has written a "Richardson Show," and will personally produce it. In this burlesque on melodrama the players will include Eddie Noble, Arthur Styan, Harry Sweeney, Mrs. George Lauri, Walter Bentley, Alfred Bristowe, Sydney Stirling, and W. Lockhart. Fred Leslie will introduce his skit, "The Tango Tea," and will also control the midget theatre. It is anticipated that much revenue will be raised by Mr. Monte Luke, who, for a small charge, will photograph anyone with any actor or actress the sitter may desire to be taken with. In addition, the artist so chosen will autograph the picture. Mr. Fred Leslie and Mr. Leslie Holland will go on "The Nigger Dip."

LAWRENCE CAMPBELL STUDENTS.

The students of the Lawrence Campbell School of Public Speaking and Dramatic Art will give their first elocutionary recital of the year in St. James's Hall on Wednesday, March 11, when new monologues, recitations, and dramatic sketches will be introduced.

THE KENNEDYS.

The Kennedys, a noted family of Sydney musicians, who have recently returned from London, proceed to New Zealand to-day by the Maunganui on an extended tour of the Dominion, taking with them two Sydney singers, Miss Dorothy Grace, soprano; and Miss Rosie Fitzgerald, contralto.

SPENCER'S LYCEUM.

This afternoon at the Lyceum Theatre the Spencer management will afford Australians the opportunity of witnessing the famous English actor, Mr. Charles Hawtrey, in his original personation of Horace Parker in "A Message from Mars." Richard Ganthony's appealing story of the messenger's noble mission to earth, to save an unhappy mortal, to whom riches only brought selfishness and avarice. How the Martian succeeded is told with absolute fidelity to the text, and many of the scenes which had necessarily to be presented in a cramped form upon the stage are greatly elaborated in the limitless scope open to the camera. The performance of Mr. Charles Hawtrey, according to English press notices, proves his ready adaptability to the new art, and shows that it is possible to portray in dumb show the theme of a stage play with equal power and conviction. The box plans are at Paling's.

WEST'S PICTURES.

This week West's Glaciarium and Olympia have been attracting big audiences with the fine Pathe production entitled "The Stolen Child." On Monday night a special feature film, to be shown at both houses will be "A Prisoner of the Harem," in which the Countess de Marsini plays the leading role. This noblewoman, after an unhappy marriage, undertook the work of training animals, the inspiration for which she got at an African hunt. She has had a thrilling career, having twice been clawed by a tiger. Her rich raven hair covers a scar on her forehead. Another scar under her left jaw bears testimony to her redoubtable and almost masculine courage. In addition to the star feature, there will be a varied programme of the latest films from the European markets.

THE PICTURE BLOCK THEATRES.

At the Crystal Palace Theatre on Monday the feature drama will be "Robin Hood," a story of the most exciting episodes in the career of Robin Hood, whose fierce fights for the liberty of the down-trodden Saxons, and whose many daring exploits give a wide scope for the powerful company of Thanhouser American actors, who were entrusted with the production. The Lyric Theatre will screen a drama entitled "Dynamite," the tale of an explosive ten times as powerful as dynamite. The feature drama at the Colonial Theatre will be "An Unseen Terror," a story based on the fact that a criminal will, sooner or later, return to the scene of his crime. At the Empress Theatre the star film will be "The Trap," in which a plausible villain tries to wed a beautiful girl by stealing valuable documents.

There is an excellent programme showing at present at the American Picture Palace, opposite the Criterion Theatre. The feature film is an interesting and fascinating drama, entitled "The Right of Way." Another item of interest on the programme is a drama, "The Heiress."

BEAUTIFUL JAVA.

A number of people were invited to the Lyceum Theatre yesterday afternoon to witness a private display of some films illustrating a trip to Java, taken by Mr. J. F. Hurley (photographer to Dr. Mawson's Antarctic Expedition) for the Royal Packet S.N. Company, on the occasion of the Tasman's first trip. The films included views of Port Moresby, various places in and around Batavia and Macassar. Of especial interest were the views of Papandajan volcano, the boiling mud lakes, and the active crater of the Batok and Sweroe volcanoes. The display was enjoyed by the audience.

"THE DANDIES" AT MANLY.

The Dandies, at Eden Gardens, Manly, continue to draw large audiences. The Tango dance, by Marguerite Leroy and Sydney Carlton, has proved a huge success.

BALLOON ASCENT.

Steamers will run to-morrow from No. 4 Jetty, Circular Quay to Clifton Gardens, where Captain Penfold will make a balloon ascent.

HEAT WAVE.

RACECOURSE PLUNGED IN DARKNESS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Melbourne experienced a heat wave to-day, and a temperature of 104.6 in the shade was registered. In country districts even higher temperatures were recorded. At Jeparit the thermometer registered 109 degrees. At Woomelang there were severe gales, accompanied by dense clouds of dust. The annual meeting of the Woomelang Race Club was being held, and when two races remained to be run the police ordered a discontinuance of racing, as, although the sun was high, it was too dark to see the course. The Welter Race was run practically in the dark, and the spectators did not know which horses had started until they passed the winning post. The other races were postponed until to-morrow.

THE BUTCHERS.

WORK MAY CEASE ON MONDAY.

A DEADLOCK.

The demands made by the butchers' shopmen, members of the Australasian Meat Industry Employees' Union, came like a bombshell on the trade, the employers being taken completely by surprise. On Thursday the men gave in notices to their employers that, after to-day, they would work only upon the conditions set out in the resolution agreed to at Wednesday night's mass meeting—a week of 48 hours and an advance of 10s in pay throughout the metropolitan area.

A conference was held yesterday before the Industrial Commissioner, Mr. J. B. Holme. There were present Mr. C. Harford, president of the Master Retail Butchers' Association and other members of that body, representatives of the city butchering establishments, and the secretary of the union, Mr. T. W. Furse. No settlement was effected.

Mr. Furse stated last night that unless some arrangement could be come to meanwhile, there would be little or no work done on Monday. He admitted that serious inconvenience to the public might be caused by the cutting off of the meat supply, but he stated that it was in the power of the employers to save this situation. The men were asking only for what they believed to be fair and reasonable.

SYMPATHY STRIKE.

Reports from Otira state that as the result of a runaway truck doing a hundred pounds worth of damage, two men were discharged, and as a result the men at the Otira end of the tunnel struck.

SCHOOL GIRL KILLED.

A DISASTROUS STORM.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A severe thunderstorm, accompanied by lightning, passed over Geelong this afternoon. Its effects were worst at Gheringhap, where a schoolgirl was killed, and her sister injured.

Two children—May, aged 9, and Nellie, aged 7, only daughters of Mr. Thomas Lockie, farmer—were returning from school, and were about 200 yards past Gheringhap railway station, when a porter heard their screams. Thinking they were afraid, he ran to their assistance, and Nellie sobbed that her sister was killed. The injured child was removed to the station, also the body of May, who received shocking injuries, and was killed instantly. She was wearing a metal chain round her neck. Where the children fell is an open paddock, with no trees.

FAREWELL.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER'S MESSAGE.

Mr. T. R. Johnson, Chief Railway Commissioner, who leaves for London to-day, has issued the following farewell message to the members of the railway service:—

"In leaving the State of New South Wales, I desire to say farewell to all the members of the staff of the railways and tramways.

"A great service is made up of individuals, and it is the earnest discharge of duty by the individual which counts. I cherish the hope, therefore, that it will be the aim of every member of the staff, from the highest to the lowest, to so discharge his duty as to promote the welfare of the great service to which he belongs.

"Farewell, and good-bye.

"(Signed) T. R. JOHNSON,
"Chief Commissioner."

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The leader and lieutenant of a gang of South Broken Hill roughs known as the "Blind Forty," were charged to-day with behaving offensively in South Broken Hill, obstructing the footpath, etc. The leader (Paull) was fined £5 and costs, and ordered to find sureties to be of good behaviour for 12 months. The other (Pollard) was fined 40s and costs.

NO PENSIONS FOR JUDGES.

A CONFERENCE PROPOSAL.

The fourteenth session of the P.L.L. Conference was held last night at Macdonell House, under the presidency of Mr. R. D. Meagher, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. This was the first occasion on which Mr. Meagher had occupied the chair of a P.L.L. Conference.

This was also the first occasion during the conference in which the resolution stipulating that 100 delegates must be present before matters affecting the platform of the party could be dealt with was put into effect. Several divisions during the session showed that there were not 100 delegates in attendance at any stage of the proceedings. This fact brought from Mr. Steyne, of the Hotel, Club, Caterers, and Restaurant Employees' Union, a protest, after a decision affirming the desirability of women being appointed to the Upper House had been arrived at. Mr. Steyne said conference proceedings were rapidly descending to the farcical, and action should be taken to prevent the adoption of such important motions unless there were at least sufficient delegates present to render them effective. Mr. Steyne, however, was ruled out of order.

BUSINESS PURCHASES.

Mr. Bramston (Pyrmont) secured the suspension of the standing orders to move:—"That, to preserve the integrity of the Labour movement, no Minister of the Crown be permitted to purchase, on behalf of the State, any trading business of over £20,000 in value, unless the proposal has been before the Public Works Committee for report, or approved by the Labour caucus."

The mover said there was no denying the fact that there had been a tendency of late to ignore the Public Works Committee, particularly by the Minister for Works. On several occasions much more than £30,000 of the public money had been spent without adequate warrant. The argument that the ventures had been a success, he said, did not affect the question, even if it were true. There must be more restraint upon Ministers in this direction.

Mr. Stuart Robertson, M.L.A., counselled conference not to adopt the motion. While the argument for its adoption might be perfectly sound, he submitted that it would at this stage lend colour to a good many sinister suggestions that had been made about transactions of the kind. That would not have the effect of preserving the integrity of the movement. He believed that quite sufficient restraint would be exercised in the future, and that therefore there was no need for the motion.

The motion was defeated by 40 votes to 34.

LET THE PREMIER ALONE.

The recent statements of the Premier, Mr. Holman, reported from New Zealand, that the Political Labour Conference was in danger of being dominated by paid servants, was alluded to.

Mr. Cullinane (A.W.U.) wanted the standing orders suspended, in order that the conference might deal with Mr. Holman for his remarks, but the motion was defeated without discussion, and the Premier escaped further criticism.

LAND TENURES.

Mr. J. N. Crowley (Wyalong) moved,—"That the land policy of the Labour party be reconsidered, with a view to formulating something that will be an effective safeguard against land monopoly, and at the same time be acceptable to landholders. Serious consideration to be given to the principle of optional tenure, combined with a strict limitation of holdings to a living area."

The Minister for Education, Mr. Carmichael, who was the only Minister present, took the point that the conference land policy had already been fully discussed and decided, on the land committee's report.

The chairman said the point was fatal, and ruled the motion out of order.

JUDGES' PENSIONS.

Mr. Hunt (Goulburn) moved,—"That pensions to Judges and others in high positions shall be abolished."

The conference, without discussion, carried the motion by 56 to 14.

There not being sufficient delegates to make the resolution a plank of the platform, it was referred to the executive for consideration.

FAIR RENTS BILL.

On the motion of Mr. R. J. Stuart-Robertson, M.L.A., the following committee was appointed to go into the details of the Fair Rents Bill, and to report to the conference on Monday night next:—Mesdames Dillon, Stewart, Miss Matthews, Major Chaseling, Messrs. A. C. Warton, Keegan, M.L.A., Hornblower, Bramston, and the mover.

QUINQUENNIAL PARLIAMENTS.

Mrs. Flanagan moved on behalf of the Women Workers' Union: "That the constitution be so amended to provide for Quinquennial Parliaments." The motion was defeated on the voices.

MINES INSPECTORS.

Mr. Jackson (Illawarra Miners) moved: That the inspectors for Coal Mines Regulation Act be recommended by the various miners' unions, said inspectors to be qualified men, and to be paid by the Government.—Carried.

Mr. Webster (Ashburnham) moved: "That any man holding a miner's right be permitted to enter Crown lands for prospecting purposes without unnecessary restrictions."—Carried.

On the motion of Mr. J. N. Crowley (Wyalong) the conference decided: "That at least three passes in coal mines and the necessary passes in metalliferous mines be kept open in all mines in the State."

Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald moved: "That a deputation be appointed to wait upon the Minister for Mines to bring the conference decision under his notice." Messrs. Estell (Minister for Labour and Industry), Fern and Kearsley, Ms.L.A., Davis (secretary A.M.A.), J. N. Crowley, Jackson, and Willis were appointed to the deputation.

IRONWORKS.

MESSRS. HOSKINS'S OFFER.

LITHGOW, Friday.

Mr. C. H. Hoskins was asked if he cared to make any statement regarding the offer of the firm to sell their works to the Government. Mr. Hoskins said the offer was made to Mr. Holman, and he did not think anything would be done until the return of the Premier from New Zealand.

Hope is generally expressed here that the Government will see fit to accept Messrs. Hoskins's offer, which is regarded favourably, as providing a means whereby the iron and steel industry may be placed on an enduring basis without appreciable cost to the State.

SUNDAY TRAMS.

The Evangelical Council of New South Wales has forwarded a protest to the Minister for Railways in regard to the running of trams during church hours on Sunday evenings. It is pointed out that the running of the trams is a violation of the rights of those who worship in the churches. The council regards the growing secularisation of the Sabbath as a grave menace to the community, and expresses the opinion that the Government should discourage all movements that tend to break down the sacred character of the day.

CHEAPER CABLES.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

The Postmaster-General (Mr. Rhodes) agrees with the Imperial Trade Commission's opinion in urging the reduction of cable rates where possible. This opinion is founded on the popularity already achieved with week-end cables.

SYDNEY'S OLD WATER SUPPLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of January 30 a reference was made to an official handbook issued by the Water and Sewerage Board. I would just like to add to that portion which refers to the way the people of Sydney were supplied by Busby's bore.

It is stated that the water was carried across the park to a spot near Market-street and Elizabeth-street, where a stand-pipe was erected, from which the citizens obtained their supply by carts and buckets.

I well remember in the early 'Fifties a number of public pumps were in existence, one at what is known as Oxford-square, one at corner Liverpool and Kent streets, one at the Haymarket, one at top of Erskine-street, and one at the Queen's Wharf, the latter I am not quite sure as to the source of supply, but the others I have no doubt about. Until recently an old man was about the streets of Sydney, who, in the days referred to above, earned his living carrying water to the people at 1d per bucket, but latterly, he having gone blind, used to supply the cabmen with candles, and, be it to the credit of those men, they stuck to poor old "Paddy the Ram" to the last. I am, etc.,

WM. TAYLOR.

BY CONTRACT.

EAST-WEST RAILWAY.

MR. DEANE RESIGNS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Prime Minister to-day said that the sleeper contract, by which the Western Australian Government was to have supplied powellised karri sleepers for use on the permanent way, had been cancelled, and also that the line from Port Augusta to Kalgoorlie was to be completed by private contract.

A short Cabinet meeting was held to-day, and immediately it had closed the Prime Minister made the above announcement. He further said that Mr. Kelly had handed him a letter to-day from Mr. Henry Deane, Engineer-in-Chief of Commonwealth Railways, dated February 5, in the course of which he says: "My work during the past two years has been of a very strenuous character, and except for a few days at Christmas I have scarcely taken a holiday beyond the statutory ones. During the last six or eight months the strain has been excessive, so much so that there has been risk of a breakdown, and I have come to the conclusion that from considerations of health it is necessary that I should have some permanent relaxation from these most arduous duties. I should like, therefore, to be relieved under the arrangement recently made, by which three months' notice can be given on either side, and I shall be glad if steps can be taken without delay to select a successor to my office. I will willingly continue to exercise my duties till proper arrangements can be made for them to be taken over."

"I do not wish to say anything more at this stage," continued Mr. Cook, "than that I regret the step that Mr. Deane feels it necessary to take, and that immediate steps are being taken to give effect to Mr. Deane's wishes. The Government is under many obligations to him for his laborious efforts during his exercise of the big responsibilities attached to his position, and for his consideration in offering to continue under difficult circumstances to carry on his duties until proper arrangements can be made for the future transaction. Applications will very shortly be invited for the position of engineer-in-chief at a salary which we hope will give us the best man available, whose duties will cover all Commonwealth railway projects. Amongst the latest of Mr. Deane's labours has been the preparation of specifications for the completion of the Kalgoorlie-Port Augusta line by contract.

"It is anticipated that the building of the line by contract will effect economies in money and time, for the excellent track-laying plant ordered under Mr. Deane's advice should, when the powerful engines under order are provided, be capable of such speedy track-laying that the track should be completed at an earlier date than the date of the final delivery of the sleepers under Mr. O'[illegible] now cancelled agreement."

THE B.M.A.

MINERS WANT IMPORTED DOCTORS.

MR. CANN'S REFUSAL.

About three weeks ago a deputation representing the miners' lodges of Newcastle and district waited upon the Premier to see if something could not be done to settle the differences between the miners' lodges and the association. A conference was arranged, and it appeared at the time as if the trouble would be satisfactorily adjusted. Another hitch has occurred, however, and this has resulted in the Newcastle branch of the B.M.A. breaking off negotiations with the lodges. The matter was discussed yesterday with the Acting-Premier by a deputation, consisting of Messrs. John Bowen, A. Watson, and A. Lowbridge.

Mr. Bowen gave a short recital of facts in connection with the relations existing between the doctors and the lodges. In the present dispute between 30,000 and 35,000 people were concerned. It was astounding to think that one organisation could inconvenience all the members of a community. "They say they are a trades union," concluded Mr. Bowen. "What I want to know, and I expect an answer to this, is the B.M.A. a trades union, and are they registered as such? The trouble which has now arisen is owing to the Lambton people negotiating with an outside doctor. It is an unfair thing for the association to take advantage of that action to jeopardise the health of the community."

Mr. Bowen said that it was "up to" the Government to provide doctors, so that the people should be better looked after. With the doctors in a combine it was difficult to find men outside.

Mr. Cann: That is just the difficulty. How are you to get over it?

Mr. Bowen: Is not the Government in a position to bring out 25 doctors as immigrants from England as they have done with other callings?

Mr. Cann said that this might satisfy Newcastle, but would not solve the problem as a whole.

Mr. A. Watson complained that the agreement come to with regard to the conference had been broken by the B.M.A. members in the Newcastle district, who had immediately put the rates up on people outside the mines. Further than that, certain people who had taken an active part against the doctors had had their cheques returned, though they paid the increased rates, and had been told that they would be only treated on a private basis in future. The Newcastle doctors had no authority to make their increases when they did, and their action forced people to advertise for doctors. All the Lambton people had done was to consider an application that had been received in response to an advertisement. They had made no appointment. The mining community considered they were being imposed upon because 33s 6d per year per head was paid for medical attendance, and in addition the district supported a hospital, to which £5000 was contributed last year. Now the B.M.A. was asking £2 2s 2d instead of 33s 6d, but as far as the mining districts were concerned this would not be paid. "If the Government cannot assist us," Mr. Watson added, "we will just have to wait till the time comes, and we can get someone who will assist us." The deputation thought the B.M.A. should at any rate be asked why the increased rates should be paid. If the miners asked for a penny per ton increase of hewing rates they would have to do so in a constitutional manner.

Mr. Cann: How would you bring about a tribunal to find out the merits or demerits of the doctors' demands?

Mr. Watson: What about something on the lines of a wages board? The doctors had stated that the people are their employers, but the people can do nothing with them, because of the combine.

Mr. Cann: We cannot stop doctors from combining, if we allow them the same liberty as we allow ourselves.

The Minister added that when it was talked of getting other doctors they must remember that doctors could not be turned out like sausages at a butcher's shop. Their training was a lengthy one.

Mr. Watson: Should doctors be allowed to raise prices on the community without some Government intervention? The Government, he added, might appoint doctors in towns where there was insufficient medical attendance.

Mr. Cann: I am afraid it is too big an undertaking at present for us to provide every township with a doctor.

Mr. A. Lowbridge said there was no agreement or proviso to prevent any section of the community from negotiating with an outside doctor prior to the conference.

Mr. Cann: Briefly put, what you ask us to do is to import about 25 or more blacklegs and employ them.

Mr. Bower: We say the doctors are not a trades union.

Mr. Cann: Nearly all the doctors in the State are members of the association, and I can tell you this that I do not feel inclined to take any action without consulting my colleagues. If we did what you desire we would probably have to take the same action with regard to Broken Hill, Cobar, and other places.

Mr. Watson: We want doctors regardless of what association they belong to. The Government must make a move to appoint doctors.

Mr. Cann: I cannot pledge the Government to import any doctors. I think something could be done if you would meet the B.M.A. and confer, but you tell me you cannot do that. That is the most sensible way out of the trouble. As it is I cannot give you any hope that the Government will import any doctors.

DALY RIVER SETTLEMENT.

DARWIN, Friday.

A man named Little, who has been at work on the Government Demonstration Farm, Daly River, since July last, arrived in Darwin by Thursday's train. He gives a most pessimistic account of settlement on that river, and states that on the demonstration farm the only thing planted is about five acres of cow peas, designed to provide food for pigs. About 1000 acres is well fenced. The demonstration farm employs a foreman, experimentalists, six white labourers, and 10 aboriginals.

"MORE, PLEASE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your list of pieces of Moore Park gone already, have you not forgotten the Zoological Gardens, about 5 acres (never, perhaps, to be restored again to the park)? The tram lines from the junction of Cleveland-street running along the west side of Randwick-road to the racecourse; Dacey-avenue (a road from Dowling-street to Randwick-road, through the park); the dogs' home (on east side of Dowling-street, near the destructor); the electric poles right through the park to Kensington, and Bunnerong-road; the band stand at the northern end of the park; the ranger's house and ground, about an acre at the junction of Cleveland-street and Randwick-road; Gregory's-avenue (from Randwick-road to the Cricket Ground); all the land occupied by the Tramway Commissioners, from the northern end of the park on its east side, past the Cricket Ground and the Royal Agricultural Society, through the park to the Zoo corner; the tram lines through the park from Flinders-street to the racecourse, on the east side of Randwick-road, thence to Coogee; the small house at the corner of Cleveland and Dowling streets; the street from just beyond the western end of Dacey's-avenue to the high and back portion of Kensington properties; and the golf links fences round the holes on the park. I am, etc., G.H.G.

The thoroughfares of Leeds having gone unscavenged for 10 days owing to the strike, the Citizen's League resolved to do the work. Among the workers were a clergyman of the Church of England, a well-known architect, and other prominent citizens. Some of the workers drove up to the meeting place in their own motor cars.

JOURNALISM.

PROFESSOR WILLIAMS'S IDEALS.

ETHICS OF THE PROFESSION.

THE WORLD'S PEACE.

An interesting address on the ethics of journalism was delivered yesterday by Professor Walter Williams, of the School of Journalism, Missouri, U.S.A.

The occasion was a luncheon at Farmer's, tendered to Professor Williams by the New South Wales Institute of Journalists. There was a large attendance of members and visitors, those present including Mr. Trefle, Minister for Lands; Mr. Henry Gullett, M.L.C.; Mr. F. Govers, Acting Director of Immigration; and Mrs. J. T. Knight, of the London Society of Women Journalists.

The president of the Institute of Journalists, Mr. T. W. Heney, presided, and, after the loyal toast, submitted the health of Professor Williams, an American journalist, he said, whom they were glad to honour. Although the matter of the status of journalists had been under consideration in Australia, they were still in the old stage of journalism in which the men received no special preparation for the work. Professor Williams stood for the new order of things, in which the University trained the journalist for his work. Australian journalists would like to keep in touch with their visitor, for Professor Williams was making a study of the world's journalism, and they would await with interest the appearance of his volume. (Applause.)

Mr. Livingstone Hopkins, supporting the toast, said he was proud to acknowledge Professor Williams as a fellow-countryman.

OPEN PORTALS.

Professor Williams, who was cordially received, expressed his appreciation of the great hospitality shown him in Australia. He had entered the Commonwealth by the back door in the dark, at Darwin. He would go out to-morrow by the front door of Sydney, in broad daylight.

"Why have you any back doors in Australia?" he asked. "Why are there not many more open doors, other than the majestic harbour door of Sydney? (Hear, hear.)

"I came to study. I have been long enough here to write a book, but not long enough to have any opinions. (Laughter.) I have been interested mostly in Australian journalism. A country gets the journalism it deserves; usually a little better than it deserves. A country can be judged by its journalism. If I were to judge Australia by its journals, I should say it was an immense country with large areas needing some American irrigation expert. (Hear, hear.) Also, it is a serious country. If I had read all the leaders written I would know more about Australia, and I think you would if you did the same. (Laughter.) Journalism expresses a country to the people of that country, but it also expresses the country to the people outside. So I judge the problems of Australia by reading day after day and week after week what is said in the press. It seems to me that your problems concern themselves with more men and more money. (Hear, hear.) More capital and less labour. (Laughter.) You are trying to make a great country of this continent, and you are succeeding admirably through the splendid journalism, of which I give my deliberate opinion that there is no superior in quality, in its treatment of the world's news, and in high character and serious devotion to the public service. (Applause.)

YOUTHFUL AUSTRALIA.

"I have seen differences of opinion in Australia. You try to settle your land before you have quite settled yourselves. You are trying to do by experiment what other nations are doing by experience. (Hear, hear.)

"If Australia is to attract immigrants (can I do otherwise than talk about immigration?), it must be by making the people glad to live in Australia. The nation that makes a better nation than anywhere else, gives unto capital its just compensation, and to labour its due reward. (Applause.) Give every man a chance, and as far as lies in your power, an honest wage. Then a nation need not do more than send its journalism throughout the world to attract men to its borders. Then you will have in Australia that ideal place where each man is in his own home, living a useful, happy, and contended life in the service of the entire Commonwealth. Australian journalism thus has a larger duty than merely to Australia. (Hear, hear.)

PEACE ON EARTH.

"One of the greatest and wisest of British statesmen said: 'We owe allegiance, not only to our own country.' We should have that fine spirit, which hates war, because it is hideous and hellish, and also loves and seeks peace, not merely for our own selfish interests, but also because peace makes for the happiness of other peoples, in whose happiness we, as nations should be concerned, even as we as individuals are most happy in seeing the happiness of our friends. And the two nations which guard the peace of the new world that is in making just now are Australia and the United States. (Hear, hear.) And it is with the Australian and American press, linked together by sympathy and understanding, by knowledge and desire for public service, that will help to keep lasting and enduring, the world's peace. (Applause.) Even as the lifted hand of the London policeman in Fleet-street or the Strand stops the mad rush of traffic and commerce of the great metropolis, so, I say, will the lifted voice of the Australian and American press be the power to keep the highways of the Pacific free from the mad rush of strife, by creating a public sentiment more powerful than kings, or princes, or Labour League Conferences. It is your duty and mine to bring about the sympathy, the understanding by the interchange of ideas and ideals that will make for a peaceful world in which to live. There is more power in the continual work day by day of the press than in the battleship that may move in your majestic harbour, or the guns that crown your hills. (Applause.) Thus may you help to do away with the spirit of militarism and hasten the golden age, which is in the future and not in the past. (Applause.)

ETHICS OF A PROFESSION.

"Journalism as a profession of public service is in the last analysis an unregulated public utility, except here and there where it is hobbled and hand-cuffed by a libel law of the dark ages. It is the record the mirror, the interpreter to the public day by day. Some unfortunately are without high ideals, and have relegated this calling of ours to the rank of fakir and the shameless creature of the street. They are guttersnipers who disgrace the very name of journalism. It is our duty to seek to win them back with mild and gentle words, and if we fail scourge them with whips and cords from the temple of the profession. (Applause.) Journalism stands for public service at home and abroad. And so we should have that knowledge of the sympathy with the world that will bring about the best results. Should then the journalist not be a trained man?

A CALLING.

Some of us enter journalism through the typographical door, going through the ranks of printers. Others come in because they cannot stop out. And they stay in because they cannot get out without assistance. (Laughter.) But a journalist should not be born only, but made. (Hear, hear.) Without the natural aptitude he had better be a farmer or a draper, or——

A voice: "A politician."

Professor Williams: "No; I am speaking of honest folk. (Laughter). And a journalist should be a trained man, trained in history, in government, in the use of English, in psychology, in sociology, in languages, humanity, philosophy, and science. This is the training we hope to give in the schools of journalism. If that is supplemented by knowledge of technique and phraseology, the ability to write and use that marvellously fluid instrument of torture and education, the English language, we have done something to promote the interests of journalism, and the interest of the Commonwealth and the world as well. (Applause.)

"It is to be a free journalism the journalism of to-morrow; no shareholders' dividends; no commands of the chief of staff; no nerve of the pocket will turn a man from his own conscientious idea of right or wrong. 'We must be free or die, who speak the tongue that Shakespeare spoke, the faith and morals hold that Milton held.' (Applause.) Then skilled journalism in its final form must be sympathetic, human, and always at the public service. Above all, the entire Commonwealth must have the ear and heart and brain of the public journal at its command. (Applause.)

The chairman proposed the health of Mr. M'Millan, one of the founders of the institute here, who is about to make a trip to Great Britain. In the course of his reply Mr. M'Millan emphasised the need for a School of Journalism in connection with the Sydney University. Theirs was a noble profession. They were the preachers and teachers of the world, and should be thoroughly educated for their work.

MINING.

LONDON VALUES EASIER.

METALS SLACKER.

LOCAL PRICES A FRACTION DOWN.

The position of the market yesterday morning was that prices were slightly easier all round. This was attributed to a slight sagging of share values in London on Thursday, which, in turn, was held to be due to slightly lower rates ruling for copper and lead.

Some operators were inclined to think that the local market took the easier tone of the London Stock Exchange too much to heart, but there were others who were just as insistent that the easier movement was not very pronounced, and that altogether the tone of the market was distinctly sound. They were equally emphatic in expressing the opinion that if metals recover in price, so will share values.

That London was slightly easier on Thursday, is shown by the fact that the following stocks were quoted lower in the following amounts:—B.H. Proprietary, /6; B.H. Norths, /3; B.H. Block 10, /3; B.H. Souths, 2/6; Mount Lyells, /3; Zinc Corporation, /3; British, /6; and Great Cobars, /9. The stocks unchanged in prices were:—Mount Elliotts, 83/9; Mount Morgans, 65/7½; and Hampdens, 33/6; whilst Golden Horseshoes eased 1/3.

In the local transactions recorded, British (old) eased from 45/4½ to 44/3, B.H. Junctions from 3/6 to 3/2, B.H. Junction North from 15/10½ to 15/5, and B.H. Souths (con.) from £8/9/ to £8/5/.

In the copper division, Hampdens receded 1/1½, Mount Morgans chanced hands 1/ down, and Mount Oxide Options 10/ lower at £28 for cash.

In gold stocks, Great Southern Consols firmed from 11/6 to 12/9, and Occidental from 5/2 to 5/3, but Hawkin's Hill Reward receded 2/4.

Sales on steady lines were booked in Ardlethan tin stocks, especially in the case of Carpathias and Wild Cherry.

The feature of the afternoon business which was on a more limited scale than has been the case for several days past, was the attention devoted to Ardlethan stocks, and the solid character of the sales recorded. This was particularly the case with Wild Cherry paid and contributing, the latter especially commanding firm support—in fact they were higher than the paid scrip. Southern Cross were also dealt in at firmer prices, whilst White Crystals (con.) sold at 6/9, with buyers unsupplied at 7/ at the close of the day. Carpathia (paid) also held a firm position.

Except for a slight decline in B.H. Norths, Barriers did not exhibit any inherent signs of weakness. True, some fluctuated a little, but the movements were fractionally small. With both the Adelaide and the Melbourne Stock Exchanges presenting a steady front, there was no disposition locally to hammer prices.

In the opinion of most operators, the future tone of the market depends wholly and solely on the state of the London Stock Exchange, and metal values. As to the latter, our London correspondent, cabling at the close of Thursday's business, shows that, except in the case of pig-iron, values eased all round in the case of spot prices, but the three months forward quotations denoted improved rates in the case of copper and tin.

MINING IN THE STATE.

LITHGOW, Friday.

A report from Sunny Corner is as follows:—The West Mitchell battery is being overhauled, and got ready for crushing several small parcels of stone from the Big Hill, to be treated on account of local prospectors; also another lot from "Bushrangers" for a Portland syndicate. J. Mitchell has been prospecting at Bob's Creek, and has trial crushing awaiting treatment. At the Sunny Corner mine there are about on the surface 700 tons of ore, valued at £4 a ton. It should prove useful to anyone enterprising enough to take up the leases.

FEDERAL TERRITORY.

CAPTAIN'S POINT, Friday.

The Governor (Sir Gerald Strickland), with Mr. M. F. Morton, member for the district, and Mr. A. Hay and party, came through from Nowra yesterday morning by motor cars. They were met on arrival by the resident engineer, Mr. W. M'Caffrey, who showed them round the different buildings in process of erection, and buildings already finished. This is the first visit of a State Governor to the Federal territory. The visitors left in the afternoon for Berry, via Nowra. There are now 360 men employed on the Government works in connection with the Naval College works.

THE DYING ROCKCHOPPER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The above cry has been going on for several years past, and no doubt as a result of that cry, the Water and Sewerage Board and the Wages Boards have reduced the hours from 8 to 6 per day, and granted several increases in the wages of the men.

Contractors suffered considerable loss through such increases in pay being granted during the currency of large contracts. Neither the Water and Sewerage Board nor the Government would agree to granting any compensation to the contractors or increasing the contract rates to cover the increases in wages. Consequently, it can be readily understood that instead of the contractors making fortunes out of the works, as the rockchoppers' officials insinuate, they have as a matter of fact suffered severe losses during the past few years on a large proportion of their contracts. To mention one instance, Messrs. R. Gough and Son, secured a large contract some six months ago running into £20,000. They had not proceeded very far, when the labourers' No. 5 board increased the rates of pay to labourers on an average of 15 per cent., and within about a month, the labourers' No. 2 board (Rockchoppers and Sewer Miners) increased the wages of the men under that jurisdiction 11 per cent. The contractors applied for an increase on their schedule rates to cover the increases in wages, but the board refused their request. The contractors then pointed out that as they were likely to be ruined by having to pay these increases, without any return to themselves, they would be unable to continue the contract, except at a very severe loss, and asked to be relieved from finishing the work. This also was refused, consequently they had to continue the work, and suffered a loss of 11 to 15 per cent. on wages, which means 80 per cent. of the expenses of the job.

In view of the fact that on certain classes of work, there is no danger to the health of the men, it is hardly to be expected that contractors would willingly pay the higher rate and allow the men to work the shorter hours, which have been granted purely through reasons of health.

I might also mention that the contractors have always carried out the terms of the various awards under which they are working, without any attempt at evasion, but on the other hand the rockchoppers are continually ignoring the awards, and taking their men off a job whenever it suits them.

I am, etc.,
JOHN C. SOLOMON,
President, Public Works Contractors Association of New South Wales.

NEWCASTLE.

COAL TRADE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Throughout this week the coal cranes have been taxed to their utmost. At the beginning of the week there were not nearly sufficient for the requirements of the trade. Several steamers were held up for three, four, or more days. Other vessels were diverted from coming here. To-day, however, saw a big improvement, there being only a few vessels lying idle waiting for cranes to become available.

The total quantity of coal shipped for export reached 134,131 tons, of which 67,693 were for the Commonwealth and New Zealand ports, and 66,438 for oversea countries. A feature of the trade was 38,017 tons being loaded for shipment to Java.

CASUALTIES.

BOY DROWNED.

HAY, Friday.

Gordon Michael Crawford, nine-year-old son of Frank Crawford, licensee of Tattersall's Hotel, was drowned while bathing in the Murrumbidgee River on Thursday evening.

SULKY OVERTURNS.

BOWRAVILLE, Friday.

When James Bennett was driving along the road near Wirrimbi, a dog ran out at the horse, causing it to bolt. The sulky was overturned, and Bennett was thrown out, spraining his neck. He received other injuries. He was brought to Bowraville.

MINER INJURED.

EMMAVILLE, Friday.

Matthew Dixon, a miner, employed in the deep lead as a shift boss, while blocking out at the rock shaft, was covered by 1½ ton of mullock, which came away. He was rescued by his mates, but it was found that he was seriously hurt. He was conveyed to town, a distance of three miles. The injured man was found to have four ribs broken, and his back seriously hurt.

ABSENCE OF RAIN.

HOT, DRY CONDITIONS.

112 DEG. AT CUDGELLICO.

As the result of a thunderstorm on Thursday night, Coolah had 36 points of rain. This was the only precipitation reported in New South Wales.

The conditions generally were again hot and sultry, and on Thursday some high readings were registered over the greater part of the State.

A southerly change of very weak character reached this coast by night, but, except on the south coast, where it was moderate to fresh, no appreciable cooling was experienced. The wind at Sydney veered to the south at 10.30 p.m., but the greatest velocity attained was only 12 miles per hour.

The maximum temperature in the State on Thursday was 112 deg. at Cudgellico, in the Riverina; next came White Cliffs, Balranald, Barmedman, and Menindie with 109 deg., Euston and Narrandera 108 deg., and Condobolin, Urana, and Jerry's Plains each 107 deg.

There were also a good many other stations with readings over 100 deg., the nearest to the metropolitan area being 101 deg. at Picton. Parramatta recorded 99 deg., but Sydney only reached 82 deg.; this comparatively depressed temperature being due to the influence of the sea breeze.

At 9 a.m. yesterday, except for a little scattered cloud and much haze, the weather was fine generally.

The rear isobars of a "High" rested over N.S.W. yesterday morning, and due to their control, the direction of the wind generally was northerly (N.W. to N.E.). These winds were, for the most part, light, but at scattered places a strong breeze was blowing.

Over the remainder of the continent the predominating feature was heat, for many of the readings exceeded 105 deg. The highest of these were:—Williams' Creek 112 deg., Urandangie 111 deg., Farina 110 deg.; and Charlotte Waters 109 deg.

PIANOS OF PROVED EXCELLENCE.

If, when purchasing a Piano, you expect to obtain an instrument which will give lasting and satisfactory service, DON'T experiment; it's too costly!

You will eliminate all chance of disappointment if you purchase one of our famous models.

For nearly thirty years we have been supplying pianos of the highest grade to many of the best homes in New South Wales, and the increasing business is due solely to the magnificent qualities embodied in these superior instruments.

The rich, mellow tone—the sympathetic touch—the remarkable durability—the handsome appearance, are features which combine to make these instruments so universally and deservedly popular.

Again, you will effect a substantial saving by purchasing at our Warehouse, as we do not merely buy wholesale, nor do we indent, but all instruments are selected at the factory, where we pay spot cash, and every advantage obtained is passed on to our satisfied clients.

Our SOLE AGENCIES comprise the following celebrated "makes":—

(1) The "Schiedmayer," used in most of the Royal Courts of Europe, and has taken first prizes at Exhibitions all over the world.
(2) The celebrated "KRAUSS," whose beautiful singing tone is the talk of the Trade.
(3) The "STEIN," which has become renowned all through the State and other colonies as a marvel of value.
(4) The "RAINSDORF," known by its sweetness and strength of tone, also perfect touch and handsome case.

Owing to the superiority of our instruments many people are parting with their pianos and replacing them with instruments selected from my stock. As a consequence we have among others the following splendid second-hand instruments for sale at reasonable prices:—

"BLUTHNER," "BECHSTEIN," "SCHWACHTEN," "SCHMIDT," "BROADWOOD."

Every new instrument is fully covered with a guarantee. A liberal discount will be allowed for cash, while terms can be arranged to suit clients. Satisfaction is always assured. Write now for catalogues to

99 and 101 York-street,
SYDNEY.

STECK.
No matter how much a Piano may be forced to the front by means of scientific advertising, the scheme is foiled the moment the Piano cannot be depended upon.
All the claims we have ever made for the STECK PIANO have been within the bounds of truth, and never beyond. We have never said anything regarding the character or nature of the STECK PIANO that was exaggerated, never anything that was immodest, never anything that could be viewed as untruthful by our watchful competitors.
We have always referred to the merits of the STECK PIANO in a modest way, but the STECK always has been, and is to-day, much in advance of many pianos claimed to be superior. We know a better piano cannot be made than the STECK.
Prices, from 88 guineas cash, or extended terms can be arranged.

"THE PRICES OF THESE PIANOS ARE ABSURD"—

said a lady who visited our Showrooms one day last week. She expressed the opinion of hundreds of others who have seen the Pianos—and the prices. And no wonder. Every instrument is of celebrated make, and, combined with the lowness of its price, represents value positively without equal.

MUSIC-STUDY.
Formerly if a young lady said she was "studying music," people took it for granted that she was learning to play the Piano.

Hand-playing for those who have real talent for it. Pianola-playing for those who have neither the talent nor the time, but still want to know something of good music.
Prices from 66 Guineas, or extended terms can be arranged.

ACCOUNTANCY—ITS VALUE.

Why is it that Accountants are so often members of the Directorate of large Companies, or so often occupy Managerial positions? Do you know that a study of Accountancy would afford you the best training in business affairs that you could possibly obtain—that an Accountancy Degree would "hall-mark" your ability and open the way to a better and more congenial position.

METHODS OF STUDY. But your methods of study must be sound and on right lines, under a qualified, capable instructor—not mere examination "cramming." Our written lectures will give you the best from the world's professional literature; the personal correction of your papers by Mr. C. Bartle, A.C.P.A., will disclose all your weaknesses; our Model answers will show you the best and most rapid methods of working.

GUARANTEE. We believe it to be well worth while to establish confidence in the minds of intending students, and as our proportion of failures has been so small we are prepared to guarantee that if students are unsuccessful in passing their examinations at their first attempt WE WILL COACH THEM TILL THEY ARE SUCCESSFUL, WITHOUT FURTHER CHARGE. Could we make a fairer or more convincing offer?

Isn't it worth your while to learn more about the possibilities the field of Accountancy offers, or about our methods of instruction? Then, clip this advertisement, attaching your name and address, and we will, as a matter of business and without ANY obligation to you, forward our 16-page booklet, "A Profitable Profession," and our brochure entitled, "How to Study Accountancy." Don't delay—don't put off your good intentions till to-morrow, but clip address and post TO-DAY—NOW!

MOTOR DRIVING MEANS MORE MONEY.

If the experience is gained where the reputation for first-class training is sound, and will stand investigation. People from the country frequently tell us that Motor Schools in Sydney are notorious for charging high fees without giving proper tuition. Now we consider this a slur upon the name we have for fair dealing. 30 PUPILS PASSED CITY POLICE TEST last month.

By all means avoid institutions whose reputation is unknown or doubtful. In order to convince those who may be contemplating entering this well-paid and interesting profession, that DOHERTY AND ADAMS' MOTOR SCHOOL is entirely above suspicion, we earnestly solicit thorough searching inquiries. We will gladly show original letters from satisfied pupils, also others from Motor Car Importers and Engineers of the highest standing in Sydney, who not only send outside inquirers, but even their own.

VALUED CLIENTS TO OUR MOTOR SCHOOL. Five minutes' interview with us will cost you nothing, but may save you keen disappointment in the future. Call or write for Testimonials. 64 OXFORD-STREET, CITY. Tel., Wm. st 284. Read Monday's Ad.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

DESTROYED BY DANNEBROG.

For many years the women of Australia sought a remedy in vain. There were electrical and other methods; but these did not suffice. Then Madame Frokjar, Graduate Royal Massage College, Copenhagen, brought to Australia Dannebrog, an old Danish remedy. Practising, as many people know, quietly in Australia for 12 years, it's fame as a benefactor to womenkind spread.

The success of Dannebrog is wonderful. Ladies wishing consultations are invited to call to-day at the Leading Institute, Temple-court, King and Elizabeth streets, Sydney. Take lift, fifth floor. Telephone, City 3473. Success shown before payment. Postal treatment for country clients.

Also at Melbourne, Adelaide, Ballarat, Bendigo, and Geelong.

TEA—INCOMPARABLE LIPTON'S.

According to the poet, "man wants but little here below." This statement is to be accepted tolerantly as poetic license. However, if he wants little here below, modern exigencies demand that his helpmate should get the best.

THEREFORE, INSIST ON HAVING LIPTON'S QUALITY TEA.

Lipton's great expert, Mr. H. C. Till, guarantees that the tea offered to the Australian public is the purest and the highest grade Tea in the world.

PRICES, 1/3 TO 2/ PER LB.

It is identically similar to the tea supplied to the English, German, Spanish, and Italian Royal Houses. ASK FOR LIPTON'S TEA. REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.

'Phone, 2057 City, or send Postal Notes to Lipton Ltd., 414 Kent-street, and we will forward orders Carriage Paid.

Send Stamp for Free Sample, mentioning price.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

Superfluous Hair positively and painlessly destroyed by the Savarena Method. No painful mechanical appliances used. Savarena is the only combination treatment known, one which strikes at the cause, and removes all unnatural skin conditions, i.e., Blackheads, Pimples, Tan, etc., etc.

One Fee, "which may be arranged," covers the cost of cure, which is guaranteed. I especially wish those sufferers who have TRIED all other remedies, and failed, to consult me. Unless I can prove all I say I do not wish you to take up this treatment.

Consultation Free. Country clients treated by post. Fees, from 10/6.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Savarena Scientific Massage restores the glow of youth and stimulates the sluggish circulation, removes tired lines, wrinkles, and all imperfections of the skin. Trial treatment. Advice Free.

HAVE YOUR SUPERFLUOUS HAIR PERMANENTLY REMOVED BY ELECTROLYSIS

What are you going to do about that disfiguring growth of hair on your face?

Don't continue to pull the hairs out, because in time you will increase the growth tenfold, and the hairs will gradually grow stronger, coarser, and uglier.

There is no successful home treatment for PERMANENTLY removing SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS.

ELECTROLYSIS is a certain, safe, and satisfactory cure, and is recommended by the Medical Profession. However, you cannot do this for yourself, any more than you can be your own dentist. It must be performed by an EXPERT.

I AM AN ELECTROLYSIS EXPERT, and will remove your Superfluous Hairs

without causing you the slightest pain or discomfort.

Do not put the matter off until another time. Make up your mind to call and see me during the week. REMEMBER, paying me a visit places you under no obligation whatever.

GIVE YOURSELF A CHANCE.

If you could only realise the great danger of having even a single decayed tooth, you would immediately have it either repaired or removed. Its retention means that you are in a constant danger of blood poisoning—ask any doctor.

Besides, the most common cause of neuralgia and headache is dental decay, especially in the upper jaw. The doctor, if he still exists, who advises drugs without first examining or inquiring after the teeth, is either irresponsible or incompetent. No one averts or cures so much neuralgia and headache as the Dentist.

Those who suffer from the above complaints should never resort to drugs until they have had the attention of a thoroughly qualified dentist.

Come to Spencer Nolan with your tooth troubles, and have them expertly, painlessly, and inexpensively remedied.

The great care that the ancient Romans bestowed on their hair repaid them again and again. Not only did it prevent premature greyness, but it preserved its abundance. Therefore, modern woman will heartily welcome J.S.W. Hair Foods, which combine all those ingredients that experience has proved to be wholesome and beneficial. They produce excellent results in all hair troubles, invigorating the roots and endowing the hair with that softness and sheen which count for so much in woman's beauty. "SOROSIS"

Footwear.

McCATHIES, LTD.,

THE BUSIEST SHOP IN SYDNEY.

LADIES, TAKE TIME AND THINK BEFORE YOU TOUCH YOUR

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS,

for if you are not careful of what you do you will spend time, money, and many hours of sorrow when you find the little hairs YOU THOUGHT you had so CAREFULLY DESTROYED peeping through the surface.

I ASK YOU NOW,
HOW MANY OF YOU SIT IN FRONT of your mirrors and say:—"If I had only reasoned before I touched the hair I might have known I would only break and remove the top of the hairs." THE FOLLICLE MUST BE DESTROYED and

THE HAIR REMOVED.

"I must ask the aid of someone who has made a study, and had some experience, for, like everything in life, it takes years to become perfect; but it is through many failings we find success."

NOW, ONE WORD OF ADVICE.

Come to the expert of thirteen years' standing, and you can have all the superfluous growths removed; and,

THINK OF IT, I WILL FORFEIT £100 IF I FAIL TO CURE YOU, so call and see me, and have a trial treatment FREE OF CHARGE, then take the hairs away and have them examined under a microscope; you will see the root of the hairs.

THIS MUST CONVINCE YOU.

You will, perhaps, not come to me, thinking my fees will be too high; IN THAT IDEA YOU ARE MISTAKEN, as I guarantee to remove so many hairs and you can take twelve months to have the number specified removed.

FACE MASSAGE.

The system I employ improves the skin greatly, by increasing the sluggish circulation, emptying out the secluded pores of harmful secretions, gives tone to the skin itself through the agency of proper exercise, so commonly neglected, and, finally, builds up the lazy, tired, and unused or wrongly used muscles of the face. Sometimes it is necessary to use a skin and tissue builder; this I have found in

NETTOYER FACE CREAM.

It will feed up the starved tissue of the skin; it helps to clear the skin; and is invaluable for use before applying powder to the face.
GUARANTEED NOT TO PROMOTE SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.
PRICE, 3/6 Small Pot, 6/ Large Pot; Postage 6d extra.

FRECKLES,

TRY NETTOYER FRECKLE CREAM.

It will remove them, and also whiten the skin. Only one price, 5/ per pot, 6d extra for postage.

"HE IS A GOOD DENTIST."

"Did it hurt, old man?"

"Hurt? Not a bit! I did not even feel those abscessed teeth coming out. There's no doubt about it—Mr. Reaney IS a splendid dentist!"

Word for word, this conversation is true. It eventuated over a patient who had just had FIVE abscessed teeth extracted under DENTIST REANEY'S Special Painless Method. It is not overdrawn, but stands as a sample opinion of every Reaney Patient.

You will think the same after ONE Extraction. Painless Extractions under my EXCLUSIVE Painless System .... 2/6 per tooth.
